Nation-wide Check Shows President In Best Position Since Convention

By George Gallup
Director American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 23.—The latest Nation-wide political poll finds President Truman in the best position since the nominating conventions in June.

While Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican candidate, still holds a substantial lead in popularity, Mr. Truman has gained in recent weeks. The poll, completed just before he started on his Western campaign swing, shows the following trend:

"If the presidential election were being held TODAY how would you vote—for Truman, Dewey, Wallace or some other candidate?"

The vote:

	June	Aug. 22	Today
Dewey	49%	48%	46½%
Truman	38	37	39
Wallace	6	4	3½
Thurmond	—	2	2
Others	*	*	*
No opinion	7	9	9

*Less than 1 per cent.

Norman Thomas, Socialist Party candidate, runs ahead of the other minor party candidates, although all minor parties combined poll a total of less than one per cent. Minor parties with candidates entered include the Socialist Workers Party, the Socialist Labor Party, the Prohibition Party, the Greenback Party, the Vegetarian Party and several others.

The Truman gain found in today's poll is also reflected in the Institute's most recent survey of one of the key States in the election—California. As reported yesterday, the poll found a 6 per cent gain for Mr. Truman in California as compared to early September.

However, the percentage that President Truman polls in the November election will still depend to a considerable extent on how successful the Democrats are in arousing interest in the election and stimulating a big turnout.

If voter apathy continues and turnout falls considerably under the 58 million votes, which would be a normal turnout for 1948, that would be a factor unfavorable to Mr. Truman and favorable to Governor Dewey.

One of the best indices of probable turnout in November is voter registration in New York City, which begins next Monday, September 27. The percentage increase in the total number of registrations, as compared to 1944, will give a fairly reliable indication of how much the national turnout will increase in November as compared to 1944 when 47,974,868 votes were cast. Generally speaking, a small turnout hurts the Democrats because the stay-at-homes are predominately Democratic in sentiment; or to put it another way, there is usually more voter apathy among Democratic ranks than among Republican ranks.

The importance to the Democrats of getting out a big vote is shown in a special analysis in today's poll based on the question, "How certain are you that you will vote?"

This shows that people who are not certain that they will vote or who don't plan to vote at all tend to favor Mr. Truman more than Governor Dewey.

In short, if the Democrats could overcome apathy and stay-at-homeism, their candidate would poll a higher percentage on election day.

"How certain are you that you will vote in the election?"

	Absolutely Certain	Uncertain	Don't plan to vote
Favor Dewey	52%	41%	27%
Favor Truman	37	46	37
Favor Wallace	4	2	5
Favor Thurmond	2	2	5
No choice at present	5	9	30

Dewey Holds Atom Weapons Vital

Truman Says 3d Party Vote Would Aid 'Reactionary' GOP

Governor Also Sees Peaceful Uses Under Civilian Development

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 23.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey tonight promised to "back to the hilt" the search for new military uses of atomic energy, under United States Government monopoly, until Russia lifts her threat of aggression and agrees to act in "good faith" for international control.

The GOP nominee discussed the undreamed of peacetime possibilities of atomic energy not far from the scene of the first atomic bomb explosion three years ago in neighboring New Mexico.

He told an audience here in Montgomery Stadium that atomic weapons in our hands will never be used for aggression against any people. But for the present, he said, it must remain our secret—"a powerful restraint upon the aggressions of others."

Peaceful Use Visualized

Dipping into Democratic Arizona, where no Senate seat is at stake, and only four presidential electoral votes can be won, Gov. Dewey soft-pedaled politics and outlined his hopes for the atomic future, "if we can rid the world of the overshadowing threat of war."

Dewey said the full peacetime "blessings" of atomic energy will never be realized until American scientists are freed of "the dead hand of political authority" but the know-how and exclusive Government research into military uses must be "maintained at all costs for the present.

"I propose that we protect this weapon of our defense with every means and that we develop it further with every means," he said. "And then I propose that we go on from there and give American initiative and skill a chance to turn this power to productive and peaceful account."

All day Governor Dewey had stumped this arid State just as thoroughly as if there were pivotal votes in those canyons. At Winslow, he was greeted by a Hopi Indian band and about 1000 open-faced natives. Nearly 3000 turned out at Flagstaff and 1200 at Williams to hear the same chatty "rain-making" speech he has delivered party shows that this party does not represent American ideals," he said.

It was the first time he had mentioned the former Vice President and Cabinet officer since last St. Patrick's Day. On that occasion, at a dinner in New York, he said that he would rather go down to defeat than accept the support of "Wallace and his Communists."

"Championship Fight"

The Chief Executive, in a two-fisted attack, also tore into his Republican opposition, saying it was ducking the issues and trying to lull the voters to sleep with "high-level platitudes."

"This is a championship fight," Mr. Truman said. "And I am convinced of one thing: The American people are sold on the idea that nobody deserves to win a championship fight running away. I do not believe that anybody is going to win this fight by running away from the record or ducking the issues."

He did not mention Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his Republican opponent, but there was no need to

Jacket Promises New Clew In Hunt for Girl's Slayers

Maryland State police rushed to Bel Air, Md., last night on a new lead in the mysterious killing of a youthful Glen Burnie couple last weekend—the discovery of a jacket, believed to belong to the girl who was slain.

The coat was found near Bel Air on Route 1, about 25 miles north of Baltimore, according to police. State troopers were dispatched to pick up the garment for examination in Baltimore.

Whether it belonged to the 18-year-old secretary who was murdered while on a date with John H. Mahlan, 25, a postal clerk in Glen Burnie, could not immediately be determined.

Anne Arundel County police in the meantime pressed their relentless search for the killer on the theory that Miss Kline had been held and terrorized for some six hours after her companion was shot and killed.

Investigators admitted they were still baffled in efforts to grasp any conclusive evidence in the case, but tracked down every available clew that filtered in from innumerable sources.

Chief John H. Souers said autopsy reports led to the conclusion that the girl, whose body was found Monday alongside that of her 25-year-old companion, John H. Mahlan, was held and terrorized for some six hours after he was killed.

He said the postmortem examinations showed Mahlan had been dead longer. His body was hunched up, as if it had been in a car for several hours before it was dumped. Miss Kline's body was stretched out, as though she had been lifted from a car, still limp, after being shot in the head.

Another lead which cropped up during the day and spurred State police in their investigation was a report from Annapolis that a tavern had been raided by supposedly armed men at about 3:30 a. m.

Maryland State Police said they were still keeping a lookout for the Mysterious Fever Hits SE Section

32 Cases Recorded; Providence Hospital Staff Members Were First Victims

Outbreak here of a mystery fever, with diarrhea and influenza-like symptoms, was reported yesterday by the District Health Department. At least 32 cases were recorded by last night.

The malady, ranging from mild to severe in its attacks, runs its course of chills, headaches, sore throat and muscles and intestinal disorder in "about two days," said Dr. James G. Cumming, director of the department's division of preventable diseases. Temperatures range up to 104.

It was first reported at Providence Hospital here after a dozen or more hospital personnel, nurses and physicians became ill. Food poisoning was first suspected, but was later ruled out after exhaustive study.

Since the illnesses among the hospital staff, some 20 similar cases, from the Southeast area, have been treated for similar symptoms at the hospital's emergency room and sent home. Physicians at the hospital said they had received reports of other cases being handled by neighborhood physicians.

Dr. Henry G. Hadley, who operates a private hospital and clinic at 1252 6th st. sw., said he had received "more than a dozen" telephone calls from persons suffering the symptoms. None, however, applied for treatment, he said.

Dr. Cumming said the ailment was "probably a virus infection" since tests yielded no positive findings. Viruses are too small to be observed except by electron microscopes where enlargements are more than 40,000 times normal.

The cases recalled a reported epidemic of "Virus X" last December on the West Coast with somewhat similar symptoms. The designation was given by newspapers for lack of medical identification to the malady.

Tracing the history of the present outbreak here at Providence Hospital, the Health Department announcement noted that two obstetrical cases were admitted to the hospital on September 13 and 14. The patients, who had lived together, showed the symptoms that later became characteristic.

These included an onset of chills, headaches, muscular aches and sore throat. Abdominal symptoms appeared later, and after diarrhea was noted the patients were placed in isolation, the announcement said.

Later, nurses, physicians and attendants became ill, some with abdominal cramps alone, others with cramps and diarrhea. All showed high temperatures.

Blood tests, said the Health Department, showed white blood count ranged from 5500 to 21,000. Normal count, it was explained, is about 7000; appendicitis ranges to 14,000, and pneumonia to 22,000. The ailment was diagnosed as an infection.

District health officers said food poisoning was ruled out because:

Marshall Affirms U. S. Policy Is Peace Without Compromise; Europe May Ask Arms Pledge

If Berlin Solution Is Assumed by U. N., American Military Aid Will Be Sought

By Joseph E. Dynan

Paris, Sept. 23 (AP).—Reliable informants said tonight that if the Berlin deadlock with Russia is taken up in the United Nations, the United States will face immediate demands for guarantees of military support for western Europe.

Sir Hartley Shawcross, Britain's U. N. delegate, was quoted in an interview with the Associated Press as saying "the whole question of Berlin will be tossed into the Assembly agenda if the latest and final three-power note does not produce a Russian agreement."

A spokesman for the British Foreign Office denied several hours after the interview that Shawcross had made the statement.

The Associated Press reporter said he asked direct questions and received direct answers in his brief talk with Shawcross on the floor of the U. N. Assembly.

Western officials scheduled a meeting for Friday, at which it was expected they would thresh out finally the question of whether the case would be handed to the Assembly or the Security Council in event of an unfavorable Soviet reaction to their latest note to the Kremlin.

French officials, resigning themselves to eventual transfer of the stormy Berlin issue to the U. N. arena, were said to be especially anxious for their nation's security in the aftermath of a United Nations debate.

The identical notes by the United States, Britain and France which were sent to the Kremlin last night demanding a yes-or-no answer to definite proposals on the Berlin issue were said to have been agreed upon after a direct appeal by French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. Schuman asked for a little more patience in dealing with the Russians.

At the Western Ministers' first meeting in Paris this week it was reported United States Secretary of State Marshall urged putting the issue up to the U. N. right away. Schuman was said to have turned to Marshall and said in effect:

What if this step wrecks the U. N.? What if this leads to war? Will the United States guarantee our safety?

As a concession to Schuman's viewpoint, the other ministers then decided to make a final effort to settle the Berlin matter by direct negotiation with Moscow.

The note, about 500 words long and in sharp terms, was in the hands of Russia's officials today, while the American, British and

'Strife' Making Britain Rearm; Laborite Asks U. S. Troops

London, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Defense Minister A. V. Alexander told the Commons today that Britain is building up its armed forces immediately because of "unrest, riots and strife in many parts of the world."

During the debate which followed, former War Secretary F. J. Ballenger, Laborite member of Parliament, said "it is not sufficient for America merely to supply dollars. She has got to supply some of the manpower, too, and she is not doing that today. If that great nation were to provide a substantial proportion of manpower for the defense of western Europe, it would have a great effect on Moscow and those who reside in the Kremlin."

Talks on defense and strategy are continuing among the British Commonwealth, the United States and countries of western Europe, War Minister Emanuel Shinwell told the Commons at conclusion of the debate.

Alexander opened the full-dress debate on defense by observing that the United Nations is not providing the collective security for which the British Empire had hoped.

He said the production of latest-type jet interceptor planes is being doubled, wartime planes are being reconditioned, and the production of armored vehicles is being increased.

The defense minister spoke solemnly to a hushed house. He gave no details and was purposely vague on figures.

"The trend of recent events has been such as to encourage us to make public more information than we have hitherto," he explained.

Alexander said Britain is strengthening its armed forces to meet all possible commitments and situations.

He said Britain is:

1. Calling a conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers.

2. Slowing the armed forces demobilization program so the total strength by next April will be 790,000.

3. Opening intensive recruiting campaigns for the home forces and the territorial army.

4. Training thousands in civil defense and anti-aircraft work.

6. Stepping up armamentts production.

[The Associated Press said Alexander declared that Britain's rearmament program is moving so fast he had no figures on its cost. The defense minister said all men and women who served in Britain's wartime armies are subject to recall. Britain never has ended the World War II emergency.]

Says Our Patience Has Limit and Warns Of 'Tragic Error' in Thinking Us Weak

From Press Dispatches

Paris, Sept. 23.—Secretary of State George C. Marshall told the U. N. General Assembly today that the United States will do its utmost for peace, but it will not compromise essential principles or barter away the rights and freedoms of other peoples.

He gave plain warning that the patience of the United States should not be mistaken for weakness. That would be a tragic error, he said.

In a complete outline of American foreign policy, Marshall pledged that the United States will seek in every possible way to end the present tension and uncertainty.

He pointed up his speech with a quotation from the United Nations Charter: "We the peoples of the United Nations are determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war. . . .

"Three years later," Marshall said, "we are confronted with the need to save not only succeeding generations, but our own."

He said that "systematic and deliberate denials of basic human rights lie at the root of most of our trouble and threaten the work of the U. N."

In conclusion he said:

"The United States does not wish to increase existing tension. It is its whole-hearted desire to alleviate that tension. But we will not compromise essential principles. We will under no circumstances barter away the rights and freedoms of other peoples. We earnestly hope that all members will find ways of contributing to the lessening of tensions and the promotion of peace with justice. The peoples of the earth are anxiously watching our efforts here. We must not disappoint them."

Marshall spoke at the opening of general debate in the third World Assembly of the 58 United Nations.

His speech did not mention Russia or her satellites by name and its tone was temperate and even conciliatory throughout, always with the warning that the United

Marshall, Mrs. Roosevelt Tell Hopes for Peace

Paris, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Secretary of State Marshall and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt both expressed hope for lasting peace in addressing the Franco-American Friendship group of the French Parliament today.

Marshall said the United States will do its best to bring about a peaceful adjustment of "world problems."

"I am absolutely certain that our sincerity and honest purpose will carry us through," he said.

Mrs. Roosevelt said, "I believe that together the United States and the countries of Europe can reach lasting peace."

'Real' Military Unification Move Afoot

Key Congressional Figures Meet With Hoover Commission

By the United Press

New moves toward "real unification" of the armed services were discussed yesterday at a three-hour closed meeting attended by members of key Senate and House committees.

The congressional group met informally to exchange views with representatives of former President Herbert Hoover's Commission on Reorganization of the Government.

The commission is now drawing up broad recommendations for streamlining Federal agencies to reduce costs and increase efficiency. These proposals will be laid before the new Congress next January.

Ferdinand Eberstadt, chairman of the "task force" assigned by Hoover to study the armed forces, and seven prominent citizens on his subcommittee represented the commission. Members of the Appropriations and Armed Services Committees of both houses attended.

Although the session was officially labeled "confidential," it was disclosed that a number of the legislators expressed keen disappointment with the progress made in reorganizing the defense establishment under the "Unification Act," passed last year.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, jr., (R., Mass.) urged that a single chief of staff be named for all of the military forces, to replace the present system in which each of the three services has its own representative in a top command called the joint chiefs of staff.

Lodge also demanded greater authority for the Secretary of Defense, and suggested that the subordinate secretaryships of the

Athens Reports Wounding of Gen. Markos

Red Chieftain Said To Be Recuperating In Albanian Town

Athens, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Communist Gen. Markos Vafiades was wounded in fighting in northern Greece and is recuperating in a hospital at Tirana, Albania, Greek military circles reported tonight.

Informants were uncertain whether Vafiades was hurt during the past few days' bitter fighting in the Vitsi area or in last month's campaign when the Greek army routed guerillas from the Grammos mountains.

They said Vafiades' armies have broken through Greek army lines near the Albanian border and threaten the large town of Kastoria, 12 miles from the frontier.

The capture of Kastoria as a "capital of free Greece," they said, would give the Communists a strong bargaining point both with the United Nations and the Greek government.

A government communique yesterday admitted there was fighting in the Kastoria area, but it did not mention the breakthrough. It said the "bandits" were repulsed in a "strong counterattack" and that 432 were killed and 123 captured in the battle.

Unofficially, army sources admitted guerilla successes started last week when Vafiades' forces, estimated at 6000 strong, penetrated the lines of the United States-equipped Fifteenth Division, whose commander was replaced on the recommendation of United States Maj. Gen. James Van Fleet.

Informants said the guerillas advanced across the open plains to within 8 miles of Kastoria, threatening the vital supply road from Kastoria to Nestorion, on the eastern flank of the Grammos Mountains.

They said Kastoria was not in Loyalty Program Threatened By Politics, Richardson Feels

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

It's time to take a searching look at the Federal worker loyalty program. You should be frightened to see the trend it has taken.

Richardson

Frankly, the loyalty policy is in the hot cross-fire of partisan politics. It's difficult to keep anything on an even keel when that happens. In this case, the program's worthy objective could be lost and a lot of innocent people could be hurt.

The injection of the loyalty program into politics is of grave concern to fair-minded and able people like Seth W. Richardson, chairman of the Civil Service Loyalty Review Board, who has bluntly told friends and associates:

"What may happen over the next month or so could destroy the loyalty program. We must work harder than ever to keep it free from emotional and political judgments."

Richardson is a prominent Republican and Washington attorney who reluctantly accepted the chairmanship of the board "to prevent the program from degenerating into a witch-hunt." The burden on his shoulders was never heavier.

Another top loyalty official has this somber comment:

"If this hadn't been a political year the program would have run along like clockwork and every employe would have been given a square deal. No one can tell now what will happen. I'm afraid to say what I really think."

Then he added slowly: "The only person who will get hurt in this mixing of loyalty into politics is the Federal worker."

The many agency loyalty boards, too, are feeling the white heat of political pressure. In fact, there is wide agitation among agency board members to get off the hot spots. This view of one board member was seconded by half a dozen others. He confessed sheepishly:

"Employes have been and will be rated disloyal and ineligible to hold their Federal jobs who would have been cleared for lack of sufficient and convincing evidence a few months ago."

I asked the obvious question—"Why?" And he explained:

"The pressure—real and potential—is too much for civil servants to take. We're now reluctant to clear a fellow who is charged with a few minor and perhaps unsubstantiated indiscretions for fear of being hauled up before a congressional committee at some future date and made to justify our decision because additional evidence and subsequent acts by the employe may make his disloyalty provable."

He added a bit sadly: "We'd never be credited with rendering an honest decision by Congress and our own careers would be ruined."

The agency board member said the pressure had become "unbearable." He suggested this course of action, which is known to have been discussed by top officials:

1. That the many agency loyalty boards be abolished to take their rank-and-file members off the spot and to protect them from political recriminations;

2. That all cases of employes where full-field FBI investigations are made be sent direct to the

Court Holds Union Can Force Firms to Bargain on Pensions

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals held today that qualified unions can require employers to bargain with them about pensions.

The court also upheld the constitutionality of a provision of the Taft-Hartley law requiring union officials to sign affidavits that they are not Communists.

The ruling sustained a National Labor Relations Board order that the Inland Steel Co., must discuss pensions with the CIO United Steelworkers—if union officers sign non-Communist affidavits.

If upheld, by the United States Supreme Court, lawyers said, the ruling will:

1. Bring the entire subject of pension or retirement plans within the realm of collective bargaining. The order will apply to all unionized companies in interstate commerce—whether or not a pension plan now exists. Employers will have to consult the reorganized bargaining agent before changing the existing pension program.

2. Deprive unions of the services of the National Labor Relations Board in collective bargaining elections and other matters unless union officials comply with the non-Communist provisions of the Taft-Hartley law.

Officials of several big unions, including the CIO United Steel Workers, the United Mine Workers and the CIO Longshoremen, have refused to sign non-Communist affidavits.

The court agreed unanimously on the pension issue but split 2-1 on the legality of the non-Communist oath requirement.

The company said it would appeal.

The court held that pensions fell into the category of "other conditions of employment." As a condition of employment, the court said, it is a fit subject for collective bargaining.

Wholesale Prices Hit New High for 60-Year Period

Wholesale prices during the week that ended September 18 hit an all-time high for the 60 years the Bureau of Labor Statistics has been keeping tabs on them, it reported yesterday.

A new record index of 169.4 was marked up during the week. The previous high, in May 1920, was 167.2.

The average prices for the year 1926 are considered normal, or 100, in figuring the wholesale index.

The bureau has figures going back to the Revolutionary war, when there was a slightly higher index, exceeding 170 in the aftermath of that conflict.

But only 25 commodities were taken into consideration in the post-revolution study, done for Congress. Today more than 900 items in the wholesale market are recorded to arrive at the index, which had been kept continuously for the past 60 years.

The bureau also recorded a new high in weekly earnings of factory workers. The average was $53.86 at mid-August, as compared to $53.08 in July.

Muso, of the Black Fez and Red Party Line, Sets Java's Vexed Caldron Seething Anew

Java, famed for its coffee flavor, is steeped in bitter brew. It's the old story of too many cooks. For months the pot's been savagely stirred by rival Dutch and Republican governments. Now, apparently the Kremlin has reached out a hand and violently seized the ladle.

A Moscow-trained man of mystery has slipped into this still mysterious island to brew rebellion. He is called Muso. A few days ago, his Communist irregulars captured Madioen, and today columns of the Indonesian Republic are marching on the city to quell the revolt.

Twenty-two years ago, Muso, an elementary school teacher, participated in a west Java revolt against the Dutch. The uprising failed, and Muso beat it. He showed up in Singapore, only to be kicked out of the British crown colony. He then headed for China, it is believed, and moved on to Moscow, where he patiently waited and trained for "Der Tag."

Muso returned to Java in August, unrecognized. Although somewhat tall for a Javanese, Muso had put weight on his stocky body. He was round-faced and looked well fed. A Moslem tarboosh topped his gray hair. The long-exiled teacher had difficulty with Javanese, so spoke "Bazaar Malay" instead. And he used the name "Suparto."

To complete his Trojan Horse disguise, the 50-year-old Muso reentered Java as private secretary to a Dr. Suripno, who'd been sent to Czechoslovakia as Ambassador from the republican government. In Prague, the envoy disclosed he was not at all a republican sympathizer but actually a Communist. Suripno was recalled, and he returned with Muso.

Once back in his native country, Muso quickly unmasked himself, preached a fierce anti-American, pro-Russian line, and took over control of the Partai Kommunis Indonesia (PKI). He then —following the pattern of the Communists in eastern Europe— merged the Socialist and Labor Parties into his own organization. And in less than a month engineered the current revolt.

Centuries ago the Hindus invaded tropical Java. Then the land of the one-horned rhinoceros was conquered by the Moslems. Most Javans are even today Mohammedan by religion. Marco Polo rediscovered the exotic island in the thirteenth century. The Dutch moved in around 1600 and they're still in, at least with one heavy foot.

The Japanese occupied Java during the recent war. In the period between Japan's surrender and the return of the Netherlands crown officials, the Republic of Indonesia was proclaimed, taking in part of the Dutch East Indies, including a portion of populous Java.

After sporadic fighting, the Dutch proposed, instead of independence, the gradual formation of a United States of Indonesia, and the establishment of an Indonesian-Netherlands Union under the Dutch Queen. Hostilities broke out again, and a new truce was arranged aboard the United States destroyer Renville by a United Nations "good offices" commission.

That was last January. Since then, the republic and the crown have been getting nowhere in their peace negotiations, and the Dutch have tightened their strangulating trade blockade around republic territory.

Into the midst of this boil-and-bubble pops Muso, complete with black fez and Red line.

Reds, Republic Troops Fight Heavily in Java

Batavia, Java, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Heavy fighting was reported today between Communists and Indonesian republic troops near Magetan, 12 miles southeast of Madioen which the Communists seized September 18.

Radio Jogjakarta said in a broadcast from the republican capital that the government had mounted a three-pronged offensive in an effort to recapture Madioen.

The broadcast said Indonesian forces were within 13 miles of Madioen.

A Communist broadcast said martial law had been declared in Communist-held areas because of the "tense situation."

Radio Jogjakarta said 10 high-ranking Indonesian army officers had been dismissed for taking part in the Communist uprising, believed to have been organized by Muso, a Communist leader who recently returned to Java after 23 years of exile in Russia. The broadcast said seized documents indicated a nation-wide Communist coup had been planned for November.

Greek reinforcements halted the guerilla advance, but there were indications that morale is low in army ranks.

The Greek general staff announced tonight that guerilla ranks number between 20,000 and 21,000 —several thousand more than last year. The continued strengthening of anti-government forces was attributed to steady recruiting among dissatisfied elements, kidnapings and aid from Slav Macedonians along the northern frontiers.

Hong Kong, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The death toll in yesterday's Chinese tenement fire rose to 120 today, and authorities said more bodies were believed buried in the ruins. The fire was started by a chemical explosion in a warehouse.

2 Nations Ask U. N. for Speed On Palestine

Paris, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The Palestine problem was put formally on the program of the United Nations Assembly today and Britain and Lebanon asked that the Bernadotte plan be considered as soon as possible.

The Assembly's general, or steering, committee put the Palestine problem on the program, as well as the question of the future of Ital's colonies.

United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall asked that the Assembly give "sympathetic consideration" to the request of United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie for a small guard force to aid U. N. missions.

Russian Delegate Jacob Malik tried vainly to keep Lie's guard proposal off the program at the steering committee.

The committee also included the question of freedom of information on the program.

Navy Task Force Set to Sail for Far East Oct. 1

Naval Task Force 38, operating with two carriers and supporting warships, will sail for Far East ports, including China, October 1.

Navy spokesmen said yesterday the carriers Tarawa and Princeton and their screening craft would be on a "regularly scheduled routine cruise," visiting the "usual ports" of Yokosuka in Japan and Tsingtao in China.

It is expected one, or perhaps two, destroyer divisions (usually four ships) and three cruisers will accompany the 27,000-ton Essex class carriers.

$20,000 Posted For Murderers Of Bernadotte

Tel Aviv, Sept. 23 (NYHT).—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion offered a $20,000 reward today for information leading to the arrest of the murderers of Count Folke Bernadotte, and pledged that the Israeli government would "uproot the remnants of terrorist organizations" in the Jewish state.

The government prepared a memorandum listing terms upon which it hoped to achieve peace in Palestine.

The terms were predicated upon the Jewish belief that ultimate boundaries should be fixed by agreement with the Arabs rather than by U. N. decision.

In the memorandum Israel opposed transfer of the Negev to the Arabs, internationalization of Haifa, and the internationalization of Jerusalem.

2 Britons Lost in Plane

Arabs Say Jews Downed

Amman, Trans-Jordan, Sept. 23 (A.P.).—The Arab Legion charged that a Jewish fighter plane shot down an Arab airliner today, killing two British correspondents.

The Legion spokesman charged this was a violation of the Palestine truce and asked the U. N. to investigate.

The Palestine Arab office in Damascus, Syria, announced officials in the new Arab government for Palestine.

Jamal al Husseini, nephew of the Mufti of Jerusalem is minister of foreign affairs.

Attlee Gets Lowdown

London, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—An anonymous note pinned to the door of No. 10 Downing st. today advised Prime Minister Clement Attlee that "Moscow is bluffing."

Indonesian Official Hits Dutch 'Blockade'

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

The hard-pressed Republic of Indonesia wants and needs the lifting of the Dutch economic "blockade" around its territory, Alexander A. Maramis, Finance Minister of the republic, said in a statement issued here yesterday. Maramis is now in New York, but may return to Washington next week.

His statement was an indirect reply to the hint dropped in Washington last Monday by Netherlands Foreign Minister Derk U. Stikker that the Dutch might be willing to help the republic against its Communists.

"The republic is confident that the recent Communist uprising will be put down shortly," Maramis' statement said. "To do this we do not need arms or outside military help. What we do need is the removal of the Dutch blockade so that disease and poverty can be eliminated by peaceful economic development and trade.

"Once this is achieved, the world need not fear future Communist uprisings in Indonesia."

What the Indonesians call the "blockade," and the Dutch call "shipping regulations," was ostensibly intended to prevent arms from reaching the republic. The republicans contend that the Dutch have shut off all trade and have denied "even the barest necessities of clothing and medical supplies" to the people of the republic.

"Today surgical operations take place without the benefit of anesthetics." Maramis' statement said. "Many Indonesian citizens must resort to burlap for clothing. These are the conditions which create the breeding ground for Communism and for which the Dutch are responsible."

The Dutch Foreign Minister on Monday was asked whether he would consider lifting the "blockade" to help the Indonesians fight the Communists. He evaded a direct answer, but said the Netherlands would make only those concessions that did not strengthen communism. His remark was taken to imply a willingness to relax the "blockade" partially and under strict safeguards.

Gen. McCoy Backs MacArthur Stand

Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy told the 11-nation Far Eastern Commission yesterday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur violated no allied policy in preventing strikes by government employes in Japan.

McCoy replied to last week's demand by Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin that the commission reverse MacArthur's action. McCoy is chairman of the FEC but spoke as the United States representative in the policy making body.

Members said that in the discussion of the issue at the weekly closed door session there was some support for Panyushkin's position. No action was taken on his proposal, however.

The Soviet envoy declared that FEC policy directives to MacArthur as supreme Allied commander in Japan provide specifically for the right to bargain collectively and to strike, and make no exception for employes of government agencies.

Czechs Convict 'U. S. Spy'

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Ilona Hoffman, 29, an Austrian woman, was sentenced today to 18 years in prison after being found guilty of spying, allegedly for the United States Counterintelligence Corps.

Far Bigger Airlift Foreseen by Clay

Berlin Sept. 23 (U.P.)—United States Military Governor Gen. Lucius D. Clay today promised a bigger and better airlift capable of supplying western Berlin.

"We've done only about 60 per cent of what we can easily do," Clay said in Heidelberg. "Not only can we easily make our promised 4500 tons daily, but we should be able to maintain western Berlin as well as it has been at any time since the end of the war."

Clay said 40 additional six-engine C-54s will more than make up for lost time because of winter weather.

He said he has pruned the number of American dependents in Berlin from 2600 six months ago to 1100. Married soldiers were replaced by bachelors. He denied more dependents would leave Berlin.

The Soviet-licensed ADN News Agency said 32 news distribution firms in the Soviet sector of Berlin were shut down today and 147,000 copies of western-licensed newspapers confiscated because they violated an order requiring all publications in the Russian sector to be distributed through the Russian-approved Newspaper Sale Co. of Berlin.

American authorities protested to the Russians today over an incident in which two Soviet fighter planes endangered a United States transport carrying 30 persons, Tuesday.

Red Pep Talk With Stalin Suspected

By Alex H. Singleton

London, Sept. 23 (AP).—Western diplomats weighed tonight the possibility that Joseph Stalin has called in some of eastern Europe's chief Communists for a pep talk on snuffing out disaffection behind the iron curtain.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said the Cominform—the planning and propaganda agency of the Communist states — may have met in the Crimea where Stalin is reported on a vacation.

A check of the known facts pointed toward the likelihood of a select, top-flight Communist gathering rather than a full Cominform meeting.

The foreign office spokesman noted that Ana Pauker, Romania's Foreign Minister, and Klement Gottwald, President of Czechoslovakia, had been away on vacations in the Crimea.

'We Will Not Compromise . . .' Text of Marshall's Address At U .N. Assembly Meeting

The full text of Secretary of State George C. Marshall's address before the United Nations General Assembly follows:

WE ARE particularly happy to meet here in Paris. France has, through the centuries, nourished the arts and sciences for the enrichment of all mankind and its citizens have striven persistently for expanding freedom for the individual. It is entirely fitting that this General Assembly, meeting in France which fired the hearts of men with the declaration of the rights of man in 1789, should consider in 1948 the approval of a new declaration of human rights for free men in a free world.

Not only is it appropriate that we should have reaffirmed our respect for the human rights and fundamental freedoms, but that we should renew our determination to develop and protect those rights and freedoms. Freedom of thought, conscience and religion, freedom of opinion and expression, freedom from arbitrary arrest and detention, the right of a people to choose their own government, to take part in its work, and, if they become dissatisfied with it, to change it, the obligation of government to act through law—these are some of the elements that combine to give dignity and worth to the individual.

The Charter of the United Nations reflects these concepts and expressly provides for the promotion and protection of the rights of man as well as for the rights of nations. This is no accident.

For in the modern world, the association of free men within a free state is based upon the obligation of citizens to respect the rights of their fellow citizens. And the association of free nations in a free world is based upon the obligation of all states to respect the right of other nations.

Systematic and deliberate denials of basic human rights lie at the root of most of our troubles and threaten the work of the United Nations. It is not only fundamentally wrong that millions of men and women live in daily terror of secret police, subject to seizure, imprisonment, or forced labor without just cause and without fair trial, but these wrongs have repercussions in the community of nations. Governments which systematically disregard the rights of their own people are not likely to respect the right of other nations and other people, and are likely to seek their objectives by coercion and force in the international field.

The maintenance of these rights and freedoms depends upon adherence to the abiding principles of justice and morality embodied in the rule of law. It will, therefore, always be true that those members of the United Nations which strive with sincerity of purpose to live by the Charter, and to conform to the principles of justice and law proclaimed by it, will be those states which are genuinely dedicated to the preservation of the dignity and integrity of the individual.

Let this third regular session of the General Assembly approve by an overwhelming majority the declaration of human rights as a standard of conduct for all; and let us, as members of the United Nations, conscious of our own shortcomings and imperfections, join our effort in good faith to live up to this high standard.

Our aspirations must take into account men's practical needs—improved living and working conditions, better health, economic and social advancement for all—and the social responsibilities which these entail. The United Nations is pledged in the Charter to promote "higher standards of living, full employment, and conditions of economic and social progress and development."

THE Secretary-General has devoted a considerable part of his annual report to the nature of the progress thus far made in this field. It is evident from the record that we can be encouraged by what is being done. The United Nations is directly engaged in efforts to alleviate the social and economic disorder and destruction resulting from the war. The International Refugee Organization is giving assistance to displaced persons. The International Children's Emergency Fund is providing emergency aid to children and mothers over wide areas. As part of the United Nations efforts to increase productivity by applying new and advanced techniques, the Food and Agriculture Organization is broadening the use of improved seeds and fertilizers. The tuberculosis project jointly sponsored by the World Health Organization and the International Children's Emergency Fund represent another example of the constructive work of our organization.

Through the United Nations we are seeking to combine our efforts to promote international trade, to solve the difficulties of foreign exchange, to facilitate the voluntary migration of peoples, and to increase the flow of information and ideas across national boundaries. The International Trade Organization charter would establish procedures for expanding multilateral trade, with the goal of raising living standards and maintaining full employment.

The Conference on Freedom of Information and the Press was responsible for the conventions laid before this Assembly which embody principles and procedures for expanding the exchange of information. It is our hope that the Assembly will give these conventions thoughtful and favorable consideration.

While the United Nations and its related agencies are increasingly helpful in the economic and social field, primary responsibility

Don't Be Deceived by Patience Of U. S., Marshall Tells U. N.

States would not compromise on basic principles. Foreign Ministers Zygmunt Modzelewski of Poland, Vladmir Clementis of Czechoslovakia, key men in the Russian bloc, praised it as "calm, quiet and nonprovocative."

Delegates were pleased by the temperate tone of Marshall's speech. Assembly President Herbert V. Evatt of Australia took the unusual step of issuing a formal statement calling it a speech "of first-rate importance" and one in accordance with "the true spirit of the Charter."

Marshall's strongest words came near the end of his speech when he said:

"Any government which by deliberate action cuts itself and its people off from the rest of the world, becomes incapable of understanding the problems and policies of other governments and other peoples," he said.

"It would be a tragic error if because of such misunderstanding the patience of others should be mistaken for weakness."

Marshall gave the following outline of United States foreign policy:

Treaties: We should make every effort to achieve an early and just peace settlement so that Japan and Germany may exist as democratic and peaceful nations . . . in Austria our aim is restoration of its political and economic freedom."

Japan and Germany should be prepared for admission to U. N. later and Austria should be admitted at once, he said.

Palestine—"A Palestine free from strife and threat of strife," peaceful development, early demobilization, repatriation of refugees, economic aid to Arabs and Jews and admission of Trans-Jordan and Israel to U. N. membership.

Korea—"A unified and independent Korea," with U. N. membership, possessing a constitution and government selected by Koreans.

Greece—To be "made secure from aggressive and unlawful interference from without" and to have a democratic government.

Indonesia—"A negotiated settlement without further bloodshed," with independence for Indonesians and cooperation with the Netherlands.

India-Pakistan—Continuation of mediation and negotiation on the dspute regarding Kashmir state.

Atomic Energy—"Early adoption of an international system for control of atomic energy, providing for elimination of atomic weapons . . . For development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes only and for safeguard to insure compliance by all nations with the necessary international measures of control.

Armaments—"Under adequate and dependable guaranty against violation, progressive reductions in armaments as rapidly as restoration of political confidence permits."

'Yellow Peril' Training Plane Junked by Navy

The Navy's Stearman biplane primary trainer, dubbed the "Yellow Peril" in its wartime and prewar heyday, has gone to the scrapheap.

Rear Admiral J. W. Reeves, jr., chief of naval air training at Pensacola, Fla., said yesterday that none of the 2000 aviation cadets, now being selected annually for training as Navy pilots, will ever have any experience in "primary trainers." Instead, he said, they will be taught to fly directly on the North American Texan, which was used as an advanced trainer by both the Navy and the Air Force during the war and is now their standard beginner's mount for all fledgling airmen.

America Will Never Barter Away Others' Rights, U. N. Told

for improving standards of living will continue to rest with the governments of the peoples themselves. International organizations cannot take the place of national and personal effort, or local initiative and individual imagination. International action cannot replace self-help, nor can we move toward general cooperation without maximum mutual help among close neighbors.

The United Nations was not intended to preclude cooperative action among groups of states for common purposes consistent with the Charter of the United Nations. It has been disappointing that efforts at economic recovery consistent with this concept have been actively opposed by some who seem to fear the return of stability and confidence. We must not be misled by those who, in the name of revolutionary slogans, would prevent reconstruction and recovery to hold out illusions of future well-being at the price of starvation and disorder today.

A year ago I expressed the view to the General Assembly that "a supreme effort is required from us all if we are to succeed in breaking through the vicious circles of deepening political and economic crisis". I believe that most of us in this organization have sought to make such an effort—and that this is beginning to bring results.

Despite the cooperative action of most nations to rebuild peace and well-being, tension during the past year has increased. The leaders of the other nations are creating a deep rift between their countries and the rest of the world community. We must not allow that rift to widen any further and we must redouble our efforts to find a common ground. Let us go back to the Charter, to words that were solemnly written by the peoples of the United Nations while the tragedy of war was vividly stamped on their minds.

"We the peoples of the United Nations," says the Charter are "determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war . . . and for these ends to practice tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbors." Three years later we are confronted with the need to save not only succeeding generations, but our own.

The first purpose of the United Nations is to maintain international peace and security, and to that end all members are pledged to settle their international disputes by peaceful means and in conformity with the principles of justice and international law.

We are pledged to seek an accommodation by which different cultures, different laws, different social and economic structures, and different political systems can exist side by side without violence, subversion, or intimidation. An elementary requirement is that international obligations be respected and that relations among states be based on mutual confidence, respect, and tolerance.

How can we establish among governments and peoples the confidence which is necessary to a just and stable peace, and is basic to the work of the United Nations? The need at this session of the General Assembly and in subsequent months is to achieve, or at least to move nearer, a settlement of the major issues which now confront us. For its part, the United States is prepared to seek in every possible way, in any appropriate forum, a constructive and peaceful settlement of the political controversies which contribute to the present tension and uncertainty.

I DO not wish to deal at this time with the details of any particular issue, but there are broad lines along which a just and equitable settlement of each of these questions might be reached. Some of these matters are on the agenda of the United Nations, others, such as those dealing with the peace settlements, are to be dealt with in other forums. Nevertheless, whatever the forum, as members of the United Nations, we are all subject to the principles of the Charter.

If we want to have peace we must settle the issues arising out of the last war. The Charter was written with the expectation that the solution of the problems before the United Nations would not be made more difficult by long delay in completing the peace settlements.

We should, therefore, make every effort to achieve an early and just peace settlement so that Japan and Germany may exist as democratic and peaceful nations, subject to safeguards against the revival of military or economic means of aggression, and they may in due course strate their qualifications for admission to membership in the United Nations. In Austria our aim is the restoration of its political and economic freedom within its 1937 frontiers, and its immediate admission as a member of the United Nations.

Other questions affecting world peace are now before the United Nations, some of them before this Assembly. We believe that the ends to be sought on these matters may be briefly summarized as follows:

1. A Palestine free from strife and the threat of strife, with both the Jews and Arabs assured the peaceful development envisaged by the actions of the General Assembly and the Security Council; an early demobilization of armed forces to permit the return to conditions of peace and normal living in Palestine; the repatriation of refugees who wish to return and live in peace with their neighbors; economic aid to Jews and Arabs to restore and strengthen their economic well-being; the admission of Trans-Jordan and Israel to membership in the United Nations.

2. A unified and independent Korea, accepted as a member of the United Nations, acting under a constitution and a government selected by the Koreans themselves through free elections, and receiving the economic and political encouragement which it will need as it embarks upon its new life as a Korean nation.

3. A Greece made secure from aggressive and unlawful interference from without; ordering its political life by the democratic process and by respect for law; enabled to rebuild its economy and to provide its people the essentials of a decent life which they have been without so long.

4. A negotiated settlement without further bloodshed in Indonesia, along the broad lines of the Renville agreement, providing within a brief period both the soverign independence sought by the peoples of Indonesia and continued cooperation between them and the people of the Netherlands.

5. Continuation of the mediation and negotiation between the great nations of India and Pakistan with respect to Kashmir in order that the processes of peaceful settlement may bring to a conclusion an issue which has been charged with great dangers.

6. The early adoption of an international system for the control of atomic energy, providing for the elimination of atomic weapons from national armaments, for the development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes only, and for safeguards to insure compliance by all nations with the necessary international measures of control.

7. Under adequate and dependable guaranty against violation, a progressive reduction in armaments as rapidly as the restoration of political confidence permits.

Other situations or problems might be mentioned, but if constructive steps are taken toward the settlement of those which have been indicated, new hope would arise among men and new confidence among the nations of the world. It will be readily seen that the above pattern is toward peace. No governments or peoples who work toward such ends can be held to be seeking war, or imperialist expansion, or disorder and strife.

We have noted with particular interest the report of the Secretary-General on the work of the nations relating to the millions of people who are not yet fully self-governing. We are mindful of the obligations undertaken in the Charter for the political, economic and social development of these peoples. We believe that all possible assistance and encouragement should be given to them, to the end that they may play their full part in the family of nations—either as independent states or in freely chosen association with other states.

IN OUR efforts toward political settlement we must continue working to improve the functioning of the machinery of the United Nations. We hope that the Security Council will proceed to recommend during this session of the General Assembly the admission of additional new members. There are a number of fully qualified states, now awaiting admission, whose elevation has been supported by the United States, but has been blocked for reasons not consistent with the Charter. The most recent application, Ceylon, one of the new states to emerge in Southern Asia, has been denied the membership to which it properly aspires.

The report of the Interim Committee on the problem of voting in the Security Council represents the first comprehensive study on this vital problem since San Francisco, and contains the views of an overwhelming majority of the members. The work of the Security Council would be greatly facilitated if the recommendations of the Interim Committee could be accepted by the members of the Council.

The Interim Committee itself has worked usefully and effectively during the past year and can continue to render an important service to the General Assembly. We hope that the Assembly will agree to its continuation for another year in order to give us more experience before deciding whether it should become a permanent part of our organization.

The United States joins in expressing great appreciation to those individuals who have served on United Nations missions during the past year, either as members of national delegations or of the secretariat. These representatives in the field have served with courage and devotion to duty. Their service has been given a particularly solemn reminder of these conditions by the tragic death of Count Folke Bernadotte and Colonel Serot at the hands of assassins. The people of the United States join in thumping big groups of the finest worsteds ever to grace our showcases. And you'll crack a broad grin at their price tags--NOT ONE PENNY

MORE than last spring. Yes, old "Doctor Bond" again comes up with a cure for battered bankrolls. Does it by shooting for more customers--rubbing out a big chunk of today's higher costs by serving more men. That takes nerve, when you figure we're paying an average of 50 cents a yard more for our Fall woolens.
But we've a hunch men by the thousands will whoop up this Bond battle-cry on inflation.
If they do--we're in! And you, Mr. Phipps, will sock away a lot of dollars you thought were gone forever.
Here's a quick run-down. Style Manor Suits--still 37.75.
Our famous Park Lanes--45.75. The luxury and expensive hand-detailing of our Rochester fashioned Executive Group--a grand collection at 51.75.
You'll find 81 different sizes and models at each price--all superbly tailored and fitted in the typical Bond manner. Take your pick!

U. S. Won't Compromise Principles, Marshall Declares

tribute to the man who worked brilliantly and courageously as the United Nations mediator in Palestine. We pay tribute also to those others, who have lost their lives in the service of peace.

We believe that the Assembly should give sympathetic consideration to the suggestions of the Secretary-General for the establishment of a small United Nations guard force to assist United Nations missions engaged in the pacific settlement of disputes. The fate of the mediator in Palestine and the experience of the several commissions already working in the field have already demonstrated the need for such a group. This great world organization should not send its servants on missions of peace without reasonable protection. The guards would be entirely distinct from the armed forces envisaged under Article 43 and would not carry out military operations. They could, however, perform important services in connection with United Nations missions abroad not only as guards but as observers and as communications and transportation personnel.

Mr. President, one of the principal purposes of the United Nations, according to Article 1, is "to be a center for harmonizing the actions of nations" in the attainment of the common ends set forth in the Charter. The problem of making and keeping the peace involves many governments and many peoples. On the issues which call for settlement, the large powers as well as the small submit their policies to the judgment of the world community. For this purpose appropriate forums have been established for the adjustments of differences through the impartial opinions of the international society. This process has been seriously hampered by the refusal of a group of nations to participate in certain of the important commissions established by this Assembly, such as the Balkan Commission, the Korean Commission, and the Interim Committee.

More important than this boycott, however, is the disturbing lack of cooperation which the United Nations has received in its efforts to resolve such questions as Korea and Greece and to bring about the international control of atomic energy. This persistent refusal of a small minority to contribute to the accomplishment of our agreed purposes is a matter of profound concern.

There is no plot among members of this organization to keep any nation or group of nations in a minority. The minority position is self-imposed. The record shows that there are no mechanical majorities at the disposal of any nation or group of nations. Majorities form quickly in support of the principles of the Charter. Nations consistently in the minority would be welcomed among the ranks of the majority—but not at the price of compromise of basic principle.

The United Nations has sought to promote the free exchange of ideas on a basis of full reciprocity. The effort is of the greatest political importance. Any government which by deliberate action cuts itself and its people off from the rest of the world becomes incapable of understanding the problems and policies of other governments and other peoples. It would be a tragic error, if, because of such misunderstanding, the patience of others should be mistaken for weakness.

The United States does not wish to increase the existing tension. It is its wholehearted desire to alleviate that tension. But we will not compromise essential principles. We will under no circumstances barter away the rights and freedoms of other peoples. We earnestly hope that all members will find ways of contributing to the lessening of tensions and the promotion of peace with justice. The peoples of the earth are anxiously watching our efforts here. We must not disappoint them.

Defense Head Rejects Draft for Australia

Canberra, Australia, Sept. 23 (AP).—Defense Minister John Dedman rejected today opposition proposals for the introduction of compulsory universal military service in Australia.

Dedman, addressing the house of representatives, said one of the roles planned for Australia will be that of a base of organization needed for Australian, British Commonwealth or any allied forces "which may be fighting in our part of the world."

U. S. Force in Gibraltar Now Totals 35 Warships

Gilbraltar, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The 45,000-ton aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt led two cruisers and six destroyers into port today, swelling American naval forces here to 35 warships and 15,000 men.

Fourteen of the vessels are being relieved after a tour of duty with the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean Fleet and will return to the U. S., while the rest of the ships will take up stations in this area under Admiral Richard Conolly.

Seagull Banded 'Moscow'

Athens, Greece, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—A tired seagull was being held for investigation today by "competent military authorities." The seagull landed on a navy patrol boat off Thermopylae. Around one leg was a red band marked "Moscow."

Polish Attache Asks Asylum

By The Associated Press

Lieut. Gen. Izydor Modelski, military attache of the Polish Embassy, said last night he has refused an order of the Communist government of Poland to return home. He is asking the United States Government to grant asylum to him and his family.

Gen. Modelski

The 60-year-old general charged the Polish army "is controlled by Soviet generals and officers."

It "is being systematically changed into a 'blind tool' in the hands of the Soviet staff,' he said.

"I know very well," it continued, "that the military-political education of all Polish boys and girls has as its aim the preparation of the entire Polish nation as an instrument of Soviet militarism and imperialism."

Modelski said the government has "liquidated independent political parties" and has now "intensified its attacks on the last independent institution, which is the church in Poland."

Lieut. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, American Ambassador to Russia, is coming to Washington this week for "consultations," the State Department announced yesterday. It will be his first trip home in almost a year.

Smith already has seen Secretary Marshall and other State Department officials in Paris, where the major policy decisions on the Berlin crisis are being made.

Robert A. Lovett, Acting Secretary of State, told reporters Wednesday that Paris had become the center of gravity in the negotiations over Berlin.

Smith's visit to Washington will enable him, however, to give a first-hand report of the Berlin situation to James V. Forrestal, Defense Secretary, and possibly to President Truman when the President's campaign tour ends. The Ambassador had planned for several months to return here about September 1, but his visit was postponed because of the renewed four-power talks in Moscow and Berlin.

World Peace Efforts

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Pope Pius XII said today that "the more the clouds of war thicken, the more we must exert ourselves in making the rainbow of peace shine on this poor world."

In a letter to the Roman Catholics of Canada the Pope said: "We must not let ourselves be discouraged."

Tito Assassination Attempt Is Reported

Trieste, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The Trieste news agency Astra published an unconfirmed report today that Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia recently escaped an attempt to assassinate him when he was motoring.

"Partisan elements mined a bridge across which Tito was scheduled to pass during a visit to Dalmatia," Astra said. It reported that the plot was "broken up."

16 Nations Asked For Recovery Plans

Paris, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The Organization for European Economic Cooperation announced today it asked each of the 16 Marshall Plan nations to submit five-year recovery plans early next month to form the basis for a master European recovery program.

In its requests, the OEEC stressed the need for increased production, more intensive use of natural resources, internal stability and whole-hearted cooperation.

Far-reaching changes in the pattern of European trade will be necessary to wipe out Europe's dollar deficit by 1952, the scheduled end of the program, the CEEC noted.

ECA Announces Board To Assist in China Aid

The Economic Cooperation Administration announced yesterday formation of a committee of private citizens to assist in administering the ECA aid program in China.

Members of the committee are: Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University; Arthur B. Foye, president of the Far East America Council; Elizabeth Moore, trustee of Wellesley College; Paul V. McNutt, Walter S. Robertson, former attache at the United States Embassy in China.

Big U. S. Loan Shows Confidence in France

By The Associated Press

The United States yesterday gave the French government a virtual vote of confidence by letting it have 230 million dollars in recovery funds to put through its anti-inflation program.

The United States sends France free supplies such as machinery, food, etc., under the recovery program.

France may sell these supplies to anyone, collecting in francs.

The money thus taken in is put in a "counterpart fund," and is destined eventually to be spent in France subject to approval of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

It was the first release of counterpart fund money to France.

U. S. Aid Call Is Expected

French diplomats prepared for what they expected would be a negative Moscow reaction.

The three powres were reliably reported to have asked the Russians for a clear-cut answer whether they still recognize the principle of four-power rule of Berlin, including the city's transportation and finance. The three powers repeated their determination to maintain four-power rule and stated their intention and ability to supply the western sectors by air all winter if necessary.

They asked the Kremlin to join with them in writing the details of a directive to the respective military commanders in Germany for solution of the currency issue.

Previously, all four powers had agreed on the principle of a Russian mark in all Berlin on the details when the Russians insisted on veto power in the control commission. The Berlin blockade was to be lifted when the currency issue was solved.

Must Find Other Means

The note, it was said, declared if the Russians no longer recognized four-power rule in Berlin some other formula for settling the dispute would have to be found.

A Soviet reply was expected before next Wednesday. Schuman was reported to have told Soviet Ambassador Alexandre Bogomolov yesterday that the western nations intended to take some action next week unless an answer is received before then.

Expect Violent Debate

All quarters predicted introduction of the Berlin issue into the United Nations would precipitate a debate of unprecedented violence.

Shawcross expressed doubt that the U. N. could carry out over a Soviet veto any decision it might make on Berlin.

"Russia is in a strong position—stronger than ours, for the moment," he commented.

Delegates from smaller nations echoed Shawcross' pessimism that the U. N. could solve the issue over Russia's objections.

Commenting on this, Shawcross said:

"It looks like we're in for many hot debates. It looks also like we'll be here until Christmas."

Truman's Michigan Man Sees Democratic Gain

By The Associated Press

A prediction that Michigan Democrats will pick up at least two, and possibly four, congressional seats in the November 2 election came yesterday from Representative Sadowski (D., Mich.).

He also said that President Truman, who opened his campaign with a round of Labor Day speeches in Michigan, "has a good chance to carry the State."

Sadowski made his predictions in a letter to Representative McCormack (D., Mass.), "who had asked him for the election outlook in Michigan.

Reds Say 8 U. S., British Wives Insist on Staying in Russia

Moscow, Sept. 23 (AP).—Izvestia said today eight more Russian wives of Britons and Americans have sent letters saying they do not want to leave Russia.

"In their letters," Izvestia said, "these Soviet citizens express their indignation at the slanderous anti-Soviet campaign raised by the British and American press over the so-called question of the Russian wives.

"They have instigated suits for divorce against their husbands."

[Soviet government policy is to refuse Russian wives of foreigners permission to leave the country.]

Izvestia declared letters were received from the wives of these Americans:

Benjamin Richardson, Ponchatoula, La. (who held the rank of major and was adjutant to Maj. Gen. J. Russell Deane, former chief of the U.S. military mission); Alan D. Yaross, Cleveland; Michael Shabon, New Haven, Conn.; Sergei N. Guden, Bridgeport, Conn.

The paper said the other letters were from the wives of Britons.

(At Pontchatoula, Richardson said he had divorced his wife last spring.)

Remington Makes Libel Suit Threats

By the United Press

William W. Remington, suspended Commerce Department officer, threatened yesterday to sue Elizabeth T. Bentley and the National Broadcasting Co. for libel unless she retracts the charge she made over NBC that he is a Communist.

He told a news conference he will start suit against both parties if Miss Bentley fails to make a public retraction by noon, September 30.

Remington said he intends to fight "my gol-darndest" for complete vindication on the accusations she made against him before a Senate committee and on the air.

His threat stemmed from an NBC "Meet the Press" television show on September 12 during which Miss Bentley, who has admitted she used to be a courier for a Communist spy ring, said Remington was a Red.

One of the "Meet the Press" interviewers had asked her if she would repeat her charges against him on the air—without the immunity she enjoyed as a witness before the Senate committee.

She replied "certainly," and went on to accuse Remington of having been a Communist and an important wartime source of secret data for the Red spy network.

Clark Keeps Feud Hot

Meanwhile, Attorney General Tom C. Clark kept his feud with Senator Homer Ferguson at the boiling point yesterday with a new charge that the Michigan Republican is playing politics with the loyalty program.

He accused Ferguson of issuing "reckless, misleading and inflammatory statements in his attempt to win support in his political campaign."

Clark also fired another blast of criticism at the House Un-American Activities Committee for its handling of the current spy investigation.

He said the committee has uncovered absolutely no evidence not previously known to the Justice Department, despite statements by one of its members that enough new information has been obtained to warrant indictment of three persons for atomic espionage.

Clark accused the committee of trying to "mislead the people of this country into thinking that the Government was full of Communist spies."

"The fact is," he said, "that this Administration has done more to rid the Government and the Nation of subversive influences than any other administration in the country's history."

Ferguson Main Target

The Attorney General centered most of his fire on Ferguson, with whom he has been carrying on a running battle over security problems.

Ferguson, chairman of the Senate's super-investigating committee, attacked the Administration for its handling of the Federal loyalty program.

Clark said he already had answered Ferguson's criticism in detail and that the Senator was "unable to make an honest reply."

He denied that he ever refused to permit FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover to testify before Ferguson's committee. He said he discussed the matter privately with Ferguson and that the Senator later broke his pledge of silence about the discussion by demanding publicly that Hoover testify.

Rep. John McDowell, (R., Pa.) said yesterday the three Americans he wants indicted for atomic espionage have been linked directly to Arthur Adams, alleged chief of Russia's wartime spies in this country.

McDowell said the connection was established during the Un-American Activities Committee's continuing secret investigation of atomic spying.

He restated his belief that there is enough evidence against the trio right now to warrant prosecution. He plans to ask the full committee today to recommend that the Justice Department seek espionage indictments against the three.

Still refusing to divulge their names, McDowell said:

"They were linked up with the top spy in this country—meaning Adams."

He added that he is convinced Adams fled the United States after the war and now is "safely at his home in Moscow."

"Anybody that hot would be on the lam by now," he said.

But he made it plain that the three Americans he thinks should be indicted are in the United States and within reach of the committee of which he is a member.

All three have testified before the committee, he said, and two of them are nuclear scientists who worked on the atomic bomb project. The third he described as a Communist Party functionary.

McDowell said the committee has no evidence that any of the three suspects received money for their alleged spy work. He said they were motivated apparently by their sympathy for communism.

McDowell said the committee also will decide whether to vote contempt citations against a number of witnesses who refused to answer questions under oath. One of them is Steve Nelson, chairman of the Communist Pary of western Pennsylvania, who invoked constitutional immunity to avoid testifying.

Also to be considered at the meeting is the question of issuing a public report giving all the information possible without endangering atomic security, McDowell said.

Chicagoan Held In Atomic Theft

JOHN LEPMAN
Nabbed by FBI

Slav Congress Head Arrested As Communist

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—George Pirinsky, 48, was arrested today on a warrant charging him, as an alien, with belonging to an organization advocating forceful overthrow of the United States Government.

Pirinsky is from New York and is executive secretary of the American-Slav Congress.

He was arrested in the offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Bureau.

Marcus T. Neelly, district enforcement officer, made the arrest on a warrant issued by the Commissioner of Immigration in Washington.

Pirinsky, who has been living recently in the Stevens Hotel, Chicago, came to the United States from Bulgaria in 1926, Neelly said.

In Washington, the Justice Department said the action against Pirinsky was based upon alleged membership in the Communist Party, not upon his affiliation with the All-Slav Congress.

The department said Pirinsky "affiliated with the Communist Party after his entry into this country, in violation of the immigration statutes." It added that Pirinsky once edited the newspaper, Macedonia, published in Detroit.

The American-Slav Congress was on a list issued last May 28 of organizations which Attorney General Tom Clark has classified as "Totalitarian, Fascist, Communist or subversive."

Pirinsky said 1500 delegates expected for the convention scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

8 Bank Robbers Caught

Columbia, N. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—The FBI said today that the eight men who participated in the $68,200 robbery of the Bank of Columbia on Tuesday had been apprehended. They worked out of Norfolk, Va.

Atomic Theft Guilt Is Denied by Ex-Soldier

Chicago, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—A former Army technician today pleaded innocent to Federal charges of removing secret electronic plans from the atomic energy laboratory at Los Alamos, N. Mex.

John Robert Lepman, 26, son of a wealthy Chicago milliner, told authorities he did not know the documents were secret, and had planned only to use them in entering the radio business.

Assistant District Attorney Jack A. Welfeld said there appeared to be no foreign agency involved. Lepman was the seventh former soldier to be accused of removing secret data from the atomic project.

Welfeld sought a $5000 bond when Lepman was arraigned before a United States commissioner, but bond was set at $3000 after Leo T. Tierney, defense attorney, argued that Lepman came from a "very highly regarded" Chicago family. A further hearing was set for October 5.

Lepman was in the Army from 1943 to 1946, and received an honorable discharge. He worked as a technician at Los Alamos in 1946.

Welfeld said Lepman held a technical sergeant's rating at Los Alamos. He was accused of taking 51 drawings described as "blueprints of electronic circuits."

According to Welfeld, Lepman admitted taking some documents, but said he made no attempt to conceal them, and thought they were not of a confidential nature.

Lepman said he knew some of the plans were "classified" material at one time, but thought they were being "declassified" gradually. Welfeld quoted him as saying he was not sure of the importance of the plans to national security, and tried to select those he felt would not endanger it.

Remington Makes Libel Suit Threats

By the United Press

William W. Remington, suspended Commerce Department officer, threatened yesterday to sue Elizabeth T. Bentley and the National Broadcasting Co. for libel unless she retracts the charge she made over NBC that he is a Communist.

He told a news conference he will start suit against both parties if Miss Bentley fails to make a public retraction by noon, September 30.

Remington said he intends to fight "my gol-darndest" for complete vindication on the accusations she made against him before a Senate committee and on the air.

His threat stemmed from an NBC "Meet the Press" television show on September 12 during which Miss Bentley, who has admitted she used to be a courier for a Communist spy ring, said Remington was a Red.

One of the "Meet the Press" interviewers had asked her if she would repeat her charges against him on the air—without the immunity she enjoyed as a witness before the Senate committee.

She replied "certainly," and went on to accuse Remington of having been a Communist and an important wartime source of secret data for the Red spy network.

Clark Keeps Feud Hot

Meanwhile, Attorney General Tom C. Clark kept his feud with Senator Homer Ferguson at the boiling point yesterday with a new charge that the Michigan Republican is playing politics with the loyalty program.

He accused Ferguson of issuing "reckless, misleading and inflammatory statements in his attempt to win support in his political campaign."

Clark also fired another blast of criticism at the House Un-American Activities Committee for its handling of the current spy investigation.

He said the committee has uncovered absolutely no evidence not previously known to the Justice Department, despite statements by one of its members that enough new information has been obtained to warrant indictment of three persons for atomic espionage.

Clark accused the committee of trying to "mislead the people of this country into thinking that the Government was full of Communist spies."

"The fact is," he said, "that this Administration has done more to rid the Government and the Nation of subversive influences than any other administration in the country's history."

Ferguson Main Target

The Attorney General centered most of his fire on Ferguson, with whom he has been carrying on a running battle over security problems.

Ferguson, chairman of the Senate's super-investigating committee, attacked the Administration for its handling of the Federal loyalty program.

Clark said he already had answered Ferguson's criticism in detail and that the Senator was "unable to make an honest reply."

He denied that he ever refused to permit FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover to testify before Ferguson's committee. He said he discussed the matter privately with Ferguson and that the Senator later broke his pledge of silence about the discussion by demanding publicly that Hoover testify.

Rep. John McDowell, (R., Pa.) said yesterday the three Americans he wants indicted for atomic espionage have been linked directly to Arthur Adams, alleged chief of Russia's wartime spies in this country.

McDowell said the connection was established during the Un-American Activities Committee's continuing secret investigation of atomic spying.

He restated his belief that there is enough evidence against the trio right now to warrant prosecution. He plans to ask the full committee today to recommend that the Justice Department seek espionage indictments against the three.

Still refusing to divulge their names, McDowell said:

"They were linked up with the top spy in this country—meaning Adams."

He added that he is convinced Adams fled the United States after the war and now is "safely at his home in Moscow."

"Anybody that hot would be on the lam by now," he said.

But he made it plain that the three Americans he thinks should be indicted are in the United States and within reach of the committee of which he is a member.

All three have testified before the committee, he said, and two of them are nuclear scientists who worked on the atomic bomb project. The third he described as a Communist Party functionary.

McDowell said the committee has no evidence that any of the three suspects received money for their alleged spy work. He said they were motivated apparently by their sympathy for communism.

McDowell said the committee also will decide whether to vote contempt citations against a number of witnesses who refused to answer questions under oath. One of them is Steve Nelson, chairman of the Communist Pary of western Pennsylvania, who invoked constitutional immunity to avoid testifying.

Also to be considered at the meeting is the question of issuing a public report giving all the information possible without endangering atomic security, McDowell said.

Chicagoan Held In Atomic Theft

JOHN LEPMAN
Nabbed by FBI

Slav Congress Head Arrested As Communist

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—George Pirinsky, 48, was arrested today on a warrant charging him, as an alien, with belonging to an organization advocating forceful overthrow of the United States Government.

Pirinsky is from New York and is executive secretary of the American-Slav Congress.

He was arrested in the offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Bureau.

Marcus T. Neelly, district enforcement officer, made the arrest on a warrant issued by the Commissioner of Immigration in Washington.

Pirinsky, who has been living recently in the Stevens Hotel, Chicago, came to the United States from Bulgaria in 1926, Neelly said.

In Washington, the Justice Department said the action against Pirinsky was based upon alleged membership in the Communist Party, not upon his affiliation with the All-Slav Congress.

The department said Pirinsky "affiliated with the Communist Party after his entry into this country, in violation of the immigration statutes." It added that Pirinsky once edited the newspaper, Macedonia, published in Detroit.

The American-Slav Congress was on a list issued last May 28 of organizations which Attorney General Tom Clark has classified as "Totalitarian, Fascist, Communist or subversive."

Pirinsky said 1500 delegates expected for the convention scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

8 Bank Robbers Caught

Columbia, N. C., Sept. 23 (AP).—The FBI said today that the eight men who participated in the $68,200 robbery of the Bank of Columbia on Tuesday had been apprehended. They worked out of Norfolk, Va.

Atomic Theft Guilt Is Denied by Ex-Soldier

Chicago, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—A former Army technician today pleaded innocent to Federal charges of removing secret electronic plans from the atomic energy laboratory at Los Alamos, N. Mex.

John Robert Lepman, 26, son of a wealthy Chicago milliner, told authorities he did not know the documents were secret, and had planned only to use them in entering the radio business.

Assistant District Attorney Jack A. Welfeld said there appeared to be no foreign agency involved. Lepman was the seventh former soldier to be accused of removing secret data from the atomic project.

Welfeld sought a $5000 bond when Lepman was arraigned before a United States commissioner, but bond was set at $3000 after Leo T. Tierney, defense attorney, argued that Lepman came from a "very highly regarded" Chicago family. A further hearing was set for October 5.

Lepman was in the Army from 1943 to 1946, and received an honorable discharge. He worked as a technician at Los Alamos in 1946.

Welfeld said Lepman held a technical sergeant's rating at Los Alamos. He was accused of taking 51 drawings described as "blueprints of electronic circuits."

According to Welfeld, Lepman admitted taking some documents, but said he made no attempt to conceal them, and thought they were not of a confidential nature.

Lepman said he knew some of the plans were "classified" material at one time, but thought they were being "declassified" gradually. Welfeld quoted him as saying he was not sure of the importance of the plans to national security, and tried to select those he felt would not endanger it.

Politics Hits Loyalty Probe

Civil Service Loyalty Review Board for an advisory opinion, and finally,

3. That the department head, as now, be responsible for the final decision in each case. He could give the accused employe a hearing.

It was explained that the respected Loyalty Review Board could take the political heat with good grace. A majority of the board's members are conservative Republicans—but they know the difference between truth and gossip, since they aren't running for office. The board members are independent, since they aren't looking for either Federal jobs or favors. Their loyalty work is one of love.

However, Chairman Richardson takes the view that the accused employe should have every safeguard possible, such as the appeal to his agency board and to his department before his case can reach the Loyalty Review Board. On the other hand, members of agency boards believe the loyalty standards and decisions would be uniform if one board handled all the cases. As it is, they say, an employe may be fired as disloyal in one agency and be judged okay in another.

What may be a compromise solution is known to have been discussed by Chairman Richardson with his staff. The chairman has given serious study to the possibility of recommending to his board that it make a more detailed appellate review of all cases handled by agency boards.

"If we agree to do that," he said, "we could take over jurisdiction in any case where the agency board fell short in any way." Then he expressed this doubt: "That might increase our work 100-fold and I don't know whether we could handle it under our present setup."

The responsibility for plunging the loyalty program into the slugging arena of partisan politics must rest with both major parties.

The Republicans are responsible because the House Committee on Un-American Activities has encouraged us to believe there is a Communist in every Federal office; because the Ferguson Committee in the Senate has taken a hindsight view of the loyalty program, and because GOP speakers the country over are shouting Communist at just about everyone in this city.

On the Democratic side, much could be written about the Administration's responsibility for mixing loyalty and politics. But perhaps the most upsetting to agency officials came a few days ago—the story of which was revealed exclusively in this column last Sunday.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark and his top assistant, Peyton Ford, have flatly ordered the heads of many Federal agencies to suspend immediately certain employes whom the department plans to indict on either perjury or fraud charges of concealing membership in the Communist Party. A number of former employes who were either fired or resigned are also on the list for possible indictments.

Now I'm not going to say a word in defense of any employe who concealed his Communist Party membership and I'd like to see anyone jailed who is guilty of it. But you can't help wondering how sincere the Justice Department is when things like this happen:

1. An agency official was given the distinct impression at Justice that the suspensions and indictments had to come before the election, which gives them a political complexion, and,

2. When Justice proposes to indict an employe who has been cleared by his agency on the basis of information supplied by it. Later, the department admits that it was all a "mistake"; that the employe need not be suspended, and face indictment. That shows sloppy work on a deadly serious subject that affects the reputations and livelihoods of Federal workers.

Another agency official told me there was no justification whatever for the department to order it to suspend several of its suspected employes. He's convinced that it will result in most suspended employes in his agency getting long paid vacations at the expense of Uncle Sam.

The Justice Department should consider any criminal cases involving Federal workers on their merits; a possible political advantage for the Administration shouldn't be a factor.

Meantime, Attorney General Clark is feuding over the loyalty program with the man who wants to be Attorney General in the possible Dewey Cabinet, Senator Ferguson of Michigan. And apparently some of the throat-cutters and back-stabbers in the Justice Department believe Ferguson will be their next boss—they are tipping him off on loyalty steps Clark is planning.

It's all very sad and disgraceful. One vital group that hasn't gone cockeyed is the Loyalty Review Board. Federal workers should thank God every day that it has kept its senses, and pray that it will continue to keep them.

Baltimore, Sept. 23 (AP).—Mrs. Regina Frankfeld, who lost her job as a kindergarten teacher because she is a member of the Communist Party, asked the school board today in an open hearing for immediate reinstatement.

She also urged the board to drop its regulation banning employment of Communists and persons of "subversive beliefs" as teachers.

After hearing her arguments and those of other witnesses in her behalf, Roszel C. Thomsen, board chairman, said a final decision will be made in two weeks.

Mrs. Frankfeld, whose husband, Philip, is chairman of the Communist Party in Maryland and the District of Columbia, contended the board's regulation was passed last June "in star chamber fashion."

Mrs. Frankfeld, a brunette in her early 40's, said communism is "as American as our love of fair play, baseball, and regard for our children."

Spokesman of the Communist Party, the local chapter of the CIO Lawyers' Guild and the Maryland Council of Arts, Sciences and Professions, appeared in her behalf. Parents of two of the children she taught last year testified she was a "competent" teacher.

'Real' Arms Unity Sought

Army, Navy and Air Force be abolished.

Some Doubt Wisdom

Other lawmakers present, however, were understood to have expressed doubts about the wisdom of undertaking too sweeping a reorganization at a time of international tension.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall, (R., Mass.) said the views of Eberstadt's group and those of the Congressmen did not appear to be far apart.

Others present, who declined use of their names, indicated the consensus was that further and immediate moves toward genuine unification are desirable. They said it was felt that this would achieve a dual purpose of strengthening preparedness and economizing on the military budget, now expected to reach 15 billion dollars next year.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.) emphasized the economy aspect. He warned that the high level of defense spending will lead the Nation into economic disaster unless sharp cuts are made in civilian employment and "overlapping functions" are eliminated.

Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.), of the House Appropriations Committee, also urged "better organization, better results and more economy."

Chairman Walter G. Andrews (R., N. Y.) of the House Armed Services Committee; Representative Dewey Short (R., Mo.) second ranking Republican on the committee, and Representative Richard Wigglesworth (R., Mass), a member, also attended.

Eberstadt is former deputy chief of the War Production Board and has been mentioned as a possible Secretary of Defense in a Dewey Cabinet. Other commission members present were:

John Cowles, president of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune; John J. McCloy, president of the World Bank; Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of Sears, Roebuck Co.; C. R. Barnard, president of the Rockefeller Foundation; Hansom Baldwin, military writer of the New York Times; Raymond B. Allen, president of the University of Washington, and J. Carlton Ward, president of Fairchild Engine Corp.

Eberstadt's group will make its formal report to the full Hoover Commission in November. The 12-man bipartisan commission can accept, revise or reject its recommendations, before preparing its own proposals to Congress.

Plan to Save Oil For War Studied

By The Associated Press

The National Security Resources Board is studying a proposal that the States require oil companies to cut production in order to conserve oil supplies for use in case of war.

Under this plan, the companies would be compensated for lost production by being permitted to raise prices through joint action. The Federal Government would have to give them immunity from prosecution under the antitrust laws.

The proposal was made in a study of oil supplies by a committee working under the board and headed by Wallace Pratt, formerly the board's petroleum consultant. It is a confidential advisory report, on which the board has not taken action.

Board officials say further consideration will be given the report before any recommendation is made to the President and that no board action on it is expected for a month or two.

The board has the job of advising the President on use of the Nation's resource in time of war.

Copies of the oil report have been shown to industry representatives here and to officers of the armed forces in order to get their views.

The Pratt report finds the present status of our oil reserves alarming. It says that before the last war, this country had a reserve oil productive capacity of more than one million barrels a day. This means that in case of need, the producers could draw from the ground one million barrels a day more than they were then pumping.

Now, however, oil is being produced in nearly every State at or above the maximum efficient rate. That is, the oil is being pumped out as fast as possible without spoiling the ultimate productive capacity of the wells. Thus, there is now no reserve productive capacity at all. In case of war, we couldn't get any more oil out of our present wells than we now are taking.

To be on the safe side in case of emergency, the study concludes, a reserve oil capacity must be built up again.

Meanwhile, it says, the Nation's capacity to produce oil should be increased by providing more steel for the oil industry so that it can drill more wells and lay more pipelines.

The additional oil needed for present consumption should be imported, says the report, preferably from the Middle East fields while they are accessible. Latin American oil reserves could thus be retained for use in case we are cut off from the Middle East supplies.

Dr. George Ellis New 4th Degree K. C. Master Here

Dr. George R. Ellis, 4115 13th st. ne., has been appointed master of the fourth degree for the District Knights of Columbus, it was announced yesterday. The term is for two years.

Dr. Ellis

Dr. Ellis, who succeeds William H. Collins, Washington attorney, is a trustee of Columbus University; a member of the board of Washington Catholic Charities; a director of the National Council of Catholic Men and past president of the Washington Holy Name Society.

Fourth Degree Knights will act as a guard of honor for Archbishop Patrick O'Boyle Sunday at ceremonies at Chapel Point, Md., celebrating the 150th anniversary of the founding of St. Ignatius of Loyola Church.

Five Million Workers Plan France Strike

Paris, Sept. 23 (NYHT).—French workers numbering five million to seven million answered the call of both Communist and non-Communist trade unions tonight and prepared for a two-hour general strike to show their distrust of Premier Henri Queuille's financial program.

Plans for the paralyzing strike between 4 and 6 p. m. Friday, with perhaps a 24-hour stoppage on the Paris subways, were being pushed despite the government's offer today to boost wages 15 per cent. Unionists had demanded 20 to 25 per cent.

At the same time gold prices soared. The Napoleon shot up to 5700 francs, the highest since General de Gaulle resigned as provisional president in January, 1946.

There was evident indecision in the government ranks in the National Assembly. Last night the question of holding local elections next month versus next spring was confused by a a vote which was erroneously interpreted as settling the issue.

They voted 291 against 286 last night to receive a government party motion postponing the elections until March. The margin of 5 was the smallest Premier Queuille has had since he was invested September 10.

The Assembly tonight voted 302 to 276 to postpone the elections.

Clique Got Him in War, Nizam Says

Hyderabad City, Sept. 25 (U.P.).—The Nizam of Hyderabad charged tonight that he was held "completely helpless" for eight months while a small government clique "spread the terror" that led to his state's five-day war with India.

The Nizam gave his "inside story" over the official state radio.

He denounced former Prime Minister Mir Laik Ali, Kasim Razvi, chief of the Razakars (Moslem irregulars), and other Moslem leaders for using "methods reminiscent of Hitlerite Germany to take possession of the state."

This group, the Nizam said, waged a campaign of terror, arson and looting which provoked the Indian invasion of September 30, and then "vanished when the Indian army was about 40 miles from Hyderabad City . . . leaving me to save the situation as best I could."

Minnesota Farmer Is Indicted For Slavery

St. Paul, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—A Federal grand jury tonight indicted a well-to-do Minnesota farmer for slavery.

The indictment charged that George Stark, 56, Gibbon, Minn., kept a farm laborer a slave for 6½ years.

The jury also charged that Stark and his 80-year-old mother conspired to deprive the farmhand of other civil rights and of transporting him for the purposes of slavery.

The farmhand is Francisco Rodriguez, 38, an American of Mexican descent. He said he had been enslaved so long he has lost track of time.

U. S. Illiterates at Record Low; Census Lists Only 2,800,000

Illiterates may hear this, if someone will read it to them, and be comforted to know there are 2,800,000 other Americans over 14 who cannot read or write.

The Census Bureau reports the country's illiteracy is at an all-time low.

The 2,800,000 represents 2.7 per cent of the total population in the over-14 age group. The rate in 1930 was 4.7 per cent; in 1920, 6.5 per cent, and in 1870, 20 per cent.

The Census Bureau says there are four reasons for the increase in the ablitily to read and write:

Greater enforcement of compulsory attendance laws, extension of educational opportunities, dying off of relatively numerous aged illiterates, and special training given illiterates in servce during World War II.

Nevertheless, the bureau found, 5 of each 100 persons in farm areas (double the general average) and 11 out of 100 non-whites (nearly four times the general average) still cannot read and write.

The 11 per cent illiteracy rate for nonwhites—mostly Negroes, although American Indians and Asiatic races also were counted—was six times as high as the 1.8 per cent rate for whites.

Among whites, the illiteracy rate was about the same for females as for males. But among nonwhites, illiteracy was nearly twice as prevalent among women.

U. S. Moving Consulates In Line With New Needs

The State Department took another step to "streamline" its foreign service yesterday by putting American consulates where they can do the most good.

It said it was closing six more little-used American consulates at Tahiti, Society Islands, La Guaira, Venezuela; Cartegena, Colombia; Martinque, French West Indies; Cochahamba, Bolivia; and the combined Fort William-Port Arthur posts in Canada.

The department said official reports from abroad indicated a growing need for new posts elsewhere, "particularly in the Mediterranean and in the Near East."

Italy Denies Pay Hike

Rome, Sept. 23 (AP).—While some 1,000,000 Italian government workers demonstrated yesterday for higher pay, the Chamber of Deputies voted down a proposed wage increase, 246 to 129.

Lords Retain Power

London, Sept. 23 (AP).—The House of Lords defeated by 206 to 34 today a Labor government bill to curtail the power of the peers to delay legislation. The Lords now can block legislation for two years. The government wants to cut it to one year.

State Acts to Put Truman on Ballot

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 23 (AP).—President Truman appeared assured today of a place on Louisiana's November ballot.

The State Legislature in special session kept rolling a proposal to restore his name. The measure would give Truman supporters until October 5 to file a petition with the Secretary of State signed by 100 qualified voters nominating 10-elector candidates pledged to him.

An alternative procedure to permit the Democratic National Committee to file a slate of elector candidates with the Secretary of State was stricken in committee. That provision was a fighting matter to States' Rights Democrats in battle with the National Committee.

The amended bill received unanimous committee approval and was expected to receive House action tomorrow.

President Truman and his running mate, Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, would be listed on the ballot under some party name yet to be selected. The original bill would have listed them as "National Democrats" but this provision was stricken by an amendment approved by the committee today.

States' Rights candidates, Govs. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Fielding L. Wright of Mississipi, would be listed as the regular Democratic candidates. The State Central Democratic Committee, ruling party body in the State, declared them the State party's candidates on September 10, dropping Mr. Truman from the ballot.

Gov. Earl K. Long summoned the Legislature hurriedly together last night to consider restoring Mr. Truman to the ballot, and also to consider 27 State administration proposals.

Leander Perez, south Louisiana political leader, who sparked the State Democratic Central Committee's September action, said, "This is the best bill we could devise under the circumstances. I wouldn't say it is a good bill because of my opposition to Truman, who would return carpet-baggery to the South."

He said the nominating petition by the 100 qualified voters would specify some symbol to head the Truman ballot, but that the traditional rooster of Louisiana Democrats would be restricted to the Thurmond-Wright ticket.

Lorris M. Wimberly, administration floor-leader in the House, said it would "allow Democratic voters to vote either for Thurmond or Truman and still remain in the Democratic Party."

Provision was made for nominees of the August 31 State Democratic primary to appear under both tickets.

Arkansans Won't Plump For Thurmond

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 23 (AP).—States Rights Democrats today abandoned efforts to have the Arkansas State Democratic Convention name presidential elector candidates pledged to the State Rights ticket.

John L. Daggett of Marianna, member of the States Rights executive committee said that instead of the expected convention fight, the candidacies of Govs. J. Strom Thurmond and Fielding Wright for president and vice president of the States Rights ticket will be placed on the Arkansas ballot by petition, Daggett said.

The move paved the way for the Democratic convention to name presidential electors pledged to the Truman-Barkley ticket or uninstructed electors.

Thurmond Denies GOP Is Aided by Dixiecrats

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 23 (AP).—Gov. J. Strom Thurmond denied vigorously tonight that the States' Rights Democratic movement is helping to elect a Republican President.

On the contrary, the States' Rights presidential candidate declared, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey "would have carried nearly every Southern State" if the States' Righters had not entered a ticket.

"Let not your hearts be troubled by false reports that the States' Rights ticket is helping Governor Dewey by splitting the Democrats in the South," he said in an address prepared for delivery at the city auditorium. The speech was broadcast over an 18-station hookup in four States.

He said States' Rights Democrats now feel that Dewey will not carry a single Southern State.

Thurmond, whose home is only 25 miles from Augusta, brought his presidential campaign to Georgia for the first time in quest of this State's 12 electoral votes.

Georgia Democratic leaders, however, have indicated they may either pledge Georgia's elector candidates to Senator Russell (D., Ga.) or leave them uninstructed.

A-Weapons Vital Now, Says Dewey

at whistle stops in four other States.

He kept plugging, too, for his projected Washington "unsnarling" operation at Ashfork and Prescott, Ariz., and on into the State capital.

Then at Phoenix tonight he outlined for the first time what his ideas are on the future of atomic energy.

He told of his hopes that free peacetime atomic research will solve the mystery of the scourge of cancer, find a way to end the earth's food shortages, learn how to convert coal into oil and even make the Arctic's vast frigid regions livable.

"I am not a scientist," he said. "I can't tell you how soon these things will happen. But we know already that they are not idle dreams or something out of Buck Rogers."

The world has the choice, he said, of reaping the unimagined blessings of atomic peace or the unimagined destruction of atomic war—"there is no middle ground."

To build a new world of tomorrow he said "we must win the peace, and we have not yet won it." So long as the danger of war threatens, our scientists must concentrate on military use of what Dewey assured his listeners is for the present at least "America's secret."

"Any other course would invite disaster for us and for mankind," he said. "It would increase the likelihood of war, not diminish it."

America has proved her good faith by striving tirelessly for two years through the United Nations to provide effective international controls but was "blocked at every turn by the opposition and the repeated vetoes of the Soviet Union," he told the Phoenix audience.

Means of turning the new force into an "instrument of peace—not of war" is high on the U. N. agenda in Paris today, he said.

"Until other nations are prepared to act in like good faith we will safeguard this decisive secret . . . we will do that—not as an act of ill-will against any people. We will do it for the protection and safety of our own freedoms."

He termed present Government atom controls the most sweeping monopoly in our history and said it cannot remain so if atom power is to be fully developed in peacetime. He said America learned a long time ago what Government can and cannot do, what the free initiative and enterprise of our people can do, adding: "Some nations haven't learned . . . yet. But make no mistake about it. They will."

He said America did not split the atom and make the bomb alone—"we were immensely aided by scientists . . . who had fled Europe's dictators to a haven in America," he concluded.

"If the atomic future is to be one of promise rather than disaster, then mankind must summon its moral resources and make a similar common effort in the realm of the spirit."

A delegation headed by Clarence Buddington Kelland, Arizona's G.O.P. national committeeman, and Bruce Brocket, Republican candidate for Governor, boarded the train at Winslow and rode with Dewey into Phoenix.

Taft Hits Name-Calling Tactics of Truman

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 23 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft declared today that President Truman had descended to demagoguery and name-calling" in an effort to outdo Henry Wallace and hold the "radical wing" of the Democratic Party.

Thereby, the Ohio Senator added in a prepared keynote speech to the Republican State Convention, the President has "alienated Democrats and Independents alike."

Senator Taft described Mr. Truman's Labor Day speech at Detroit as a "class appeal to labor, wholly misrepresenting the history of labor legislation from the year 1900 until today, and the position of the Republican Party."

Earlier, Senator Taft said he would campaign through the South for the Republican presidential ticket. At a news conference Taft predicted Gov. Thomas E. Dewey would "carry more States south of the Mason-Dixon Line than President Truman.

The senior Ohio Senator said he would begin his Southern speaking tour October 11 in Nashville, Tenn..

"I have a $5 bet with a man that Dewey will do better than Truman south of the Mason-Dixon Line and east of the Mississippi River," he smiled.

"I think I'm going to win that bet."

States' Rights Group Meets In Arlington

Twenty-two persons from Arlington and nearby counties attended a rally of Virginia's State's Rights party in Patrick Henry School in Arlington last night. Plans were made for setting up a county State's Rights organization at another meeting October 4.

In extemperaneous speeches from the floor, a half dozen of those present defended the South's segregation policies, hit at the civil rights program of President Truman, and called the Thurmond-Wright ticket the defender of Jeffersonian democracy.

The meeting was conducted by Frank Burton, jr., of Stewart, Va., State chairman of the State's Rights party.

Burton explained the small gathering by saying the meeting had been announced for the Arlington Courthouse, but it was learned after the announcements had been sent out that Arlington has a policy against political meetings at the courthouse.

Burton charged that if segregation is abolished in the South by Federal law, the Federal Government will be trying next to solve "the locust and beetle problems of the West" by Federal law.

One of the speakers was Horace T. Morrison, commonwealth attorney for King Georges County, Va., who said he had come to the meeting to see what could be done for the States Rights ticket in Arlington County.

King Georges County is one of the counties directed by a Federal court order to provide equalized educational opportunities for whites and Negroes.

"The Washington Post," Morrison told the meeting, "gave a pretty exaggerated account of our situation, and it certainly didn't help it.

"They got things so worked up we barely avoided a second Civil War."

He predicted King Georges County would vote two to one for the States Rights ticket. "No man can cram civil rights down any man's throat," he said.

'Streamlining' Promised By Gov. Warren

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 23 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren tonight promised a Republican streamlining of the "vast mystic maze" and "topsy-turvy complexity" of governmental bureaus.

An "inbred" Democratic Administration now "breaking open at the seams," he declared, has become an Administration of "organized chaos."

Reorganization of the executive branch is "long past due," Warren said, and it is now high time the taxpayer "gets a dollar's worth of service for each tax dollar spent."

Coming for the first time onto the solid Republican ground of Ohio, the GOP vice presidential nominee gave the Truman Administration a gloves-off going over.

At Cincinnati today, Warren said the United States has to have a new leadership and a new approach in government.

Thomas E. Dewey, New York Governor and Republican nominee for President, will provide the new leadership and approach after the election in November, he declared.

"Dewey will tackle every problem this country has and he will tackle it head-on," Warren said in a speech from the rear platform of his train.

Warren said people were troubled about Russians infiltrating into the Government.

"It is too bad but there are two million good, faithful servants in our Government, but there are just enough of these Russian termites to bring discredit to the whole system," Warren said. "It is unfair to them."

Gov. Lane Would Defer Maryland Redistricting

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 23 (AP).—Governor Lane said today that a redistricting of Maryland should await the Federal census of 1950 to avoid "considerable controversy."

Lane's statement supporting a recent decision of the State Legislative Council to defer action on the plan was issued in reply to a request for his views, the State House said.

Gov. Folsom's Accuser Wed to Old Sweetheart

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 20 (U.P.).—Mrs. Christine Putman Johnston, the red-haired divorcee who once named Gov. James E. Folsom as the father of her 2-year-old son, was married recently to her hometown sweetheart, it was disclosed today.

Her brother, Carter Putman, who represented Mrs. Johnson's son in the paternity suits, said she and Maurice Webb were married September 1 in Nashville, Tenn.

Wallace Accuses Railroads of Defrauding U. S.; Says Truman Kept Facts From People

Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 23 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace, opening his final coast-to-coast campaign trip, accused the railroads tonight of "defrauding" the Government of two billion dollars in wartime and the Truman Administration of hiding this from the public.

The Progressive Party candidate for President made the statements in a speech prepared for delivery at a rally in Toledo's civic auditorium.

Toledo was the first stop in Wallace's tour. He left New York this morning in a chartered plane, which next week heads for Texas and the West Coast.

In the afternoon, Wallace told a group of about 500 college students at the University of Toledo that a showdown in Germany "could mean war" and he is afraid "no nation would be on our side."

He also told the youngsters: "any peace that could be arrived at now would be infinitely superior to any peace after a war, no matter how successful we were militarily in that war."

At tonight's rally, Wallace said the Truman Administration has postponed indefinitely a hearing which was to have been held before the Interstate Commerce Commission concerning railroad freight rates charged for Government shipments during the war.

And Wallace called the postponement "an almost unknown, but striking example of subservience of the Truman Administration to vested interest."

"On September 2, 1948," said Wallace, "the last act in this terrible evasion of public duty unfolded with a statement by Secretary of the Army Royall, that, because of the possible danger to the security of the United States that could be suffered by revelations of wartime shipping potential at this time, the hearings would have to be postponed indefinitely."

Wallace then said: "This is nonsense. It is the shallow excuse for serving monopolies, in the best tradition of Truman Administration, to cry 'national defense' to cloak acts which has the strength of the American people."

He declared that "behind a curtain of fear the monopolists have converted the Government of Franklin Roosevelt into the model of Republican reaction which we defeated four times."

Rights Party Sees 150,000 Virginia Vote

Richmond, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—The States' Rights Democrats could roll up 150,000 votes in Virginia "right now," State Senator Frank S. Richeson predicted today.

Richeson, executive director of the party in Virginia, said pledges of private support are "rolling in," along with campaign contributions.

Yesterday, Richeson disavowed any claim to $12,000 in the Democratic Party treasury for the States' Rights Democrats. The money was raised at a Jefferson-Jackson day dinner.

This development came as preparations were under way for Saturday's meeting here of the policy-making Democratic Party Central Committee.

At the meeting, the $12,000 again probably will be the subject of conversation. It is believed the money will go toward furthering the campaigns of Senator A. Willis Robertson and the Democratic congressional nominees with the matter of support for the Truman-Barkley ticket left alone.

Richeson's disavowal of the Jefferson-Jackson dinner funds followed a suggestion that the States Rights Party might lay claim to the money.

Said Richeson: "On behalf of the Virginia States Rights Committee, I am authorized to state that the Virginia States Rights Committee does not consider that they have any legal right to any part of this money."

Truman Opens Up On Third Party

mention him. He has been needling the New Yorker for several days, implying that he is indulging in "double talk."

Governor Dewey, who is trailing the President, speaks in the Hollywood Bowl tomorrow night.

Mr. Truman, traveling down the San Joaquin Valley today, received concrete evidence that Henry Wallace has been slipping in California, which next to New York, perhaps, is his greatest stronghold.

He was shown a copy of the Los Angeles Times, which carried a Gallup Poll indicating that he himself had gained on Governor Dewey in California and that Wallace had fallen off 2 percentage points since early September.

Addressing a Democratic rally here tonight in Gilmore Stadium, Mr. Truman mentioned those people "with true liberal convictions whose worry over the state of the world has caused them to lean toward a third party."

"To these liberals," he continued, "I would say in all sincerity: 'Think again.'"

After saying that Communists were guiding Wallace's party, he continued:

"But there is another and very practical reason why it is folly for any liberal to put his hope in this third party.

"The third party has no power in government and no chance of achieving power. The simple fact is that the third party cannot achieve peace because it is powerless. It cannot achieve better conditions here because it is powerless.

"The Democratic Party is the party which truly expresses the hopes of American liberals, and which has the power to fulfill those hopes. We have worked for peace in a difficult international situation and we shall continue with all our strength to work for peace.

"We have worked for the improvement of conditions here at home—to curb inflation, provide low-rent housing, give aid to education, extend civil rights, and in scores of other ways . . .

"A vote for the third party can only weaken the efforts of the Democratic Party to build a healthy Nation and a peaceful world.

"A vote for the third party plays into the hands of the Republican forces of reaction, whose aims are directly opposed to the aims of American liberalism.

"A vote for the third party will not promote the cause of American liberalism, but will injure it.

"I say to those disturbed liberals who have been sitting uncertainly on the outskirts of the third party: think again. Don't waste your vote."

James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is Democratic National Committeeman for California, got aboard the 17-car President Special at Burbank this afternoon.

Roosevelt, in talking to reporters said, "Things look pretty good around here." He said that disputes within the Democratic Party in California were being ironed out, and added: "I think the President is doing very well."

On arrival in Los Angeles, Roosevelt rode in an open car with Mr. Truman from the depot to the Biltmore Hotel. The crowds along the streets were not very large for a city the size of Los Angeles, one reason being, apparently, that a million saw the Chief Executive when he was here last June.

Amidst the cheers that arose today were a few cries of "Hooray, Wallace," and at one point a couple of youngsters held up pictures of Governor Dewey and his running mate, Gov. Earl Warren of California.

On the way down the San Joaquin Valley today, during a stop at Fresno, Mr. Truman talked about his record as an artillery captain in World War I. Whether he had any motive in bringing it up, was not clear, and his associates said they didn't know what he had in mind.

Mr. Truman was talking to a crowd made up very largely of farmers.

"I ran a farm for the best 10 years of my life in Jackson County, Missouri," he said. "It had 600 acres on it, and I went there when I was 22 years old and left it when I was 33 to go to war.

"I didn't claim any exemption on account of that farm, nor did I claim any exemption for being 33 years old. I went over and joined a battery of field artillery . . . I am not bragging about that because that is just what I ought to have done, but I wanted to impress upon you that I know something about the farm situation."

There was disagreement among those aboard the train as to Mr. Truman's purpose. Some thought he was drawing a parallel between his own record and that of Governor Dewey, who was a boy when the United States entered World War I and nearly 40 at the time of Pearl Harbor; but there were others who were convinced that the President just fell into a discussion of his 1919-18 service without any particular motive in mind.

On the way to Los Angeles, Mr. Truman also accused the farmers of becoming "fat and rich" and turning "almost economic royalists."

He described Representative Bertrand W. Gearhart, a Republican whose district he was in, as "one of the worst" members of the House. Later in talking to reporters here in Los Angeles, he said he was sorry he had said that.

In his speech here tonight, Mr. Truman followed up his opening remarks about this being a "championship fight" by saying:

"The decisive battle has arrived. The people are going to have to choose one side or the other. The Democratic Party and I have nothing to conceal. We are proud of our record. The underlying struggle in this campaign is a struggle between two sets of ideals.

"The Democratic ideal of America is summed up in the four freedoms: Freedom from want; freedom from fear; freedom of worship; freedom of speech.

"The Republican ideal, as I have seen it in action, is summed up in the phrase, 'Big business first.'"

He said that certain great business interests were trying to "corrupt American idealism," using the Republican Party as their instrument. He said that they hoped that a large number of voters would stay away from the polls this year, since that is the only way the Republicans can win.

"High Level Platitudes"

"With that in mind," Mr. Truman said, "they are trying their best to avoid any suggestion that there is something to fight about in this campaign.

"They are trying to lull you to sleep with 'high level' platitudes. They are saying in effect: 'Everything is all right, and everything will go on being all right if you will just forget about politics and leave things to us.'"

Mr. Truman said he wished this were true, but he insisted that it was not true.

Triple-prize cake results—only with Emulsorized shortening

1. PRIZE LIGHTNESS. Airy-light! Fine-grained all through! That's Snowdrift cake, tempting folks to eat more!
2. PRIZE RICHNESS. Your "quick-mixed" cakes are richer, more tender. No matter what kind—chocolate, silver or spicy.
3. PRIZE MOISTNESS. Cakes made with New Snowdrift are moister—stay fresh and luscious longer!

New Emulsorized Snowdrift gives you the very latest development in shortenings, presented by the Wesson Oil People. It is a "blending aid." And New Snowdrift does just what it says...gives you perfect blendability!

The new "quick-mixing" cake recipes call for more milk and sugar than old-type recipes. Now, only an emulsorized shortening can properly "blend in" this extra milk and sugar. Ordinary shortenings won't do this. That's why New Emulsorized Snowdrift is different...it mixes so fast...blends so smoothly! And cakes come out wonderfully good. Lighter, richer, moister!

So do try the New Emulsorized Snowdrift. Compare it with any other shortening. See if Snowdrift doesn't give you the most luscious cake you've ever baked!

Don't wait! Start today to enjoy the New Emulsorized Snowdrift

RECIPE
VELVET CAKE WITH BITTERSWEET CHOCOLATE ICING

Quick-mixing recipes, like this, prove New Snowdrift's blendability. Give your folks the new treat of this richer, moister, lighter cake!

Sift together in a large bowl:
2¼ cups sifted cake flour
2½ teaspoons double-action baking powder (3¼ teaspoons single-action)
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups sugar
Add:
½ cup Snowdrift (Emulsorized—quick-blending!)
¾ cup milk
Mix until flour is dampened. Beat 2 minutes. If you beat by hand, and take "rests," count beating time only. (If you use electric mixer, use "low speed"; scrape bowl and beaters frequently.)
Add:
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup milk
Beat 1 minute. Turn into 2 ungreased 8-inch layer pans, with bottoms lined with thin plain paper. Bake in moderate oven (375°) about 25 minutes. Cool on cake racks 5 minutes; turn out of pans, invert and cool. Put together with—

BITTERSWEET CHOCOLATE ICING
...Snowdrift's smooth, easy topping!
3 tablespoons Snowdrift
3 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, firmly packed
½ teaspoon salt
5 or 6 tablespoons hot milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Melt Snowdrift with chocolate over hot water. Stir sugar and salt into 5 tablespoons hot milk until dissolved. Add chocolate mixture; beat well. Stir in vanilla. Add last tablespoon hot milk if necessary to give a spreading consistency. Spread on quickly.

Barkley Says U. S. Won't Be Forced Out of Berlin by Russians; Sees Resolve to Stay Backed by President and Democrats

New York, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Senator Alben Barkley, Democratic Vice Presidential candidate, said today it was "unthinkable" that the United States should be forced out of Berlin by Russian pressure.

"The position of the President, the State Department, the Democratic Party and, I believe, the American people, is we shall not give up Berlin, we will not move out, we will not be forced out," Barkley said.

Turning to the campaign, Barkley said there were indications the Republicans were conducting a "flowers and honey" drive in the belief it might not be to their advantage to get the people stirred up regarding the GOP record on inflation, housing and other domestic problems.

He said he was "very sure" the Republicans are not as "confident as they pretend." His recent swing through Eastern and Mid-Atlantic States, he said, has produced an optimistic picture not only for the presidential ticket, but also for local Democrats.

Barkley expressed fear for the reciprocal trade program in case of a GOP congressional victory on November 2.

"I am afraid the reciprocal trade program might be junked in favor of the log-rolling, back-scratching tariff system," he said. "I don't know that the Republicans would scrap the program, but there are certain elements in that party which certainly would like to do so."

Rival Candidates Meet . . .

The Washington Post

MARYLANDERS, ALL—Mrs. Irma Bogdanoff of Hyattsville welcomes the two rival candidates for Congress in Maryland's Fifth District to the meeting of the Prince Georges County League of Women Voters last night at the University of Maryland. They are Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (left), Democrat, who is running for his sixth term in the House, and C. Maurice Weidemeyer, Republican contender for the office

Sasscer and Weidemeyer Differ Little at Joint Rally

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Strong notes of peace and harmony were sounded last night in the joint appearance of two rival candidates for Congress in Maryland's 5th District.

The candidates were Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer, Democrat, who is running for his sixth term in the House, and C. Maurice Weidemeyer, Republican contender for the office. They spoke to the Prince Georges County League of Women Voters at a meeting in the Home Economics Building at the University of Maryland in College Park. About 100 persons attended.

Both speakers strongly indorsed the Marshall Plan. Both urged strengthening our domestic economies. Both recalled with pleasure previous meetings with league members. Both made clear they want election to Congress.

At that point, the harmony note just about ended although neither entered debate with the other.

Urges Dewey's Election

Weidemeyer appealed strongly for support of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, and predicted the Republican standard bearer's election in November.

Sasscer made no direct reference to President Truman's campaign to stay in the White House. He explained the omission later by saying he understood the league wanted to hear the speakers' personal views on public issues. He pointed out he has previously indorsed the Truman ticket and promised it his support.

On the Marshall Plan both Sasscer and Weidemeyer indorsed the program with varying reservations. Sasscer said that the ray of hope which the Marshall Plan gives for peace in the world is that the countries receiving the aid will use it not simply for their daily bread but for their rehabilitation.

Weidemeyer said, "I am in accord with the Marshall Plan, but I do not want to see it carried so far that those countries will be eternally dependent on the United States or that our economy will be depleted."

Sasscer Stands on Record

In the congressional race Sasscer said he was campaigning on his record of service in the Maryland State Senate and in Congress. He said his philosophy of Government was simple—"Government more or less boils down to the simple application of common sense, buttressed by a reasonable degree of experience and ability."

Weidemeyer called for a return to the State and local jurisdiction of as many Federal activities as possible. He said that our new philosophy of government should be to look to Federal agencies only for those things which the State cannot provide, "and then only so far as we can afford them."

Democrats Map Campaign For Smith

Northern Virginia Democrats yesterday oiled up the machinery with which they expect to return Representative Howard W. Smith to his tenth consecutive term in Congress.

A group of Fairfax County workers met in Falls Church last night to organize a get-out-the-vote campaign. Sheriff John E. Taylor said leaders were appointed for each of the six magisterial districts. But he withheld their names until they could be notified.

Wednesday night 200 leading party members in Alexandria met with Smith at the George Mason Hotel to plan the campaign in Smith's home town.

Alexandria Democrats named Mayor William T. Wilkins and State Delegate Armistead L. Boothe co-chairman of Smith's campaign there. Elected ward chairman were: first, Albert A. Smoot; Second, Randall J. Hicks; Third, John J. Ewald; Fourth, T. Reginald Dyson; Fifth, George Washington High School Precinct, Julian Chauncey, and Maury School Precinct, James M. Duncan, jr.; Sixth, George Z. Boheler.

In the November election, Smith will face opposition from Tyrrell Krum, of Fairfax, Republican; Frank M. Hurst of Alexandria, independent; and Sarah H. D'Avila of Arlington, Progressive.

Oct. 11 Proclaimed Pulaski Memorial Day

President Truman yesterday proclaimed October 11 as Pulaski Memorial Day in honor of the Polish-born hero of the American Revolution.

The date is the 169th anniversary of the death of Casimir Pulaski, who fell at the siege of Savannah, Ga., in 1779. Mr. Truman's proclamation said his life "had given promise of further glorious achievements on behalf of humankind."

Truman Misquoted Him, Rep. Taber Charges

Representative John Taber (R., N. Y.), yesterday accused President Truman of misquoting him "in his desperation."

Taber, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said that Mr. Truman on his Western tour "made the statement that I had said that the West was squealing like a stuck pig after the cuts that were made in the 1947 appropriation bill (for reclamation)."

"Mr. Truman knows that I never made any such statement."

"What I said was this: 'The minute anyone demands a business administration and elimination of the leeches in the Government payroll, they squeal like a stuck pig.'"

Taber said he was plainly referring to "leeches on the Government payroll," and added that the Western reclamation program cannot succeed "unless these leeches are eliminated . . ."

Textron to Keep Mill Open If It Makes 10%

Nashua, N. H., Sept. 23 (AP).— Royal Little, president of Textron, Inc., said tonight he would keep operating the firm's Jackson Sheeting Mill—employing about 1000 persons—if it returned a 10 per cent profit.

His proposal was made after he withdrew a previous offer to sell the Jackson mill as a going concern if he could have "a free hand in setting work loads and a tax ceiling of $20,000."

Little said, however, there was little hope of continuing the operations of the blanket-making mill —which employs some 2500—"because of the surplus of blankets in a buyers' market."

Little previously announced Textron would close both its mills here this year, making 3500 jobless.

Little's offer to keep the Jackson mill operating on the conditions of a 10 per cent profit drew an immediate verbal attack from Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers of America (CIO).

"Mr. Little," Rieve said, "now says he will operate the Jackson mill so long as it is profitable—this represents no sacrifice on his part.

"This move does not alter the basic facts. Mr. Little still plans to wipe out 2500 jobs, bringing his New England total to about 9500 jobs destroyed in the last few months."

Little's proposals to continue sheet operation came at a meeting between six officials of the CIO textile union, a special civic committee headed by Mayor Oswald Maynard and officials of Textron.

The conference was suggested by Senator Charles W. Tobey (R., N. H.), chairman of a special Senate subcommittee conducting public hearings here to investigate Textron's announced closing of its Nashua operations.

Earlier Rieve turned down Textron's plan for keeping two Nashua mills operating—a plan calling for the union to agree to heavier workloads.

"I am not going to be a party to any such cold-blooded proposal as Mr. Little suggested," Rieve told a Senate subcommittee investigating Textron's proposed closing of a half-dozen New England mills.

Rieve told the committee:

"I suggest that Mr. Little restore Nashua to the conditions which existed before he came upon the scene—before he milked the corporation of its assets."

Textron has announced plans to expand operations in the South and in Puerto Rico, where Little has said everything is cheaper.

Rieve charged Textron's expansion in Puerto Rico would 'bring new profit to a financial adventure at the cost of the United States."

"I favor the development of Puerto Rico," said the union leader, "but not at this price."

Senator Tobey interjected:

"The United States has been acting as wet nurse for Puerto Rico for years. It is robbing United States workers of their livelihood to subsidize firms like Textron in the Territory by granting Federal tax exemptions."

"We are killing off things here," added Tobey, "to build up Puerto Rico."

More than 1000 persons crowded the hearing hall as the sessions before a Senate Subcommittee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce went into its second day.

Rieve charged at the outset that Textron, Inc., was a "racket" and that the textile firm's speculations threatened to "destroy the city of Nashua."

"A few months after Little bought the Nashua mills for $10,500,000," said Rieve, "he took $9,500,000 out of it—and still owned the mill."

The CIO leader said "I am tired of hearing about mills closing down because their equipment is old—because of the 'high cost' mills.

"This happens in the South as well as in New England."

Rieve said that "in the case of Nashua, the profits, the surplus and the working capital have gone into speculation elsewhere."

"Mr. Little hasn't used Nashua as a mill," said Rieve. "He has used it as a mine—a gold mine. He has mined it and stripped it.

"Now he is ready to kill the whole enterprise and destroy the city of Nashua for the sake of a few dollars more."

Textron has announced its intention of closing mills in Esmond and Manville, R. I., Dover, N. H., Taunton, Mass., and Waynesboro, Va., as well as in Nashua.

The company plan for keeping the Jackson Sheeting Mills here going proposed that about 700 workers turn out the same production now done by 1500.

Mill officials, breaking down key jobs, gave these estimates:

1. In the drawing-in classification, four people to do work now done by 10.
2. In tying-in, six do work of 10.
3. In drawing, nine do work of 18.
4. In carding, 28 do work of 40.
5. In billing and warping, 61 do work of 137.

After Rieve testified, Little issued a statement to newsmen, saying:

"Mr. Rieve has made a number of statements—about me personally and about my business practices and about Textron operations.

"Many of these are false.

"The conclusions and inferences drawn are completely inaccurate and absurd. I can only assume these irresponsible statements are an attempt to intimidate the company in future negotiations and divert the public's attention from the real issues involved."

Union Found Guilty Of Political Spending

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Federal Judge Carroll C. Hincks today found American Federation of Labor Painters Local 481 of Hartford, Conn., and its former president, John R. O'Brien, guilty of violating provisions of the Taft-Hartley law prohibiting political spending by labor organizations.

He imposed a fine of $200 on O'Brien and $800 on the union.

J. Albert Woll, counsel for the AFL, who challenged the constitutionality of the provision, said "we are contemplating filing a notice of appeal tomorrow."

O'Brien and John W. Trantum, who succeeded him was president of the local last June, pleaded innocent to an indictment handed up by a grand jury charging they paid for radio time and newspaper advertising urging the defeat of the six Connecticut Congresmen who voted for the labor law.

"The violation," said Judge Hincks, "was a deliberate attempt to challenge an act of the Congress of the United States and public policy requires that such attempt should not be facilitated or encouraged."

Auto Plant Guards End Walkout

Detroit, Sept. 23 (AP).—A strike of 170 plant guards that crippled a segment of Detroit's auto industry for 15 days came to an end today, and 60,000 idled auto workers prepared to return to their jobs.

The Briggs Manufacturing Co., whose 25,000 workers had refused to cross the independent union's picket lines, planned to go back to full scale operations Friday.

Chrysler Corp., its assembly lines stalled by a shortage of Briggs bodies, called back 20,000 auto workers Friday and 3000 Plymouth workers Monday.

The Packard Motor Car Co., shut down like Chrysler by a body shortage, ordered 6000 workers back to work Monday and a few hundred for Friday.

The Briggs strike was called off when Local 114 of the United Plant Guards Workers of America agreed to terms of a two-year contract offered by the company.

The 170 guards struck for 15 minutes of preparatory time and premium pay for weekend work, but the new contract granted neither demand.

It called for five paid minutes of preparatory time, like the old contract, and contained no provision for weekend premium pay.

Discrimination Possible, ITU Head Admits

Indianapolis, Sept. 23 (AP).—Under sharp questioning by a Federal judge, President Woodruff Randolph of the International Typographical Union conceded today that hiring discrimination against nonunion printers is possible under ITU contract proposals to newspaper publishers.

Randolph gave the testimony during a 40-minute quiz by Judge Luther M. Swygert in the contempt case against the union and its officers.

They are charged with continued insistence on contract terms designed to maintain closed shop conditions in newspaper composing rooms in the face of an injunction Judge Swygert issued last March. The closed shop is barred by the Taft-Hartley law.

The court noted that the ITU wants publishers to agree to require nonunion job applicants to take competency tests given by a board of two union and two publishers representatives. ITU members would be accepted for jobs without a test.

In answer to Judge Swygert's questions whether this would permit the ITU to disapprove nonunion applicants or at least delay action on a nonunion man's application, Randolph said he thought the system would work out fairly.

"You're jumping to a tremendous conclusion, Judge," Randolph complained.

The court pressed its question, however, whether discrimination against nonunion job applicants was possible.

"It's a possibility, isn't it?" the judge asked.

"Yes, it's possible," Randolph replied. "But it's highly improbable."

Randolph contended the scheme would maintain working standards in the trade and said that it would permit nonunion printers to get jobs. However, he conceded that union members dislike to work with nonunion members.

The ITU president said the union had no objection to adding a fifth member to the examining board to break tie votes "as long as he knows what he is doing."

However, Judge Swygert wanted to know if a test requiring all-around composing room competency in a number of different types of work, as proposed by the ITU for non-union jobs applicants, would not work a discrimination.

Randolph replied that union members have had to take apprenticeships before being permitted to take regular composing room jobs.

Pension Bargaining Upheld by Court

tions) Act so clearly includes a retirement and pension plan as to leave little if any room for construction," the majority opinion held.

"While the company has demonstrated a reasonable argument can be made that the benefits flowing from such a plan are not 'wages,' we think the better and more logical argument is on the other side and certainly there is in our opinion no sound basis for an argument that such a plan is not clearly included in the phrase, 'other conditions of employment.'"

Opinion on Affidavits

The judges are Otto Kerner, Sherman Minton and J. Earl Major.

In the majority opinion on the non-Communist requirement, Kerner said:

"It seems to me that it was rational for Congress to conclude that members of the Communist Party or persons affiliated with such party who believe in and teach the overthrow of the United States Government by force or by any illegal or unconstitutional methods were much more likely than others to misuse the powers which inhere in union office.

"Hence I conclude that Congress acted within its constitutional powers."

Dissenting, Judge Major said: "The facts required to be stated in the affidavit are of such an uncertain and indefinite nature as to afford little more than a fertile field for speculation and guess."

He said the provision was uncertain and vague and asked, "What is meant by a 'member of the Communist Party or affiliated with such party?'"

Both Sides Appeal

The case reached the court on appeals from the NLRB order of April 13 by both the company and union. The union held the non-Communist ruling was unconstitutional while the company contended the pension provision order was invalid.

The ruling applied specifically to Inland Steel plants in Indiana Harbor, Ind., and Chicago Heights, Ill.

A company spokesman said he interpreted the ruling to mean that the union's officials must sign non-Communist affidavits within 30 days to bring the subject of pensions into collective bargaining.

Under the law, collective bargaining means meeting at reasonable times and conferring in good faith with respect to wages, hours and "other terms and conditions." Neither side is compelled to agree to a proposal or make a concession.

Buckmaster Wins Fourth Term in CIO Rubber Union

Omaha, Sept. 23 (AP).—In the closest election contest in the union's history, L. S. Buckmaster of Akron, Ohio, today was named to his fourth term as general president of the CIO United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America.

Buckmaster, 54, received 810 votes to 808 for George R. Bass, 43, Akron.

Bass and Buckmaster were on opposite sides in a factional fight which has marked the thirteenth annual international convention since its outset. Buckmaster described the dispute as one to decide whether the union should move to the right or left, politically. He advocated a right-wing course.

H. R. (Whitey) Lloyd of Akron, aligned with the Bass faction, was named to a fourth term as vice president.

Both winners and losers spoke briefly after the elections, pledging to forget their differences and work for a better union.

D. C. Now Tops List as Pepco Stock Owner

By S. Oliver Goodman

"Home ownership" of Potomac Electric Power Co. is steadily nearing reality, a compilation by R. Roy Dunn, Pepco vice president and treasurer, indicated last night.

R. Roy Dunn

Dunn's survey of common stock distribution as of September 7, 1948, showed that 857,220 out of the outstanding 2,961,250 common shares were owned in the District of Columbia. This was an increase of 250,235 shares since the year began.

As a result, Washington nosed out New York State for first place in number of Pepco shares owned.

Maryland and Virginia investors also sharply increased their holdings of Pepco stock. Including the two nearby states' holdings, 1,081,793 shares of Pepco's outstanding common stock are held in this area, or about 36 per cent of the total.

Altogether, there are 5263 local investors in Pepco who average 162.88 shares per holder. New York has 9245 individual investors who average 75.65 shares each.

Maryland has 1556 Pepco investors with average holdings at 94.49 shares, while Virginia has 904 with an average of 85.78 shares.

For many years Potomac Electric Power Co. was wholly owned by Washington Railroad & Electric Co., which in turn was nearly all owned by the giant holding firm of North American Co. The Securities & Exchange Commission, ruling Washington Railway served no useful purpose, ordered it liquidated. In a series of transactions, including a recapitalization for Pepco, Washington Railway passed on its Pepco holdings to North American. The latter in turn was forced by SEC to divest its Pepco holdings. North American distributed its more than two million shares of Pepco in the form of a stock dividend.

Cumulative sales for the first eight months aggregated $85,257,000, a dip of 1 per cent from the like period last year. Nationally, sales trend 2 per cent higher for the month and were steady for the eight-month period.

The saving would be achieved, the company said, through a recent ruling by the Bureau of Internal Revenue eliminating the Federal transportation tax on commuter tickets in air travel.

Tucker Asks Dealers to Pay Off on Notes

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—Tucker Corp., automobile concern, is calling on its dealers to pay off their notes in an effort to gain more working capital.

These notes were given in part payment for dealerships throughout the country. The company has estimated that notes and cash from some 1700 dealers and distributors totals from $8,500,000 to nine million dollars. About half of this total is represented by notes, due for payment after the end of a year.

The money is needed to enable the company to resume operations which have been on a skeleton scale most of the summer while the Securities and Exchange Commission has been examining the concern's books.

The Tucker automobile, announced as a revolutionary new type rear engine car, has not reached the quantity production stage because of materials shortages and other difficulties. Some 35 models have been built for demonstration and display purposes.

Murphy Nominated As Loan League Head

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—Maurice K. Murphy, Rutherford, N. J., was nominated as fifty-sixth president of the United States Savings and Loan League, it was announced today. The nomination will be confirmed as election at the league's convention in New York City, November 10. Murphy, now vice president, will succeed Ralph M. Smith, West Somerville, Mass.

Universal Pictures Omits Dividend

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Universal Pictures Co., Inc., has omitted its quarterly dividend on common stock because of "unsettled conditions" in the film industry, J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman, announced today.

The company has paid three dividends of 25 cents each so far this fiscal year, the last of which was paid July 31.

During the nine months ended July 31, the company's net loss was $1,709,807, compared with a net profit of $2,470,167 in the same period a year earlier, Cowdin said.

Plans Stock Dividend

National Cash Register called a meeting of stockholders for November 16 to increase authorized common stock by 162,800 shares for the purpose of declaring a stock dividend of 1 share for each 10 held.

Wow! 'Inflation May Be Problem For Next 20 Years'

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—An economics professor declared today the Nation may have an inflation problem for the next 20 years.

David McCord Wright, professor of economics at Harvard University and the University of Virginia, told the American Management Association he did not rule out the possibility of a depression.

"But I am convinced," he said, "that such a depression, if or when it comes, need not be very deep, nor need it last very long. . . .

"The problem of our generation, I believe, will be far different from unemployment and protracted stagnation. Instead of Lord Keynes' vision of an economic 'day of judgement'—due to unemployment—I believe our long-range problem of the next 20 years or so will be one of recurrent pressure toward over employment (if one may use such a word) and its nearly inseparabl twin inflation."

Week's Auto Output To Show Small Drop

Detroit, Sept. 23 (AP).—Motor vehicle production in the United States this week total 89,047 units, Automotive News estimated today.

This will compare with a revised estimate of 92,620 cars and trucks last week.

The trade paper placed this week's passenger car output at 63,733 units and trucks assemblies at 25,314.

Automotive News noted the continued idleness of Chrysler and Packard because of a strike in their body supplier's plants and said that improved volume by Ford and General Motors proved "a sustaining factor" in this week's production.

Parking Patronage

It is a good thing that the proponents of the new fringe parking plan for the District are not easily discouraged, for the initial response has been nothing to shout about. We hope the officials of the Motor Vehicle Parking Agency are right in their prediction that the idea will soon catch on with the public, for the plan is a novel and workable answer to the continual congestion caused by too many cars competing for too few parking spaces downtown. The proposition of five hours' parking, plus rapid bus transportation to and from downtown, all for 45 cents, is unbeatable. We suggest that if patronage does not soon increase, the sponsors of the plan might consider posting signs on the highways leading to the downtown area calling attention to the fringe lots at 3d st. and Constitution ave. and 26th and E sts. nw. The plan deserves to succeed, and in their own interests motorists ought to be made fully aware of its advantages.

Harnessing Big Muddy

Ground was broken near Pierre, S. Dak., last week for a principal instrument in the present effort to control and develop the Missouri River. The new Oahe Dam, one of the largest earth-filled river barriers in the world, will be 227 feet high and 9300 feet long. It will back up water in a reservoir extending 250 miles upstream, and ultimately it is expected to produce 490,000 kilowatts of hydroelectric power. Constructed by the Army Engineers, it will cost an estimated 221 million dollars. It will be dedicated to the multiple function of flood control, irrigation, navigation, power production and recreation.

The Oahe Dam is the third such development in the Pick-Sloan plan for the Missouri Basin, a vast region covering one sixth of the land area of the country. The plan was born of an agreement between the Army and the Bureau of Reclamation, which long had been feuding over the direction the development should take. The interagency committee set up in 1944 to resolve the conflict has had the advantage of energetic support from the Governors of States in the river basin, though there is some reason to believe that considerations of log-rolling occasionally have entered the acceptance given the plan.

The peregrinations and vandalism of the Missouri River have been serious enough to warrant the hope that the Pick-Sloan plan will accomplish its purpose. Certainly the control of floods, the provision of water for irrigation and the generation of large quantities of power will permit development of resources on a scale never hitherto possible in the Missouri Valley. But at the same time there is cause for concern that the Pick-Sloan plan, which has been described as a mere marriage of convenience, is not comprehensive enough to do what is expected of it.

Most floods, for example, start far upstream. They are caused by too rapid water runoff—from eroded farms, misused grazing lands, mountainsides stripped of timber. Yet such essential agencies as the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service are not tied integrally into the plan. Some experts have expressed concern that the mere erection of huge dams without an improvement in land practices and controls far up tributaries will merely cause silt to back up and bring new problems. Moreover, thousands of acres of farmland are being flooded to make the reservoirs possible—certainly not an unmixed blessing. Nor has the perennial controversy over water rights been settled. If flood control is carried on at the source, there will be less water in the river. If irrigation proponents take all the water they want, then power will suffer. Navigation has never proved practicable on the upper Missouri, and if more water is diverted upstream, navigation on the lower river may suffer.

These questions are not mere academic issues. No program of development can succeed, of course, without the approval of the people it is designed to serve. In the Missouri Valley there is considerable feeling against an all-embracive authority modeled after the TVA. This is reason to look for some different pattern of solution. But it seems obvious that the maximum ultilization of Missouri Valley resources will not be achieved until some sort of harmonization is worked out between the conflicting interests. The squabbling between Federal agencies alone is a disgrace. Harmony will require a great amount of education, and it seems clear that if the people of the valley are to support the undertaking, it must include ample representation for the residents themselves. But unless some over-all coordination is achieved, there is real danger that, alone, the Pick-Sloan plan not only will prove insufficient for the need, but will actually turn out to be a costly boondoggle.

Berlin "Final"

The "final" note to Stalin on the crisis in Berlin seems to have been dispatched from Paris as a result of a personal review of the conversations to date by Messrs. Marshall, Bevin, and Schuman. It is gratifying to note a meeting of minds. This has not always been easy to maintain, and the long-distance exchanges, even with the mechanical aid of the "tele-com," have been productive of both fatigue and occasional misunderstanding. Nothing could be more natural, even if all three participants are fully aware that the prime object of Soviet policy is to incite cross-purposes. During the negotiations over Berlin three French governments have collapsed in Secretary Marshall's lap, and, though there is a continuity of administrative, even ministerial, responsibility during an interregnum in French government, such deadlocks cannot help but breed uncertainty in both Paris and Washington. Nor has Britain remained as steady as might be assumed. Mr. Eden is in the opposition to Mr. Bevin, and so is not above an extravagant gibe at Mr. Bevin's expense, but there is a grain of truth in his comment that it is worse to have one government with three policies than one policy with three governments. Face to face, the Western governments seem to have had no sense of separation, which is bound to be felt when strong moves are in the making at long distance.

The Westerners must have been impressed by the sincerity and conviction which mark the Marshall approach to the crisis on Berlin. On this matter there is no infirmity of purpose about him. He may have been late in gathering the reins of this dispute in his hands, but, having secured them, his first concern was to discover the point at which compromise became appeasement. Doubtless, in Mr. Churchill's, and possibly General Clay's, mind, the point already has been passed. But, after a study of all the factors in the case, Mr. Marshall decided that the diplomatic record required fresh talks in spite of the Soviet blockade. In his view the currency imbroglio in Berlin, with Soviet Russia and the Western powers issuing and maintaining two separate currencies there, was related to the Soviet blockade, and therefore should be discussed in connection with the blockade. This has been done. In Moscow the generalissimo agreed upon a formula for making the Soviet mark the only currency available in Berlin and for managing this single currency by a four-power commission. In Berlin the Stalin agreement became a dead letter to Marshal Sokolovsky. The "final" note to Stalin is due to the fact that, when the Ambassadors asked for a fresh order from Stalin, they got no satisfaction. Acquiescence in a runaround, in Secretary Marshall's opinion, would be just as humiliating as any further concessions under duress. Britain and France, according to the news from Paris, are likeminded, and, judging from Mr. Bevin's speech in the House of Commons, are willing to let the dispute go to the United Nations, and take the consequences.

With the Berlin crisis overhanging the United Nations, the address of Secretary Marshall to the General Assembly will be read with particular care, and scrutinized for application to the Russo-Western dispute. The world will discover in it nothing sensational and nothing threatening. It is the speech of a man of peace, anxious to relieve tension and to discover a common ground for that purpose. Equally there is nothing in it of appeasement. Secretary Marshall twice pledged America against any sellout of "basic principle"—the principle of respect for law and order which is written into the Charter of the League of Nations. This is reassurance for those fear-struck people who, conscious that the real power in the world is now divided between the Soviet Union and the United States, profess to see in the making an agreed-upon Soviet-American condominium. This is what Mr. Wallace advocates. That this country was embarked upon such a course was suspected in Paris and London when they were not taken into confidence prior to the dispatch of the "open door" note last spring. The slip, which would have been remedied if the Kremlin had not published the note, was due only to Marshall caution. He is obsessed with "security," but as firm as a rock against deals. "Under no circumstances," he says, will we "barter away the rights and freedoms of other peoples." This is the key-phrase of the address, and it should bring reassurance to the peace-loving peoples, just as his statement that American patience should not be mistaken for American weakness should be a warning to the world's highwaymen.

Peron's Justice

Gone are the pretensions of Argentine Dictator Peron to "democracy" and "constitutionality," the facades behind which he has operated even while depriving Argentines of most of their liberties. Now he has come out bare-knuckled and frenzied with overt threats against anyone opposing his plan to amend the constitution so that he may "legally" succeed himself as President. "I who have pardoned them all the acts they have committed against the nation," he is quoted as saying in a radio broadcast, "I who have asked peace, who have asked tranquillity—my voice will not tremble on the day I order them all to be hanged." All in a nice, friendly, democratic fashion, no doubt.

This presents an interesting study in the psychology of dictators. There is no question that Peron will get what he wants, if only for the reason that he has taken pains to muzzle and perhaps liquidate most of his opposition. A handful of Radicals courageously continue to protest in the Argentine Congress, but the constitutional "reform" already has passed both houses and the once influential La Prensa has been moved to observe that all vestige of freedom of speech has disappeared from the Argentine Legislature. Yet Peron continues to bristle at the "outworn oligarchy" that dares to raise even a whisper of disagreement and thunders that it is necessary to "impose the will of the people." In his concern for the mask of legality, Peron is more than faintly reminiscent of two other dictators, Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini, both of whom were at pains to maintain parliamentary forms to cover their assumption of power. Psychologists probably would call this a manifestation of the guilt complex. Apparently the more absolute a dictator becomes, the less he is able to tolerate the thought that even a tiny fraction of the populace is not energetically behind him.

Loyalty Squabble

Probably it is too much to expect that anything coming out of Washington these days will be free from the taint of politics. But it does seem unfortunate that the Government's loyalty check should be debated in a political vein. We thought that the report of the Ferguson Committee on this subject was hypocritical—that it did not give sufficient credit for the good work that has been done in this field. Early this week Attorney General Clark replied to the committee with a highly contentious statement which has now drawn a retort from Senator Ferguson. Undoubtedly there are many improvements that can be made in the loyalty program, but they are likely to be lost to sight if it becomes the subject of a political dogfight.

In the light of Senator Ferguson's rebuttal, the facts cited by the Attorney General to discredit the original report do appear rather thin. The committee had contended, for example, that no priority was given to cases of special importance in the sensitive agencies. Mr. Clark replied that it is the duty of the agency head to ask for priority of investigation in cases that seem to warrant it, and that priorities are given whenever the request is made. But Mr. Meloy, executive secretary of the Loyalty Review Board, clearly informed the committee that no distinction was made between sensitive and nonsensitive positions in the timing of loyalty investigations. Mr. Ferguson also cites the damaging case of William W. Remington who, to his own amazement, remained in positions of vital importance to our national security for six months after filling out a loyalty form.

The points of controversy between Messrs. Ferguson and Clark are numerous. But it is worthy of note that the original report was signed by the Democratic members of the committee as well as by the Republicans. The critical nature of the report may be explained in part by the refusal of the Department of Justice to give the committee information to which it is, in our opinion, fully entitled. The committee is also irritated by the unwillingness of the Attorney General to let J. Edgar Hoover, FBI head, testify before it. Controversy springs inevitably from such an atmosphere.

Senator Ferguson now claims that, in spite of Mr. Clark's sharp retort, major recommendations of the committee have been put into effect. Whether these changes resulted from the committee's investigation or from the natural evolution of the new loyalty check system is a matter of greater interest to the disputants than to the public. We think the loyalty program should be scrutinized for defects, but the public interest would be best served if both sides concentrated on bringing about the desired improvements instead of trying to squeeze a maximum of political advantage out of the situation.

Farmers' Favor

On the surface, at least, a Democratic campaign talking point has been knocked akimbo by Governor Dewey's publicly announced support of the farm-price-support program passed by the Eightieth Congress. Governor Dewey took pains to deny Democratic charges that the Republicans plan to remove price supports. This is welcome news, for, as this newspaper has frequently noted, although there are distortions in the present price support pattern, the principle of governmental support of agricultural prices is basic to a balanced economy. Congress in its last session made a long stride toward rectifying the distortions with the flexible, sliding scale of support prices provided in the Aiken bill.

But while Governor Dewey's reassurance is encouraging, some of his Republican colleagues have given considerable reason for doubt. Some of them continue to inveigh against the Administration for deliberately holding up food prices through such devices as the potato purchase program. In point of fact, it was Congress which deliberately ducked this issue by providing that the sliding scale under the Aiken bill should not go into effect until 1950. This left the Administration no alternative but to continue supports under present laws even when Government buying appears ridiculous.

Moreover, the support program in wheat and corn has been rendered less meaningful because of a neat maneuver by the House Banking and Currency Committee under Chairman Wolcott. In renewing the charter of the Commodity Credit Corp., this committee sheared off the CCC's power to acquire more storage facilities. What this means in practical terms is that many farmers whose own bins are already full will not be able to get Government loans on their grain because it cannot be properly stored. In other words, they will be forced to dump it on the market. Governor Dewey's unequivocal pledge to support the long-range farm bill would be doubly welcome if the party were united on it.

Living History

Since changes are being made in the history course taught to District high school students, rather than require an additional semester of study of American history why not make several changes so that the presentation of the present material is more effective? History, when properly taught, is alive and fascinating. I noticed in my American history class at Western last year that the feeling "What does this have to do with me?" or "How does this affect me?" was prevalent.

I suggest: (1) The use of textbooks that stress the human factor, the part played by emotions and temptations that even we experience today; (2) assignments that include trips to museums, etc., (written and/or oral reports on material covered could be required). These two suggestions remove the subject from the list of dead, dry subject matter, and place it in the group of things in which one is interested, a change that is imperative if one is to get the most from history.

Cause Of Crime

As a native Washingtonian I was shocked and worried by the recently released FBI statistics listing Washington as first among all cities over 10,000 population in the number of aggravated assaults committed in the first six months of this year. In the same story your paper quoted high officials of the Police Department to the effect that these figures were nothing to be alarmed about and that the 200-man increase of the Police Department will help curb crime and decrease these figures in the next year. But I cannot agree with the police officials and I am very much alarmed.

Crime is a disease to society as is cancer or polio a disease to the individual. All doctors agree that cancer and polio cannot be wiped out by treating the individual after he has contracted the disease, but that it is necessary to discover the sources and causes of these diseases and to annihilate them. The causes and sources of crime must likewise be discovered and annihilated.

An additional 200 policemen will probably increase the efficiency of the Police Department in apprehending criminals after the crime has been committed, but the increased efficiency will not deter other criminals from committing the same crimes.

It has been written, lectured, and reiterated many, many times that poverty, filth, and insecurity are the elements which harbor and feed America's number one enemy—crime.

In the past, Congress has investigated Washington's slums and Congressmen have been shocked by the conditions which exist in the Nation's Capital, but no major slum-clearance project has ever been adopted for the District. There are no votes in Washington. Therefore, it is up to us as citizens to band together and demand and fight until some clear-cut action is taken; until crime is attacked at its source.

Dual Schools

The consistent report of continued inadequacy of school facilities in divisions 10 to 13 beginning with each school year becomes increasingly alarming in light of the fact that all efforts made toward correcting these conditions are practically futile. I am thinking, of course, of the concerted efforts made by our citizens in their annual appeals before both the District Commissioners and the Joint Congressional Appropriations Committee.

Twice each year we prepare and present precise reports of the minimum essentials for maintenance of the schools already constructed. Occasionally, we insert a hope that some way may be found to set up other much-needed buildings so that our children may attend a school in their legal travel area, but repeatedly there are no appropriations made for this program.

Since Congress is the only power that can regulate the appropriation and distribution of school funds, it might be well that it investigate the wisdom of its own actions to determine whether or not a separate but equal school system should be maintained in the District of Columbia in light of the increasing expense to support such a system.

Can it be that the dual school system in the District of Columbia is too expensive to maintain a separate but equal school set-up?

Language Of Art

Recently several letters have been published in your columns, some condemning modern trends in art and others in defense of so-called realism.

I hold no particular brief for any one type of art, but I do feel that there is a basic universal language that all fine works of art should possess, whether they be realistic, abstract, nonobjective or surrealistic. Contrary to a statement in Louise Tucker's letter of September 21, all great paintings can be analyzed.

There are such elements as design, color, form, technique, the choice of subject, the individual expression of the particular artist and the psychological effect of all this upon the observer, which determine the relative worth of a work of art. The composition of a so-called nonobjective painting composed of entirely new forms created by the artist can often be far superior in its use of these elements and what they express than one that has been too concerned with the visual in nature.

Art is not and should not be a great mystery. With continuous experimentation and use of the imagination, art, like science and other fields, could not progress. Throughout history, we have had good and bad, productive and unproductive periods, but all are a manifestation of their respective contemporary civilization.

Venezuela Replies To Sumner Welles

Mr. Sumner Welles 'article of September 21, "Latin Intervention," accuses "the men dominating" Guatemala, Costa Rica and Venezuela of "assuming the right to aid in the overthrow of such governments as those of Nicaragua, Honduras and the Dominican Republic, and to further the control of these and other neighboring republics by authoritarian governments of the extreme left."

The sole distinction that Mr. Sumner Welles makes is designating "the men dominating" and "the governments" clearly points at his personal preferences; in other words Dictator Trujillo is a government, the popularly elected government of Venezuela, he calls "the men dominating." As far as personal inclination is concerned that is perfectly democratic and no one will dare to deny Mr. Sumner Welles the right of liking what he may choose to like.

As far as the accusation against the Venezuelan government is concerned, I only wish to say that Mr. Sumner Welles has been misinformed. The government of Venezuela has not and will not assist in the overthrow of any government. But the government of Venezuela does not favor dictatorship and will support a collective prophylactic measure tending to isolate those governments of the Americas, as we are convinced that to enter into diplomatic relations with them is to encourage their terrorism and their fraudulent ways of keeping themselves in power.

We do not intervene in the affairs of others but we have the right to choose to have diplomatic relations only with those governments which have been elected according to the rules of representative democracy. That is all.

This, Mr. Sumner Welles finds dangerous for the peace of America and for Pan-Americanism. The trouble with Mr. Sumner Welles is that he has not kept pace with the new developments which have occurred in the international life of the Americas. There was a time when he was an authority on Latin-American affairs because he kept himself well informed and in close contact with developments south of the Rio Grande. At that time tyrants were lords in most of Latin America and there was nothing to do but to deal and to be friends with them. He got accustomed to regard Latin America as a paradise for dictators and tyrants.

Now that the picture has changed somewhat and the number of democratic governments has begun to increase and everybody in most Latin-American countries can speak his mind, and even the sense of Pan-Americanism is beginning to feel the impact of this change. Mr. Sumner Welles can hardly understand the situation.

The Pan-Americanism to which Mr. Welles is used is the old one, where the representatives of the American republics sat at a table, in very friendly mood, to discuss academic principles of remote applicability, and to argue about the orthographic mistakes of the typist in copying a resolution blessing Dictator Gomez of Venezuela for "his magnificent contributions to the couse of inter-Americanism."

Within the spirit of that old system it was an unforgivable sin for representatives of a Latin-American republic to express concern on the sufferings of the peoples of a sister country oppressed by the iron fist of a dictator. The incurable policy was to be friends with all governments, without regard to its spurious origin and not to worry about the miseries of the peoples.

But we have to excuse Mr. Sumner Welles because he was not in Mexico City when the representatives of the American republics subscribed to a declaration stating that "the American man cannot conceive of living without justice, just as he cannot conceive of living without liberty." And he was not present either in Bogota, when it was solemnly written in Chapter II of the Charter of the Organization of American States" that "the solidarity of the American states and the high aims which are sought through it require the political organization of those states on the basis of the effective exercise of representative democracy . . ."

Dewey's Planning

BEHIND THE Republican presidential campaign now unfolding as the Dewey special train moves across the country is the most careful and detailed planning by the Dewey team. This is not merely a few weeks of planning since the Republican convention in Philadelphia in June. It is literally years of planning, pointing up to the present drive and to the task of the Presidency which comes next on the schedule of the team.

That is one of the most impressive things about Candidate Dewey. Nothing that can be planned is left to chance.

The planning for the long future began the night that Dewey read the election returns on November 7, 1944, and conceded defeat. Every step that has been taken since then has been pointed up to the goal of the White House.

Both the outward evidence and the behind-stage machinery of that planning are impressive. In Albany and at Dewey headquarters here are identical master-card index files containing everything that Dewey has ever said on any public question. Each statement is underscored and checked as having been verified by Dewey himself.

The first task of the planners after the defeat of '44 was to conduct a thorough post-mortem on the reasons for that defeat. The contest of four years ago had been carefully planned but always with the realistic appreciation of the fact that the war was on and that therefore the voters would be reluctant to bring about a change in leadership.

THE '44 CAMPAIGN began very much like the present one. Dewey and the intimate members of his team moved on a special train through the West, with the candidate delivering one constructive speech after another on social security, foreign policy, labor. In his labor speech at Seattle, Wash., in 1944, Dewey said:

"The National Labor Relations Act is a good and necessary law. It acknowledges the trend of our times and will continue to be the law of the land. But that law has been working badly. It has failed to secure the industrial harmony we sought. It has failed because under the present Administration the whims of bureaucrats take the place of government by law."

Before a huge audience in Los Angeles four years ago he outlined his plans for expanding social-security provisions. But this was not what the Republicans of that day wanted to hear.

It was at this point that President Roosevelt made his famous speech to the Teamsters' Union in Washington. The Dewey managers recognized that it was an insidiously clever and brilliant political speech, but they determined to ignore it. Quickly, however, word came from Dewey headquarters in New York that the candidate would have to pitch in and call Roosevelt some harsh names if he expected to get money from big contributors to pay for radio time.

WHAT FOLLOWED was Dewey's slam-banging Oklahoma City speech. Conducting their post-mortem, the Dewey team concluded that this was what threw the campaign off balance and ended any chance of victory. While this may have been the rationalization of hindsight, it nevertheless became a firm belief that such an angry, emotional response was harmful.

A year and a half ago in Albany I talked with Dewey and most of the principal members of his team. At that time their quiet confidence was unmistakable. They outlined the nature of the presidential campaign that was to unfold in 1948.

So far as Dewey personally was concerned it would be pitched entirely on a positive, constructive note. The dead past would not be raked over. Dewey would never refer by name to his opponent.

The principal appeal would be to independent voters who consider themselves neither Democrats nor Republicans. The appeal consequently would be progressive and forward-looking. In four elections these same independent voters contributed heavily to Roosevelt's victories.

That is just the kind of campaign now being developed from day to day in the last car of the "Dewey Victory Special." He is not likely this time to be deflected from the prearranged plan. With present confidence and with eager contributors pouring in money, Dewey will not feel compelled to follow the Truman "give 'em hell" tactic.

There is, in fact, good reason to believe that the members of the Dewey team are properly grateful to Mr. Truman for his old-fashioned, hell - and - brimstone, princes-of-privilege attack. Against that background Dewey will continue to talk unity and the need for constructive change.

Sovietized Zone

We have just received a letter from Berlin in which our attention is called to the change of address: Instead of Jehlendorf (a Berlin suburb) the new name Stalindorf has to be used.

Our correspondent informs us also that one is not permitted to send letters from the Russian sector to western Germany and abroad so that now in order to mail such letters one has to go to the American, British or French sectors.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

Dewey And Berlin

PREDICTION has never been ...kier than in these grim times. ...t it requires no supernatural ...wers to foresee the most ...ely course of events in the ...xt six or eight weeks. Bar ...ne sudden, unanticipated re...sal of Soviet policy, the final ...stern approach to Moscow will ...d to no settlement of the Ber... crisis. The issue will then be ...ferred to the United Nations, ...ting in Paris.

The Western Allies will pre...nt their case, while Mr. Vishin...y shouts that the Soviets want ...othing so much as a peace treaty for all Germany and the withdrawal of all troops. He will simultaneously reject all terms on which a peace treaty might be accepted by the Western powers. And the Soviet authorities in eastern Germany will continue to build up a German armed force for the seizure of power if the Western occupation forces are withdrawn.

Despite Vishinsky's thunders, the United Nations will in all probability support the right of the Western powers to remain in Berlin unmolested. Meanwhile, Thomas E. Dewey will have been elected President of the United States, although Harry S. Truman will hold office until January.

This much seems predictable with reasonable certainty. But after that comes a great darkness. For what happens after the United Nations supports the West and Dewey is elected? Only one thing is clear. That is that Dewey is almost certain to be confronted, perhaps even before he is officially inaugurated, with a decision more crucial than any which has faced any newly elected President in our history.

IT IS conceivable, to be sure, that with the end of the American political campaign, the time of decision will at least be postponed. Last spring, before the Berlin blockade, an interesting assessment of future Soviet policy was made by the experts and submitted to the National Security Council. According to this assessment, Soviet foreign policy this summer and autumn would be based squarely on the assumption that the presidential campaign in this country was certain largely to paralyze American leadership in world affairs. The dominant faction in the Politburo, it was believed, had become convinced that the campaign presented the Soviet Union with the best possible opportunity for seizing control of Berlin.

The experts' assessment of Soviet policy seems to have been borne out by events. And this in turn suggests the hope that with the campaign over and a new administration firmly in the saddle, the Soviets will cautiously relax their pressure. They might suddenly revert to the same basis for settlement as that proposed by Stalin himself in Moscow at the end of August.

Yet this is no more than a hope, and a slim one into the bargain. The Soviet position in Berlin has been hardened by events and the bitter wrangling in Paris will harden it further. And if the blockade is not lifted, Dewey, and indeed the whole Western world, in which he will become the most powerful single figure, will be face to face with the ultimate choice, which has been postponed for so long. This is whether to evacuate Berlin or to risk an immediate war.

ALTHOUGH the French, who are on the firing line, are more hesitant, there is very little disposition either in Washington or London to yield to Soviet pressure. Contrary to the general impression, such sentiment as there is for evacuation in official Washington exists among a minority of the military. Any course other than evacuation, runs this military argument, might lead to war and the West is not ready for war. Berlin is a militarily untenable position. Moreover, it is argued, the airlift puts in jeopardy the bulk of British and American air transport, since in case of war the transport planes committed to the airlift could be quickly destroyed by bombing, by parachutists or by fighter planes.

This is a military view—held, it must be emphasized, only by a small minority of the military—and Berlin is essentially a political problem. And there is little doubt that Dewey and his advisers share the conviction of the Administratiion policy-makers that a backdown in Berlin could lead in the end only to a backdown in Vienna and everywhere else, or to war. This in turn suggests that very soon after the election, Dewey, in concert with the British and French leaders, will have to find some way to lance the Berlin boil.

The fact must be faced that there is no safe and easy way in which the boil can be lanced. There has been talk of economic sanctions to bring peaceful counterpressure on the Soviet Union. But preliminary studies indicate that such measures would be wholly ineffective, if only because the Soviet Union is already, by choice of its leaders, virtually isolated economically from the non-Soviet world.

Thus it seems likely that after the election, Dewey will have to choose some direct and decisive course of action to convince the Politburo that we mean to stand upon our rights. Such action will obviously involve the risk of war. But the wisest heads, in Paris and London as in Washington, believe that firm action will not lead to war but to peace, just as firm action taken in time might have spared the world the agony of the last war.

Kindler Calls Art, Religion Hopes of Age

Dr. Hans Kindler, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra, and Paul Hume, its "friend and critic," were speakers at the orchestra's ticket sales campaign luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower.

Dr. Kindler warned his audience: We are now in the atomic age; we face spiritual failure unless we can continue in the particular work in which we are most interested. . . . Only religion and art can keep us afloat. And art—when worthy of the name—is religion, if we take the works of Bach, Beethoven and others as for the greater glory of God.

"I hope we can survive," said Dr. Kindler. "If we don't, let's go to hell in style."

Mr. Hume, music critic of The Washington Post, faced 200 women from a seat at the speakers' table and offered a few suggestions for getting rid of tickets. "Buy them for Christmas gifts to your music-loving friends. Just send them a note saying 'You'll get your Christmas present on October 14.'" The first concert of the season opens that evening with Fritz Kreisler as guest soloist.

Presiding at the luncheon meeting was Mrs. Theodore Dominick, chairman of the Women's Committee of the National Symphony Orchestra Association. Mrs. Theodore Babbitt, chairman of the ticket sales campaign committee, spoke also.

O'Neil Assails Communism at Greenbelt Fete

James O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, vigorously attacked communism last night, terming it the greatest evil facing the Nation today.

O'Neil spoke at ceremonies dedicating the new addition to the Greenbelt American Legion Post clubhouse.

Arriving in the community in the early afternoon, the national commander was presented with the keys of the town by Mayor Thomas Canning, and a scroll proclaiming the day "Jimmy O'Neil Day" by Councilman Frank J. Lastner.

O'Neil was taken on a tour of the town, watched a shooting demonstration by FBI agents on the rifle range and reviewed the Greenbelt National Guard unit.

Among the invited guests were Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.), member of the House Armed Forces Committee, and John S. White, former speaker of the Maryland house of delegates.

Monument Ground Layout Studied for Sesquicentennial

With the 1950 sesquicentennial celebration in mind, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission yesterday approved in principle a new layout for the Washington Monument grounds.

A feature of the plans, which have also been approved in principle by the Fine Arts Commission, would be the extension of 15th st. westward to connect with the twin bridges over the Potomac to relieve 14th st. of a burden of traffic greater than it could handle alone once the second bridge is completed.

Another feature would be extension of the mall drives with overpasses across 14th st. An Independence ave. overpass is also recommended. 14th st. would be lowered as necessary.

Other features of the plan call for elimination of present roadways on the Monument grounds, and planting of trees to "remove the barren look."

Revamping of Sylvan Theater to accommodate a sesquicentennial pageant and larger audiences was discussed and decided against. It was felt that if a new amphitheater was necessary it could be of a temporary nature and possibly located on the west side of the Monument.

A committee has been appointed to work out details in connection with the plan. Members include: William T. Partridge and T. C. Jeffers of the NCPPC staff; Frederick V. Murphy, Fine Arts Commission member; Merel Sager, National Capital Parks, and one yet to be announced by the District Commissioners.

Final plans will be presented to the Sesquicentennial Commission for presentation to Congress, Thomas S. Settle, NCPPC secretary, said.

In other actions the NCPPC approved a small land condemnation award for several lots in the Deanwood Playground area in the Kenilworth section, and accepted a school board proposal that the new Armstrong High School be located on grounds that had once been planned for use by Bell Vocational School in the Gallaudet College neighborhood in Brentwood Park.

The commission also at the beginning of its two-day session yesterday approved 1950 budget estimates submitted by its staff. Hearings are scheduled to begin October 4 before the Budget Bureau on the estimates which are included in the independent offices appropriations bill. Amount of the estimates was not made public.

Two new members of the commission officially participated in a meeting for the first time yesterday. They are Dean William W. Wurster of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Frederick Bigger, chairman of the Pittsburgh Planning Commission. Col. Vincent E. Stack, the commission's new land-purchasing officer, also was introduced.

New Library Budget Asks $97,000 Raise

Funds to renovate the main branch of the public library at 9th and K sts. nw. are included in the $1,298,000 budget request for operating the libraries during the fiscal year beginning next July.

The request, made public yesterday by the Commissioners, calls for the district to spend $97,000 more on its libraries in fiscal 1950 than in the present year.

Librarian Harry N. Peterson said funds to renovate the new main library building at 499 Pennsylvania ave. nw. were not requested "because of the financial condition of the District and the need for strictest economy."

Half Million Cost Seen

Peterson estimated that it will take half a million dollars to renovate the building now used for offices.

"The need for more space has been evident for at least 20 years," Peterson said in asking for an appropriation of $34,000 to make changes at the 9th and K sts building. In the last 20 years book stock alone has grown from 235,942 volumes to 356,715, he said.

An additional $8438 was asked to purchase equipment for a new reading room that would be built in the basement.

"While the proposed renovation will take care of public service needs for several years, it is nevertheless a temporary measure, and does not preclude the necessity for a new main library in the future," Peterson said.

He cited complaints from the public on lighting as the reason for a request of $12,574 for painting the interior and the replacement of light fixtures in use 18 years.

Funds also were requested for repairs to the Georgetown branch totaling $1750; Northeast branch, $750; Southeast bransch, $1000; Southwest branch, $700; Mount Pleasant branch, $3300; Takoma Park, $1436, and Petworth, $1500.

For approach grading, concrete and painting at the E. V. Brown School, where the Chevy Chase branch is located, $6000 is asked.

Peterson noted that $4500 in rent saved by moving the Chevy Chase branch into the old school building will be offset next year by increases in rent of $600 at Woodridge and $300 at Anacostia.

The budget also contains provisions for $26,489 for within-grade salary promotions required by law, an increase of $300 in postage, $600 in telephones, $1500 in printing and binding and $20,000 for the greater cost of books.

Unique Cancer Survey Being Set Up in Md.

A two-year cancer research study is under way in four Maryland counties which may lead to some relief for victims of the malady.

The study is aimed at bringing into clearer focus the role of county health departments and public health nurses, as well as working out an effective reporting and follow-up system for cancer cases.

The project is sponsored and financed by the National Cancer Institute, the American Cancer Society and the Maryland Health Department.

Montgomery, Hartford, Washington and Frederick Counties were selected as representing a good population cross-section and also because better records are presently available in those areas.

The unique study also may determine the importance of heredity and environment in cancer control.

Cancer experts will base their research on family histories of patients in the counties. Physicians and hospitals in the survey area already have been asked to furnish information on existing cases.

As reports come in to county health departments, case workers will interview the patients, collecting all possible material pertient to the survey.

"When the study is completed," Dr. Raymond F. Kaiser, assistant chief of the Cancer Institute's control branch, said yesterday, "we should know where the disease occurs—that is geographically, in what age and occupation groups and with what family background."

Legion to Install Pincus as Head

Max Pincus, World War II veteran of Cottage City, will be installed as commander of the Colmar Manor American Legion Post at 8 p. m. Saturday in the Cottage City firehouse.

Other officers to be installed include Frank J. Walzl, Greenbelt, first vice commander; Roy Froelich, Bladensburg, second vice commander; Roy T. Dean, Hyattsville, adjutant; Glen A. Thrasher, Hyattsville, retiring post commander, finance officer; Albert Havens, Hyattsville, chaplain, and Elvin Luskey, jr., Washington, sergeant-at-arms.

Installation ceremonies will be conducted by Joseph Fields, department vice commander for the Southern Maryland District, a member of Cissel-Saxon Post, Silver Spring. A dance will follow.

Jewish Groups Seek 3 Major Quota Changes

Three major changes in the immigration laws, designed to "Americanize" and "modernize" the present quota system, were recommended to Congress yesterday by five national Jewish organizations.

The recommendations were submitted to a subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee by Irving M. Engel, of New York, chairman of the administrative committee of the American Jewish Committee, acting as spokesman also for the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society, the Jewish Labor Committee, the United Service for New Americans and the Synagogue Council of America.

Engel outlined the following proposed revisions:

That Congress make the quota system more flexible by permitting the carrying over of unused quotas from year to year and their transfer from one country to another. This action, he said, would make possible the full utilization of the ceiling figure of 153,000 annually established by law. An average of only 60,868 immigrants has entered the country annually from 1930 to 1947.

That the carry-over quotas be pooled and administered without regard to national origins. In the absence of priorities established by Congress, he suggested, the principle of "first come, first served" should be applied to applications.

Ethiopian Envoy Affront 'Unintended'

A "misunderstanding"—not an "insult" precipitated the incident involving the Ethopian Minister at Constitution Hall September 13.

This was the State Department's explanation yesterday as it politely but firmly dismissed the formal demands of the Ethiopian Legation that the person or persons responsible for "insulting" Minister Ras Imru be punished.

State Department Press Chief Michael J. McDermott told reporters yesterday that the whole thing arose out of the fact that Minister Imru, who was entitled to a box seat as Ethiopia's representative in this country, was given an orchestra seat, instead. But the ticket had been issued in the form of a box seat ticket, with an orchestra seat number typed in below. The word "box" had not been deleted.

It was "quite understandable," said McDermott, that Imru thought his seat was in a box. But several other chiefs of foreign missions also were assigned to orchestra seats, because there were not enough box seats to go around.

Imru, who first took a box seat, was asked by an usher to move to an orchestra seat. The minister stalked indignantly from the hall, and the formal protest from his legation to the State Department followed.

Polio Sufferer Begins 18th Year in Iron Lung

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP). Birdsall Sweet completed 17 years of existence in an iron lung today.

Stricken with infantile paralysis in September, 1931, when he was 14, Sweet lived continuously in the lung for some time after he was hospitalized at Vassar Hospital.

In recent years he has been able to be out of the lung during waking hours, even taking automobile rides, but he returns to the device at night.

Navy Air Show To Thrill Youth

For a lot of District youngsters—Boy and Girl Scouts, children from schools, hospitals, orphanages, members of juvenile clubs—Sunday is going to be a big day.

To salute this area's youngsters, as a part of National Youth Month, the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit will put on a two-and-a-half-hour show at Anacostia Naval Air Station Sunday afternoon.

High-lighting the events will be a performance of the Navy's official flight exhibition team, the Blue Angels. The five fighter plane pilots will execute loops, turns and dives in tight fighter formation.

At 2:30 p. m., a Piper Cub will be donated to the Girl Scout Wing Division by W. T. Piper, of Piper Aircraft. He will also pin wings on representatives of the division.

Also scheduled is music by the Navy Band, a tour of various training devices used in the Naval Reserve program, displays of the latest type of Naval aircraft, and short talks by distinguished guests.

New Viaduct To Get Signal

One traffic light is scheduled for installation at one end of the reopened Georgia ave. underpass in Silver Spring and another for the opposite end is being considered.

County Commissioner Oliver W. Youngblood revealed yesterday a light will be installed just north of the underpass, "in the near future."

Under consideration, he said, is another light at Georgia and Burlington aves., just south of the structure.

The Sligo ave. traffic signal is being financed with county funds, the official said, expressing the view that the Burlington ave. light is the responsibility of the State Roads Commission.

Youngblood said he would ask the SRC to make a traffic survey at Georgia and Burlington aves. to determine the necessity for a light at the intersection.

He said the two lights are needed because of the heavy volume of traffic entering Georgia ave. from side streets during rush hours.

Here Is Proof an Hour Lost Isn't Always Lost Forever

A solid 60 minutes of sleep, legally stolen last May, will be restored to Greater Washington Sunday.

The extra sacktime, an hour of repose lost five months ago when the area went on Daylight Saving Time, returns officially at 2 a. m. Sunday, when Standard Time is resumed.

Then—if you're still up and about—you can push the clock's hands back to 1 a. m. It's a pleasant task, however, that can be done upon retiring, provided bedtime is still daylight saving. You'll be able to slumber an hour longer nonetheless.

Thus, for residents of the District, Alexandria, and Montgomery, Prince Georges, Arlington and Fairfax Counties, the return of Standard Time means a mere flipping back of the clock.

To the trains, planes and buses moving in and out of the area, however, it means something more. Since they have never been off Standard Time, a few schedule changes are called for. But most changes will be paper revisions only.

Barber, 80, Sticks to 15c Cut

New York, Sept. 23 (NYHT).—William Ray, 80, was much too busy yesterday in his barber shop in Lowell, Ohio, to tell an inquisitive telephone caller from New York City why he has charged only 15 cents for haircuts since 1890.

"Fanny, you tell that feller I got a shopful of customers," the octogenarian told Miss Fanny Ewing, the Lowell telephone operator. "Got no time to talk. Got to cut hair."

With that, Ray went back to work in a shop that has remained practically unchanged since he opened it 58 years ago. One reason why his shop was full as usual—is that Ray still charges only 15 cents for a haircut, shave and haircut, 25 cents.

The telephone reporter, his own hair still redolent of a $1 trim (with extras and tip, $2.25), wanted to know why.

Miss Ewing, the telephone operator in her community of 600, said that whenever Ray is asked why he doesn't raise prices, he says: "Just haven't had time. Too busy."

The price of a haircut when Ray opened his shop 58 years ago was 15 cents. Since then, come wars, depressions, inflation, Ray has stuck to the original fee.

He averages 300 haircuts a week, plus a few dime shaves and now and then a sport who wants the works. Cutting 50 heads of haid a day keeps him busy from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. every day except Sunday. He has taken only one vacation in 58 years.

He started when he was 10. Because he was one of a family of 10, he practiced on his smaller brothers. At 19, he was ready to open his own shop.

Gaming Ruling Awaited in Brass Rail Case

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

The first direct evidence linking the Brass Rail shooting to a numbers feud may be uncovered in District Court today.

The revelation hinges on a decision to be made today by Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut as to whether Prosecutor Charles B. Murray is entitled to subject Melvin Johnson, 1214 E st. ne., called as a Government witness, to cross examination.

Following the cafe gunplay in which Charles H. Nelson, night manager, and Henry M. (Piggy) Leake are charged with shooting each other, Johnson made a signed statement to Murray in which he described conversations he had with Leake concerning the shooting. It has been indicated that the lottery racket was mentioned in the statement.

But in testifying before the special grand jury investigating gambling, it was brought out yesterday, Johnson denied certain portions of his original statement.

Called to the witness stand Wednesday, Johnson at first refused to testify, then under prodding by Murray and Schweinhaut, declared all Leake had told him was that he (Leake) had been drinking and didn't recall anything about the shooting.

Murray announced "surprise" and sought to interrogate Johnson as a hostile witness under the law. Defense counsel voiced objection on the ground that Murray couldn't have been "surprised" in view of Johnson's statements to the grand jury.

After hearing arguments, Schweinhaut read aloud from an opinion written by Judge Learned Hand of the Second Federal Circuit in a similar case: "It is one thing to threaten not to testify and another thing to carry out the threat. . . ."

The jurist then commented: "The only difference is that this man, after saying he would not testify . . . came in and actually did, although his testimony was absolutely contradictory . . . maybe he can explain it, but it would take a genius. . . ."

The judge also declared that the court has a right to elicit "elements of truth" from witnesses.

Earlier, Willie Mae Granger, Brass Rail cashier, identified Leake as the man who "beat on the door and asked for Mr. Simkins" (Roger Simkins, whose wife, Yvonne, the Government says, has controlling interest in the cafe).

Jacket Promises New Clew in Slayings

pair, said to have been wearing Marine uniforms.

They were believed to have used the automobile of a sailor stationed at Annapolis, but police discovered the car parked at the Naval Academy after broadcasting a lookout for the two men.

The car was in the hands of Naval authorities tonight and State police said it would be checked for fingerprints and other evidence.

A Navy spokesman at Annapolis said the automobile had been located there. He added it had been established that neither it nor the marines had any connection with the killings or the burglary.

In Reistertown, Md., police seized two marines in an automobile, but released them a short while later when they found they had no connection with the double killing.

At least four persons were questioned at Ferndale headquarters of Anne Arundel Police during the day, but police said they offered no helpful clews to solution of the mystery.

Lieut. Wilbur Wade, an Anne Arundel investigator, said he believes he has "a good angle" when

John E. Kline, father of the girl whose disfigured body was found with a bullet in the head, expressed the opinion that whoever killed "those two innocent people" is "not far away."

he suggested that vengeance or jealousy was the motive behind the sordid slaying.

"Whoever did it was a thief as well as a killer," he told reporters. "My girl's bracelet and watch were gone, and the boy's watch was gone."

He said he believed the murder was committed by "someone who knew the neighborhood."

U. S. Government Run By Nazis, Says Taylor

Madison, Wis., Sept. 20 (U.P.)—Senator Glen Taylor, Progessive Party candidate for Vice President, charged today that "Nazis are running our American Government, so why should Russia make peace with them?"

"If I was a Russian at the Moscow conference, I wouldn't agree to anything," the Idaho Senator said in a campaign speech. "Why should I, when I could look across the ocean to this country and see the same Nazis in power who financed Hitler?

"The one big man who can save us from Fascism is Henry Wallace."

Mason Out To Rename Gallinger For District

Commissioner To Urge Congress Approve 'D. C. General Hospital'

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

A proposal to rename the District-owned Gallinger Hospital "the District of Columbia General Hospital" will be presented to the next session of Congress, it was learned last night.

Commissioner Guy Mason, member of the District Board of Commissioners in charge of hospital and welfare activities, said he had been considering the move for several years and now plans to ask Congress to make the change.

The Federal Diary, by Jerry Kluttz, begins on Page 1 today.

His plan calls for the name of the late Senator Jacob Harold Gallinger of New Hampshire, to be attached to the proposed combined pediatrics and crippled children's building to be erected at the hospital and the general institution be renamed the District of Columbia General Hospital.

Senator Bridges Consulted

He said this change would follow the existing practice in many large cities and indicate to the public that it is a municipally operated institution.

Commissioner Mason said he has discussed the matter with Senator Styles Bridges, senior Senator from New Hampshire, who has tentatively agreed to the proposed change.

The hospital, which provides care for the city's indigent, also serves as a training school for students from George Washington, Georgetown and Howard University medical schools. The school was named for Senator Gallinger, who served as chairman of the Senate District Committee more than a generation ago.

Gallinger Was Surgeon

Senator Gallinger, who had practiced medicine and surgery in Concord, N. H., served in his State's House of Representatives for three terms, then in the State Senate, heading it from 1878 to 1880. Later he was made surgeon general of New Hampshire with the rank of brigadier general.

In 1904 and 1905 he was chairman of the Merchant Marine Commission and then served in both the House of Representatives and the Senate during most of the period from 1895 until his death in 1918.

Meanwhile, the District budget office called on Gallinger officials for a report on its expenditures so far this fiscal year and its plans for the rest of the year. The report was asked after Gallinger spending during the first quarter of the year exceeded the amount earmarked for the period.

Not Guilty Verdict Returned by Order In Williford Case

Dallas C. Williford, 38, of 2401 22d st. ne., was declared innocent yesterday of taking immoral and indecent liberties with his 12-year-old stepdaughter.

Judge Matthew F. McGuire of District Court, directed a verdict of acquittal for Williford, after the girl began sobbing and repeatedly replied she could not remember details of the offense. She was given considerable time to answer the questions which were put to her gently, but could give no coherent answers.

Williford was indicted August 23 under a section of the recently enacted sex law for the District.

Restaurateur Who Fired Shot At Former Fiancee Is Jailed

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

A 34-year-old restaurateur who police said fired a shot at point-blank range at his former fiancee—and missed—was sent to jail yesterday after his bond was increased to $10,000.

The defendant is Ernest C. Rayburn, operator of Rayburn's Restaurant, 1727 N. Capitol st. The shooting occurred September 16. He has been under $5000 bond since that time.

The bond increase was ordered by Judge Aubrey B. Fennell in Municipal Court. The hearing will be continued today.

The intended victim, Miss Elsie Wavalene Samson, 22, of 3300 17th st. nw., broke down on the witness stand and cried after she testified that Rayburn has repeatedly threatened to kill her. She said the shooting occurred at the office of Hugh Phillips, 1244 5th st. ne., where she is a typist.

The pert, brown-haired miss testified that several months ago, Rayburn was angered at her threat to break her engagement to him and walked her porch for hours one night threatening to shoot her.

"He said he could buy his way out because he had the policemen paid off. He said if I ever quit him, he would hurt me and I could stand it no more," she testified.

Under cross examination, she stated that a month ago, she had a steak dinner with Rayburn alone at his home, but was directed, because of possible self-incrimination, not to answer this query:

"Didn't you once take four shots at the defendant and miss?"

Rayburn's attorney said that it was apparent that the defendant did not intend to hit Miss Samson and "fired to the side of her desk."

Climax of the festival will be a Sunday pageant, "The Virginia Village," depicting Falls Church's history from 1699 to the present and including a cast of 75 residents in full costume.

Profits will be used to purchase and equip land for a Falls Church Park. The Falls Church Community Park, Inc., which sponsors the three-day affair, is a nonprofit civic group made up of representatives of more than 30 civic bodies.

Today's festival events begin at 12 noon with a parade of school children to the Fairfax st. festival grounds, where small-scale replicas of early Falls Church buildings have been built.

Replicas will include the historic Star Tavern, which stood on the site of the present Falls Church Bank; Perrygoe's Ice Cream Parlor, a barber shop complete with male quartet, an inn, and a notions shop.

Man Exonerated In Death of Wife

Charges of manslaughter by automobile against Charles W. Eaton, 34, of 4597 Shaw dr. ne., resulting from the death of his wife, Madeline, 26, August 12, were dismissed for lack of evidence yesterday in Hyattsville Police Court.

Mrs. Eaton fell from a taxicab driven by Eaton at Defense Highway and 51st st. Bladensburg, Md. He told police at the time of the accident that she opened the door of the cab to throw away a cigaret and fell out. Assistant State's Attorney Hervey G. Machen moved the dismissal before the case was tried.

Butter Price Falls 4-6c; Eggs Higher

Meat Quotations Vary From Store To Store as Oleo Remains Stable

Butter prices fell from 4 to 6 cents yesterday in some Washington stores, and at least one dealer said they were lower than ever before this year.

A large chain outlet, responding overnight to a drop on the New York and Chicago butter markets, reduced 93-score top-quality butter from 84 cents a pound to 79 cents. However, the same store boosted egg prices 3 cents a dozen.

Another popular chain recorded a 4-cent decline in retail butter prices. Ninety-three-score butter fell from 85 cents per pound to 81 cents; 92-score butter from 83 cents to 79 cents.

One independent market reduced its butter prices to 75 cents per pound on the 92-score variety a drop of 4 cents. At another prices fell from 81 cents to 75.

Last winter butter prices passed the dollar mark in some instances.

Egg prices, however, reflecting a "seasonal" laying slump, rose from 79 cents a dozen "large grade A" to 81 cents in one chain.

As for meat prices, they appeared to be holding at a high level. However, some stores quoted substantially lower prices while others reported price boosts. Several dealers predicted a general drop by next week.

One chain increased prices of sirloin steak, U. S. good, to $1.05 from 99 cents a pound last week. The same store raised prices on chuck roast from 69 cents a pound to 75 cents, also boosting loin lamb chops from 99 cents to $1.05.

Another market trimmed many of its meat prices. Porterhouse steaks sold for 98 cents a pound compared with $1.10 last week; sirloin dropped to $1.10 from $1.25; loin lamb chops toppled to 98 cents from $1.15.

Margarine prices remained fairly stable in local stores, selling from about 35 cents a pound to 51 cents. Bacon prices varied.

Market observers, according to the Associated Press, attributed the drop in butter prices to:

1. High prices killing off consumption.
2. "Terrific" competition from oleomargarine.

3 New Drugs Approved for General Use

Three new drugs belonging to the antibiotics or so-called "miracle" family of drugs that include penicillin and streptomycin have been approved for general use by the Food and Drug Administration.

This was announced last night by Dr. William A. Randall, bacteriologists with the Food and Drug Administration, at a training meeting of the newly activated 354th General Hospital Medical Reserve meeting at Fort Myer, Va.

He said the drugs, hitherto produced only in sufficient quantities for clinical research by the Army and Veterans' Administration, would be available for general use and distribution through regular drug channels. The drugs are bacitracin, aureomycin and polymyxin.

Bacitracin is most important use, a recent discovery, is in treatment of amoebic dysentery, in which it can be used orally. It has been also approved for use in ointment, trokeys (tablets), and in solution for local application.

Aureomycin's chief use is in treatment of Rocky Mountain fever, psitticosa (parrot fever) and also in various infections of the eye such as the commonly described "cold in the eye," and other richettsial infections.

Polymyxin's chief usefulness is in acute stages of whooping cough. It is also effective against typhoid, influenza, gastric infections and certain types of ulcers.

D. C. Phone Staffs Spurn Wage Offer

5000 Workers Hold $2 to $4 Rises Show C. & P. Disregards Their Welfare

Some 5000 Washington telephone workers yesterday turned down a proposal by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. to boost wages $2 a week for most of them and "condemned" the utility for failing to make a "decent" offer.

Members of Divisions 36 and 50, Communications Workers of America (Ind.), took the action at four meetings in Turner's Arena.

A resolution accused the utility of showing "disregard for the welfare of its employes" and said CWA members are growing "increasingly incensed" because of rising costs. The company's offer, first in current negotiations, would give $2 weekly wage boosts to operating and clerical employes and increases ranging from $2 to $4 a week for craft employes. The greatest number, however, would receive $2.

According to union spokesmen, dining service employes would receive no wage increase. Maids and elevator operators, an official said, would get an increase of $1 a week.

He said the unions have not "specified" any wage demands. Contracts signed with the company in May permitted two wage reopenings.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia also made a specific wage increase proposal to Division 33 of the Communications Workers of America.

The wage increase offered runs up to four dollars a week, the union said. Alfred V. Atkinson, chairman of the union negotiating committee, has estimated that about 21 per cent, or 1200 of the 5700 workers for whom the union bargains, would get nothing under the proposal.

Atkinson termed the proposal "entirely unsatisfactory and inadequate" and said that it will be rejected by the union.

This followed the statement of A. L. Lambdin, vice president and general manager of the company, that the offer is in line with the company's policy of paying wages that compare favorably with the wages paid by other businesses in each community for work requiring similar skills and training.

Under the company's proposal, top increases would go to Richmond, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Hampton, Newport News and Virginia Beach, Atkinson said.

Fringe Parking on Rise

Business moved upward at the District's two fringe parking lots yesterday as shoppers began to use the facilities. About 180 cars entered the Municipal Center lot and 23 were parked at the Christian Heurich Brewery lot.

Half of Community Service Trustees to Be From Public

The Washington Post
RED FEATHER GIRL—Jean Malone of the public relations department of the Community Chest Federation, 1101 M st. nw., shows the type of red feather which will be put on lightposts throughout the city. Posters which will be displayed are in background

The interim committee of the Washington United Community Services voted yesterday to give the general public 50 per cent representation on the new organization's board of trustees.

The UCS, now in the process of organization, will replace the Washington Community Chest and the Council of Social Agencies.

The interim committee, headed by William J. McManus, recommended that one half the membership of the board of trustees should consist of individuals having no affiliations as staff or board members of operating agencies of the UCS.

The Federation of Citizens' Associations and the Federation of Businessmen's Associations had asked for an equal balance between members of the board representing the public and those with agency affiliations.

The board now consists of 184 members, 73 of whom have no agency affiliation. It is now proposed to add 38 members with no agency affiliation as representatives of the general public, thus giving each side a representation of 111.

The new board of trustees will meet early next month to complete organization plans and to elect permanent officers. The trustees will elect from their ranks an executive committee of 25 members.

Derailed Car Snarls Traffic At Rush Hour

Morning rush hour traffic was snarled for more than 30 minutes yesterday when a streetcar was derailed at 7th and F sts. nw. in a collision with an automobile.

None of the passengers of the crowded streetcar was injured and the car driver suffered only minor hurts.

Streetcars on the intersecting lines at the busy corner were immobilized until the derailed car was put back on the track. Motor traffic, jammed briefly, was rerouted.

The automobile driver, Charles A. Mesalam, 59, of 73 Fort Drive, Alexandria, was taken to Emergency Hospital where he was treated for leg injuries. He was charged by police with failure to yield right-of-way.

The streetcar was operated, police said, by William C. Weeks, 22, of 1341 East Capitol st.

In Montgomery County no charges were placed against the driver of the automobile which fatally injured a two-year-old boy Wednesday night.

Lieut. Chester Thomas, head of the Takoma Park Police, said after conference with State's Attorney Walter W. Dawson the investigation showed no evidence of negligence by the driver, former Trial Magistrate Ralph G. Shure, of 100 Hodges Lane, Takoma Park.

The child, Frank W. Neff, jr., 150 Philadelphia ave., Takoma Park, died shortly after being taken to Washington Sanitarium.

A 7-year-old boy was injured in Bethesda when his bicycle was in collision with an automobile at Roosevelt st. and Hempstead ave.

The boy, Michael Forman, 5801 Huntington pkwy., Bethesda, was admitted to Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, with a broken right leg and cuts and bruises.

Montgomery County police identified the driver of the automobile as Albert F. Walters, 10114 Brunett ave., Silver Spring.

Burglar Fails To Pin Blame On His Brother

A burglar failed yesterday in an attempt to pin the blame for his crime on his brother.

Roy King "Louie the Laundryman" Barkley, 29, now in the District Jail, was convicted yesterday of burglarizing the apartment of Virginia M. Hamilton, 3101 Pennsylvania ave. nw., of more than $300 worth of goods.

In District Court, the defendant testified that he was given the stolen goods by his brother, Bernard B. Barkley, of 1348 S. 28th st., Arlington. Roy Barkley said he knew the goods were "hot stuff" but that the blame rested on brother Bernard.

Bernard was called as a rebuttal witness and denied any wrongdoing when questioned by Assistant United States Attorney Sylvan Schwartz. No date was set for sentencing.

Tardy Draft Eligibles Get Warning To Sign Up

Nearly 700 Such Cases Reported; Most Say They 'Misunderstood'

By Robert P. Jordan
Post Reporter

A stern warning to draft-eligible men who failed to sign up during the August 30-September 18 registration period was issued yesterday by District Selective Service officials.

William E. Leahy, District draft director, promised that men who had deliberately neglected to register would be turned over to the United States District Attorney.

As the number of tardy District registrants yesterday neared the 700 mark, Leahy said that most had "misunderstood" the necessity for registering. "But the time has just about come for the end of that excuse," he declared.

Some 120 Registered

Four volunteer registrars yesterday signed up 120-odd men, most of them latecomers, and will be present again today at draft headquarters, 19th and D sts. nw.

Warned Leahy: "Anyone who hasn't registered, better chase in and do it immediately. Otherwise . . ."

Selective Service officials, he said, also are concerned over the small number of men just turned 18 who have registered at draft headquarters.

They estimate that 30 youths reach the age of 18 every day in Washington. By law, they are required to register on their birthday or within five days. As of yesterday, however, only 28 men just turned 18 have registered there.

Carries Heavy Penalties

Draft officials pointed out that failure to register carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

With 55 Washington men slated for induction in November, Selective Service officials announced that 1-A men will begin taking preinduction physical and mental examinations about October 4. Maryland will also begin its examinations then.

Under present plans, draft headquarters will send 15 men a day from that date through October 30 to the Army and Air Force recruiting station, 403 10th st. nw., for mental tests. Physical exams at Fort McNair will follow.

Those who pass will have at least 21 days before being notified to report for induction, according to Lieut. Col. Walter S. Welsh, chief of the District draft's manpower division.

5,208,413 on Rolls

As incomplete reports from the country's registration centers began arriving, National Selective Service headquarters announced yesterday that 5,208,413 men from 18 through 25 registered between August 30 and September 18. A total of 9,600,000 is expected.

About one fourth of the expected total will be in the draft-eligible single, nonfather, nonveteran category, officials predict.

The District total has climbed to slightly more than 54,000 men, Frank D. Norton, deputy draft director, revealed. Of these, some 10,000 single, nonfather, nonveteran registrants will receive questionnaires. Nearly 5500 have been mailed so far, Norton said.

By September 30, when an extensive "clerical housecleaning" will begin at draft headquarters, about 8000 questionnaires will have been mailed, according to Norton.

Names of at least 15 of the 30 Washington physicians who will serve as medical examiners for the District's 15 draft boards will be handed the Commissioners in time for their meeting Tuesday, he said.

IT'S MAGIC—Clint Riedel knew he wasn't really risking his neck in the "Chinese Guillotine" at the hands of Dolly Snow, "Miss Magic of 1948." Why? Riedel is a magician attending the convention of same in the Hotel Mayflower

ZIP!—The blade appears to pass right through Riedel's neck, but, luckily, the trick worked last night at a preconvention demonstration. The magician still keeps a steady head and his beard wasn't even clipped Sluggish with your Hindu shuffle? Clumsy with the double lift? Awkward with your color change?

The foremost purveyors of legerdemain along the Eastern seaboard, replete with white rabbits and playing cards, opened their sixth annual convention at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday to discuss such matters in the world of magic.

Members of the Magicians Alliance of Eastern States—at least 200, if it wasn't an optical illusion—blew into town (on magic carpets, naturally) and made short shrift of formalities.

They got right down to business and put on a show for themselves. The scheme was to entertain and to educate, but for outsiders the watchword was secrecy.

Karrell Fox, who rightfully calls himself the "King of Korn," told of the flaw in his "levitation act." He was doing a show in his native Detroit, and assistant—the usual bundle of curves—was suspended in midair.

The invisible wire broke, and she sued him for nonsupport.

Jimmy Copp, a Washington professional magician, confided that exchange of any real secrets of hocus-pocus would not take place before the assembled group. Instead, one sleight-of-hand artist would invite "one or two of his very special friends" to his room. There, secluded from the prying eyes of the public, they might swap a few new twists in the field of prestidigitation.

President Harry Baker, also a Washingtonian, told the group it was to be a "confusionless convention."

Jack Greene, a 27-year-old trickster from Phoenix, Ariz., made the audience wonder.

He appeared on stage as an inebriated night-clubber in pantomime. He produced a jigger of spirits—the liquid kind—from a silk handkerchief, drank it, drew a small glass of beer from the same handkerchief, made it grow taller, and finally satisfied his thirst.

The nimble-fingered masters of magic brought all their wares along, ready for a public show at the Statler Hotel on Saturday night.

One of Washington's better known amateur magicians, Manager Joe Kuhel of the Senators, isn't expected to be present.

He's on the road, brushing up on the hidden ball trick.

'Good Samaritan' Pays Driver's Fine

The role of the Good Samaritan was enacted once again yesterday in Hyattsville Police Court.

The Samaritan in this case, Charles James Balle Murphy, a 43-year-old salesman of 4306 Oliver st., Hyattsville, portrayed the Biblical character when he paid the fine of a motorist who had rammed his automobile at a red light September 17.

The defendant, James Hawkins, 25, of Carter's lane, Riverdale, had been fined $25 by Magistrate Alan Bowie as a result of the collision on Rhode Island ave., at Melrose Crossing, which caused about $225 damage to Murphy's vehicle.

As the judge turned to call the next case, Murphy spoke up, asking if it would "offend the court" if he paid Hawkins' fine? Judge Bowie replied it made no difference who paid it, just so the fine was paid.

Murphy explained to Hyattsville policeman Charles Williams, who made the arrest, "I just felt sorry for him."

Hawkins told the court he had bad brakes which caused him to bump the rear of Murphy's car. Williams testified his examination of the car bore out this fact.

Plant's Safe Looted

The Briggs Packing Plant, 3621 Benning rd. ne., was broken into and a safe looted of $25, police were told yesterday.

Police found the thief or thieves had entered the plant by forcing a rear window and then apparently used a hammer and chisel to pry an opening in the bottom of the safe.

The robbery was reported by William A. Taylor, plant foreman.

Md. U. Dean Honored

Dean Harold Benjamin of the college of education of the University of Maryland yesterday was elected chairman of the National Commission for the Defense of Democracy Through Education. The commission was set up by the National Education Association in 1941.

'I'll Be Right Down'

George W. Gaylor, 25, 1312 Dale dr., Silver Spring, Md., escaped a fine for parking in a restricted area at University of Maryland because the judge knew women.

Gaylor told Trial Magistrate Alan Bowie in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday that he was waiting for his fiancee. He was sure he hadn't stopped more than five minutes because she knew he was downstairs and hurried down. State Trooper Kenneth Davis, however, testified that Gaylor had parked 10 minutes.

The judge said he was sure the trooper was right, because he knew about women. "They are always late. Women have been making men wait since the start of time and because of this, I am going to find you guilty but suspend the fine."

Faces Police Board

Pvt. Alva R. Matlock of the Seventh Precinct, currently detailed to wagon No. 8, goes before the Police Trial Board today on two charges.

Matlack is charged with failing to constantly patrol his beat while in his patrol wagon and conduct prejudicial to the good order of the Police Department.

Police officials said Matlack was discovered one night last week by night inspectors sleeping in the front seat of the patrol wagon in a filling station in the 3900 block of Canal rd. nw.

One of the men, Grilles said, produced a .45-caliber automatic and ordered Grilles and his two countermen into the kitchen. The bandits emptied the cash register and walked out.

School Group To Meet on Cadet Corps

Threatened withdrawal of Army support of six public high school cadet corps will be discussed by the Board of Education's student activities committee within two weeks, school officials said yesterday.

Spokesman for the board said the committee will convene to discuss the cadet problem before October 5, so a report can be presented to the board at its regular meeting on that date.

Principally responsible for the Army's predicted action, according to Maj. Gen. Robert R. Gay, commanding officer of the Military District of Washington, is a decline in cadet enrollments in six white high schools—Eastern, Coolidge, Roosevelt, McKinley, Bell Vocational and Chamberlain Vocational.

Enrollment presents no problem in the Negro schools, where personnel is well above the minimum requested by the Army, school officials said.

Although enrollment was the principal problem cited by General Gay, he scored what he termed inadequate instruction periods and poor maintenance of rifles furnished by the Army.

Potter Criticizes Letting of County Incinerator Bid

Lee Potter, independent candidate for Arlington County board, yesterday asked if the county has let other construction bids on the same basis as the one to build a county incinerator.

Potter charged the incinerator bid specifications had been drawn "to exclude all but one bidder." The contract was awarded to Nichols Engineering & Research Corp. of New York last Friday on a bid of $646,757.

Arlington citizens, said Potter, have a right to know whether this practice . . . has been generally followed in the past."

Potter referred to specifications which permitted only builders who "have built at least two units" of a mechanically stoked incinerator and whose incinerator has been in operation at least one year.

Arlington officials said the specifications were drawn up by a New York consulting engineering firm. Two bids were received, but the second firm was ruled out because of what the advisory firm called inadequate experience.

Eaglen, Believed District's Oldest Ex-Slave, Dies at 106

By Walter Pulliam
Post Reporter

A man believed Washington's oldest former slave died at 10:30 a. m. yesterday en route to Gallinger Hospital.

Eaglen

He was John Eaglen, 1337 Wylie Court ne., who not only remembered Lincoln but had watched 12 of the 16 Presidents since the Civil War take their oaths of office.

Had he lived until Christmas Day, his birthday, he would have been 107, friends said.

"He was ill only a few days, and up until then he could walk about the house and bathe and shave himself," said Mrs. Sarah Wingfield, in whose home Eaglen had lived since 1935.

Until he became ill, Mrs. Wingfield recalled, he frequently talked about the hectic days in Washington when Lincoln was assassinated and of the 12 inaugurations—all of them Republican Presidents—that he had attended.

"I have seen every Republican President take his oath of office, except Lincoln," he told a reporter on his birthday two years ago.

He also remembered, according to Mrs. Wingfield, when Florida ave. was the Washington city limits, when barge loads of whisky, coal and corn floated along the old C. & O. Canal, and when horse-drawn streetcars rumbled along H and North Capitol sts.

He attributed his long life, according to Mrs. Wingfield, "to long years of hard work on the farm."

Born, according to her, on a Maryland farm not too far from Washington, Eaglen talked little about his early life as a slave, although he mentioned it once to a reporter. He came to live permanently in Washington about 1903.

He had never smoked a cigarette during his 106-plus years, had sworn off coffee more than 60 years ago, and drank only at Christmas — a "little eggnog" — when, he often told friends, "I celebrate two birthdays, the Savior's and my own."

After coming to Washington, Mrs. Wingfield said, the former slave became a construction worker and was for some time, in pre-automobile days, the coachman for a Washington bank president.

Known as "Mr. John" to most people living along Wylie Court, Mrs. Wingfield said he had outlived all of his relatives, including his two children.

The coroner said the death, which came as a Public Health Department ambulance was conveying him to the hospital, resulted from natural causes—a complication of ailments brought on by old age.

FIGHTING FACES—Welterweight Champion Ray Robinson (right) and Kid Gavilan make violent faces at each other during an exchange in the third round of their nontitle bout last night at Yankee Stadium. Sugar Ray proved he could throw more punches, too, and was awarded the unanimous decision after a stiffer struggle than was expected

Ike Williams Scores 10th Round KO Over Flores

By Jack Cuddy

New York, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Flooring his opponent five times, Ike Williams kept his lightweight championship tonight by knocking out Jesse Flores, California-Mexican, at 2:04 of the tenth round before the smallest crowd that ever witnessed a title fight at Yankee Stadium.

The crowd of 15,413 had seen Ray (Sugar) Robinson, welterweight champion, win a 10-round non-title decision over Kid Gavilan of Cuba just before the lightweight title fight.

Williams' bout with Flores—stocky, dancing challenger from Stockton, Calif.,—was more of a pursuit race than a brawl. Speedy and elusive Jesse retreated during most of every round, and seldom threw punches.

Brown-skinned Williams of Trenton, N. J., floored the challenger twice in the fifth round, twice in the eighth and once for the knockout in the tenth. In the ninth round Flores slipped to the canvas, and—although the knockdown timekeeper counted to three it was N-O-T a knockdown.

Flores, who had been belted out only once before in his career—by former Champion Bob Montgomery—displayed surprising ability to scramble off the canvas and come back for more punishment. It seemed in the fifth round that he would be knocked out in that session when left hooks floored him twice for the count of nine. The first time the black-haired challenger went down, his head was half propped on the lower ring rope.

In the eighth session, some of the sprinkling of fans in the huge stadium began to look for exits when a right hook to the head dropped Jesse for nine. And they buttoned their topcoats and pulled their hats tighter when a right uppercut to the chin dropped him for eight. But when Jesse rose, he came fighting back and actually was hammering at the champion at the bell.

A left hook to the chin finished the challenger in the tenth. He lay stretched out on his back as Referee Mark Conn waved the count over him.

Williams scaled 134¾ pounds, just a quarter under the lightweight limit. And the challenger weighed exactly the same.

It was Williams' third defense of the undisputed lightweight crown.

Although the Williams-Flores scrap was disappointing, the 10-round tilt between Robinson and Kid Gavilan was a "lulu." The crowd booed the decision in favor of Robinson for several minutes.

Referee Eddie Joseph gave the champion seven rounds to Gavilan's three. Judge Arthur Ardiello called it 6-4 and Judge Frank Forbes 7-2-1.

Neither fighter was cut, knocked down or even momentarily badly hurt, despite the fast pace and the heavy punishment handed out by both men.

Robinson weighed 150½ to the Cuban's 148¾.

Gavilan was promised a championship bout with Robinson in December if he made a good showing tonight, and he at least tried hard all the way. He crowded Robinson a good part of the time, swinging both fists, but the taller champion held him off with a stabbing left which piled up his winning margin.

The victory was Robinson's forty-eighth straight, and was far from the easiest in the string.

George La Falgio, 129½, New York, stopped Lorenzo Safaro, 129¾, Cuba, in 2:18 of the fourth round of their scheduled four-round opener.

Dick Wagner, 171½, Portland, Oreg., outpointed Dan Bucceroni, 175, Philadelphia, in a six-rounder.

N. Y. Beaten By Chisox, Triple Tie Bid Ruined

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Yankees' drive to make it a three-way tie for the American eague lead sliced into the rough today as the New Yorkers suffered a 4-2 loss to the Chicago White Sox in their final game in the West.

As a result of the defeat, the 1947 world champions dropped a full game behind the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians as they started home to begin an all-important three-game series with the Boston Club in New York tomorrow.

For tomorrow's series opener with the Red Sox, Manager Bucky Harris has readied Vic Raschi, his 19-game winner. Manager Joe McCarthy of the Red Sox has said his pitching choice will either be Southpaw Mel Parnell or the veteran Denny Galehouse.

With only eight games remaining on the schedule for each of the contending clubs, Boston and Cleveland have won 91 and lost 55 games each and the Yanks have won 90 and lost 56. The Yankees and Red Sox meet five times in their remaining eight games while Cleveland finishes against Detroit and Chicago.

'Surprise Package' Hoyas Will Have to Be Just That to Win

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Georgetown's football team, highly touted as a surprise package, will have to start right off by surprising favored Holy Cross at Worcester on Saturday in the opener for both schools.

A determined squad of 38 is scheduled to leave National Airport at 10:45 this morning. The Hoyas are due to land at 1 p. m. and will limber up this afternoon at Fitton Field, scene of tomorrow's struggle.

In Holy Cross, Georgetown meets a veteran squad boasting 32 lettermen. Only last Saturday, the Crusaders held a 3-2 edge over Columbia in a scrimmage and looked exceptionally strong on defense.

Certainly, Holy Cross has the incentive to win—Dr. Bill Osmanski, greatest fullback the school ever had and a standout with the Chicago Bears for seven seasons, will be making his coaching debut at his alma mater.

However, Coach Jack Hagerty, starting his fourteenth season at Georgetown, is quietly optimistic about this year's edition. He says he expects to field a strong first team. But these days, when football powers are two and more often three-deep at every position, Hagerty has a common problem.

"Our reserves are questionable, as they go so will go the team," Hagerty explained.

He mused that the situation would be a lot better if he hadn't lost 16 of 26 freshmen who displayed promise in spring drills. Georgetown, you know, persists in clinging to the quaint idea that football players have to study, too. The missing 16 just couldn't meet the high scholastic standard.

The backs are promising enough to make Hagerty think his offense will be much stronger than last year's although passing still is a weak point in the attack. Babe Baranowski is the team's best thrower but, only 5-foot-6½, he's handicapped by his lack of height. Little Henry manages to complete his share, though, by specializing in jump passes.

Two newcomers probably will be in the starting backfield. They are Soph Dich Barba, fullback, and Wingback Bill Mitchell. Barba, All-State selection at Carteret (N. J.) Prep, has displayed more than Billy Conn, another highly publicized Jersey All-State selection. Those "in the know" expect Conn to come along.

Mitchell, brilliant hurdler, is a transfer from Indiana where he played end. He was an All-State end at Collingswood (N. J.) High and national interscholastic hurling champion.

With Barba and Mitchell are Connie O'Doherty and Tailback Baranowski. Considered behind these four are Elmer Raba, John O'Connor, Charley Mehmel and Johnny Hughes, the latter a St. John's product. Brother George, a 205-pound sophomore, also is fighting for a backfield berth.

Vic Banonis, brother of Vince, all-pro center, is the starting pivot man. He will be spelled by Bob Kelly. Jim O'Keefe, 240-pounder from Gonzaga, and Soph Bill Orsini look best at tackle. O'Keefe's younger brother, John, is an end for Holy Cross and they may face each other Saturday.

The guard post has been a headache for Line Coach Mush Dubofsky. He has two huge men, each weighing 240, in Jim Ricca and John Berger but lighter men have been looking better in practice. In the wide open fight are Fred Sternberg, 180; Paul Wintermeyer, 185, and Jim Nalls, 180. The last two are Washington boys. Beefy Art Sheridan, 225-pound sophomore, yet may get into the starting picture.

Georgetown's strongest position seems to be end. Capable Coach George Murtaugh has five ends who aren't far apart in ability. George Benigni, a good receiver, and Al Sarashevitz have a slight edge now. Richt behind them are Franny Desmond, Bob Noppinger and Bill Resch.

Lou Sterner, ranked ninth nationally in 1946, again will do the punting.

Dodgers Win; Mize Hits 39th

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers remained, mathematically, in the National League race pennant race today as they beat the New York Giants, 7-1.

The triumph moved the Dodgers 1 percentage point behind the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals and within seven games of the pennant-bound Boston Braves. The Braves and Cardinals were idle.

Brooklyn has seven games left to play and the Braves nine. One Dodger defeat or one Boston victory will eliminate the Dodgers.

The Dodgers broke up a close ball game with a three-run eighth-inning rally that Gil Hodges and Roy Campanella feature with home runs off starting and losing Pitcher Monte Kennedy.

Mize atoned for his error when he hit his 39th home run of the season in the seventh inning to put the Giants within a run of a deadlock. Mize now is tied with Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner for the loop's home-run leadership.

Cuccinello Will Be With Lopez Again

"I'm coming back to Indianapolis next year to help Al Lopez (manager) produce another winner," Cuccinello said.

Tech, Central Top Interhigh Games Today

McKinley Tech, last year's champion, tests its retaining powers today when it helps tear the cover off the 1948 Interhigh football season against Central, the team it beat for the title.

Playing on its own field, Central, with many of its letter-men back, is favored to reverse last year's 14-7 championship game defeat.

All the other Interhigh teams open their league season today too. Eastern playing at Wilson, Coolidge at Anacostia and Roosevelt at Western. They all kick off at 3:30 p. m.

The Tech-Central feud, forty-eighth in their traditional series, is expected to draw the largest turnout, about 7000. The schools stand even in their series at 20 victories apiece and seven ties.

Back with Central are Quarterback Jimmy Pantos and Halfback Jack Wert, who were the stars in the losing cause against Tech last year.

Central lost a non-league game, 12-0, to powerful John Marshall of Richmond last week, but nevertheless rules as favorite.

Bugs Thompson and Cecil Gray, Tech's backfield heroes of last season are gone.

But the Trainers showed that they'll not be pushovers this season by trimming Montgomery-Blair, 19-0, in a non-league contest last week. They uncovered a trio of good backs in Bob Stewart, Harry Mowl and Billy Rogers.

Anacostia is given the edge over Coolidge, Eastern is picked over Wilson, and the Western-Roosevelt game is a tossup.

With all its line and half its backfield back from last year's third place outfit, Anacostia is co-favorite to finish in the interhigh finals with Central. Halfbacks Bob Mitchell and Jim Faulkner will carry the load for Anacostia.

Braves Take Only 2 Days to Dispose Of Series Tickets

Boston, Sept. 23 (AP).—More than 40,000 applications for World Series tickets have been received by the Boston Braves, a spokesman said tonight.

That announcement came within 20 hours of the first word from the Braves that applications would be exhausted by tomorrow morning.

Extra help has been hired at the Braves office and the postoffice to handle the rush which began last night shortly after the Braves' announcement.

A 17-year-old Belmont High School boy was first to get his tickets.

Nat Outburst In 5th Downs Browns, 9-8

St. Louis, Sept. 23.—The Washington Senators have wound up their Midwestern business for 1948 and believe it or not, they're in the midst of a winning streak—four games if you please as they outclubbed the St. Louis Browns tonight, 9-8, before a shivering crowd of 1392 spectators.

The Senators took the final game of the season between the two clubs by virtue of an early five-inning lead which they built to 9-3. It made it 12 victories in the 22 games with the Browns this season.

Dizzy base running cost the Nats plenty in the first inning but Al Kozar finally scored with a run and Jake Early singled Eddie Yost across in the second round. Eddie Stewart hit his sixth homerun of the season in the third inning with Tom McBride on base and that made it 4-0 before the Browns started their activity.

Three runs in the last of the third inning made it close for a moment, but doubles by Sherry Robertson and Mickey Vernon and Rae Scarborough's single with the bases loaded featured a five-run attack in the fifth to give the Nats a six-run margin.

Scarborough had to yell for help in the late innings as the Browns threatened but in the eighth inning Walt Masterson put out the fire quickly. With one run in, the bases loaded and none out in the eighth inning, Masterson induced Paul Lehner to hit into a double play and then got Gerry Priddy on an easy grounder with the tying run on third base.

Masterson then struck out the side in the ninth inning to preserve Scarborough's thirteenth victory of the season.

Fred Sanford, first of five St. Louis hurlers, was charged with the defeat, his twentieth setback of the season. It was the seventh time this season that the Nats had beaten the Browns by a single run.

At Long Last—'Skins Promise Gilmer's Ready for Steelers

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Harry Gilmer is finally going into action.

The Washington Redskins ecstatically announced yesterday that their All-America threat, more myth than menace since hurting his leg five weeks ago, is ready to go in Sunday's tangle with the Pittsburgh Steelers at Griffith Stadium.

Gilmer is not only ready to play, they gloated but is "champing at the bit." This would mean their $80,000 passing and running ace, who sat out exhibition games at Denver and Baltimore and made only a token appearance at Birmingham, is tired of resting on his college laurels, as well-cushioned as they may be.

How much Gilmer will play in the Skins' National League opener depends on a number of things. His own condition is of prime importance. The condition of Sammy Baugh, whom he'll replace, will also have something to do with it. Finally, the way the games goes and the way Gilmer himself goes will figure in how long he performs.

The Redskins thus go into the game in better physical shape than at any time since their intrasquad tiff on the West Coast. Only Halfback Eddie Saenz will be missing as Halfbacks Howie Livingston and Dick Todd return to the fold.

Washington yesterday was declared a 10-point favorite by the people who figure such things, and the stage was set for a highly successful inaugural. A victory was all that was needed, except for the approximately 4000 fans it will take to use up remaining seats.

Even the worry of cutting the squad to a required 35 players was over. Guard Earl Cook, a 221-pound rookie from Southern Methodist, got his walking papers and the team was left with three quarterbacks, four left halfbacks, four right halfbacks, four fullbacks, seven ends, five tackles, five guards and three centers.

Television Plans Set for Series

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—The 1948 World Series will be carried on the television networks with all available stations joining in the hookup, it was announced today by the Mutual Broadcasting System and the sponsoring Gillette Safety Razor Co.

If the series is played in Boston or New York, every television station in Boston, New York, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, Va.; Schenectady, N. Y., and New Haven, Conn., will be linked up for the event.

If Cleveland represents the American League, a separate network embracing Cleveland, Buffalo, Toledo, St. Louis, Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee will carry the games from the Ohio city.

Giants Rout Grid Yanks

Boston, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The New York Giants cashed the first dividend on their youth investment tonight as Chuckin' Charlie Conerly and a bevy of other National Football League rookies led the way to a 27-to-7 triumph over the Boston Yanks.

Conerly, the aerial magician from Mississippi, used his buggy-whip passing arm in two touchdown plays as the Giants showed 7428 Fenway Park fans that they no longer are the doormats of the league's Eastern Division.

Conerly shared honors with another yearling, former Columbia End Bill Swiacki, who shared two touchdown passes, one from the Mississippi specialist and the other from former Yank Paul Governali. Freshman Joe Scott of San Francisco chipped in another score.

Playing their first game of the championship season, the Giants twice swept from behind their own goal line to score.

Tigers Rally In 9th, Beat A's, 7-2

Detroit, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers rubbed out a 7-2 fifth-inning deficit here today, coming from behind to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-7, with two big runs in the ninth.

George Vico tripled between the outfielders in left center to send Dick Wakefield and Eddie Mayo across the plate with the tying and winning runs after one man was out in the Tiger ninth. Both of them had singled.

38 Bears Arrive Here, Practice at Stadium at 3 P. M.

The University of California football team 38 strong, arrived in Washington by plane shortly after midnight this morning, and Coach Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf promptly hustled his men to their hotel.

As he shoved one of his players into an airport limousine, Waldorf had time only to say that "we expect a tough game from Navy in Baltimore Saturday."

The Bears will be up bright and early this morning to begin a sightseeing tour of the Nation's Capital. They are slated to arrive at the White House at 9:30 a. m. They'll work out at Griffith Stadium at 3 p. m.

TWA hostess for the Bears' trip was pretty Marjorie Masters, California graduate of '45, who was heartbroken because her flight goes on to New York and she'll miss the big game.

Boudreau's Happy But Fears Tigers

By Joe Reichler

Cleveland, Sept. 23 (AP).—Lou Boudreau, modest manager of the Cleveland Indians, visioned a tough road ahead for his pennant-minded team today.

Admittedly happy over last night's outcome, which boosted the Indians into a first-place tie with Boston in the super American League race, the playing pilot looked upon the coming three-game series in Detroit with apprehension. It was obvious he had not forgotten the 1940 season when the Tigers knocked his club out of the race two days before the campaign's end.

"Last night's game was of tremendous importance to us," he admitted, "but don't for one moment believe that it decided the pennant. We're not out of the woods yet by any means. Any one of three teams can win the flag. The Indians, Red Sox and Yankees have equal chances.

Boudreau took exception to the general opinion that the Tribe had the best of the remaining schedule. After today, each of the three contenders will have eight games left. The Tribe has six games with the fifth-place Tigers, and two with Chicago. Boston and New York tangle five times, with the Red Sox taking on Philadelphia's Athletics in a trio of games.

"Why do you think we have the best of it?" he demanded. "Apparently everyone has overlooked the fact that the Red Sox play their final five games at home, where they are almost unbeatable. Three of them are with the seventh-place Senators. We have six games with the Tigers. And don't let anybody tell you they aren't tough to beat. Not with that pitching staff. Show me a better left-handed pitcher in baseball than Hal Newhouser. He's sure to have two cracks at us. And he'll be gunning for that twentieth victory."

"Don't get me wrong," Boudreau hastened to all. "I think we've got a chance, a good chance. But so have the Red Sox and Yankees."

Boudreau said that Bob Lemon, leading winner of the American League, will open the Detroit series for the Tribe tomorrow. Gene Bearden, the 17-game-winning rookie southpaw, will pitch the second game Saturday. Bob Feller will hurl Sunday. Newhouser will be his opponent.

"As a matter of fact," said Boudreau. "It will be Lemon, Bearden and Feller for the rest of the way. I may start either Steve Gromek or Sam Zoldak against the White Sox, if any of my big three shows signs of fatigue."

Jim Rankin Comes Home With 2 More

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bel Air, Md., Sept. 23.—With the International Big Three busy in Paris, the horse Big Three has been busy here. In fact, the 6-year-old son of Challenger 2d turned in his third victory of the current meeting but had to survive one of the tightest photo finishes of the session before the triumph was sealed.

Big Three went into the wire nose and nose with B. A. Hall's Fairkan in a field of eight. The beaten-off third in the sprint test was William Finn's Colonel Govans. In fourth position after a rather dull effort was Mrs. P. G. Simms' I Dream, the favorite.

Big Three, ridden by Jockey Willie Carroll, carried 120 pounds, was clocked in 121 and returned a $7.40 mutuel to his backers in a crowd of 7000.

The gelding raced in the colors of the Wild Goose Farm, owned by former Jockey A. J. Lacoste who named the barn after Wild Goose, the first winner he ever rode.

Although Jockey Jimmy Rankin was out of the money with Mrs. Emma Downs' Joy Wes in the feature event, he had his innings. He won the third race with E. L. Morsberger's Minaddie, a fleet daughter of Little Beans and a $5.20 favorite in a field of nine going five furlongs.

Rankin, who rode four winners yesterday, made it two for today in the sixth race. He was aboard D. G. Smith's Dee Gee S and piloted the son of Mr. Bones to his maiden victory, the 3-year-old willing with speed to spare. Mrs. H. S. Grinder's Ringside Table was second with G. W. Murphy's Goat Head third. Dee Gee S, named for his owner, paid $17.20 and was clocked in 1:44 2/5 for the mile and 70 yards. The daily double on the 4-and-1 combination paid $56. Jockey Patsy Grant booted J. Nechamkin's Dora N-Tops home in the first race at an $8.20 mutuel. Jockey Willie Miller took the second with the Twin Pine Farm's Pappy Boy, saddled by Trainer Earl Auld of Washington.

Jockey Freddie Kratz who appeared to have been seriously injured in a spill here yesterday, was reported to be in excellent condition at the Harford Memorial Hospital in Havre De Grace. X-rays showed no broken bones and the popular rider expects to leave the hospital by the end of the week.

Injured Jockey Slightly Better

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Jockey Warren Mehrtens, who suffered a concussion in a spill today at Belmont Park, was reported "slightly improved" tonight at a Jamaica hospital.

Earlier the hospital had described the condition of the 28-year-old rider as "poor." Attendants said he was in a semiconscious condition.

A steeplechase rider also injured at Belmont today, Charles H. Williams of Baltimore, was reported in "poor" condition at the same hospital. He also suffered head injuries.

June Vogel Upsets Medalist in Mid-Atlantic Golf Semifinal

Mrs. Stokes Also Gains Title Round

Statuesque June Vogel of Baltimore sprang the biggest upset of the Middle Atlantic Golf Tournament as she eliminated Medalist Mrs. A. B. Bower, 1 up, in the semifinals yesterday at Congressional Country Club.

The 23-year-old Western Maryland alumna, who has never won a major tournament was joined in today's finals by Mrs. Walter R. Stokes of Manor, who has won the M. A. crown twice.

Mrs. Stokes swept past Mrs. T. E. Schluderberg of Baltimore, 4 and 3, in their semifinals match yesterday.

Pushed to the eighteenth in each of her two previous match play performances, Miss Vogel squeezed by with the narrowest of victories yesterday. Both she and Mrs. Bower used 81 strokes over the 6472-yard layout, but Miss Vogel's putter came through for her at the most strategic times.

Forewarning what was to come, Miss Vogel won the first and fifth holes with a par four and five to go two up. The Manor star squared the match with a par four on the sixth and birdie four on the seventh. Miss Vogel moved ahead again on the ninth with a par four.

The District Amateur queen moved into a short-lived lead by winning the tent' and eleventh holes. But Miss Vogel was back to win the twelfth, thirteenth and fifteenth. Mrs. Bower rallied to win the seventeenth. But Miss Vogel sank a 2-foot putt to halve the last hole and wrap up the victory.

Mrs. Stokes was off to an unsteady start when Mrs. Schluderberg hank a 35-foot putt for a birdie three on the first hole. Mrs. Stokes squared the match on the second hole, went three up at the turn, halved the first five holes on the back nine, and closed out with a par four on the fifteenth.

Championship flight semifinals—Mrs. June Vogel (Baltimore) defeated Mrs. A. B. Bower (Manor), 1 up; Mrs. Walter R. Stokes (Manor) defeated Mrs. T. E. Schluderberg (Baltimore), 4 and 3. Final today at 10 a. m.

Second flight semifinals—Mrs. R. S. Simon (Woodmont) defeated Mrs. Ann York (Army-Navy), 4 and 3; Mrs. E. Harris (Kenwood) defeated Mrs. E. P. Moore (Army-Navy), 7 and 6. Final today at 9:45 a. m.

Third flight semifinals—Mrs. E. C. Atwood (Kenwood) defeated Mrs. E. J. Hanson (Congressional), 1 up; Mrs. H. J. Phelan (Chevy Chase) defeated Mrs. G. M. Jani (Congressional), 1 up, 21 holes. Final today at 9:30 a. m.

Eligibility Ruling Cuts Prep Material

Woodward Prep is the latest school to tighten its eligibility rules, and the move is causing another headache for the new football coach, Earl Zook.

Only high school undergraduates of 18 and under can play for Woodward now. This puts the Y. M. C. A. school on a level with the other highs and preps of Washington.

Devitt and Chamberlain tightened their rules this year, but the change is wreaking more of a hardship on Woodward because:

1. Most of Woodward's students attend classes on a part-time basis, and have little opportunity to participate in athletics anyway.

2. The team has no field of its own and practices only when it can get a permit, to use the Ellipse.

3. The class schedules are staggered so that even though 26 names are on Coach Zook's candidate list, the most he's seen at any one practice are 16.

In the past, the Woodward coaches were glad to have anyone out for the team regardless of age, because there just weren't many candidates around. The tightening of eligibility rules is making it even tougher.

But Zook, who coached at Sherwood last season, isn't taking it too hard.

"We'll get the stuffings knocked out of us a couple of times this year using younger talent, but next year, with experience, we'll do a little knocking of our own," he says.

Center Bill Crute and Tackle Emil Bouchard are the only regulars back from last year. Because Zook lacks an experienced fullback, Crute is being moved to that spot. Bouchard, at 185, is the heaviest player on the squad.

Tom Keys, transfer from Anacostia, Jim Parsons from Sidwell Friends and Dick Ashley from Woodrow Wilson have buoyed Coach Zook's backfield hopes. Dick Stewart, a reserve guard last year, looks like he might make a good blocking back, too.

Only certain line starters against Bullis "B" on October 2 are Tackle Bouchard, Center John Colburn, Guards Bill Gray and Bob Coffman and End Dick Latch.

Champs Rebuild With Only 2 Vets

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Landon's Brown Bears have been atop the Interstate Athletic Conference ladder for two years, but their foes are expected to chop them down beginning with football season.

Gone are Gil Bogley, Jack Yates and most of the others who presented Landon with two titles in soccer and tennis, and one each in baseball, basketball and football since 1946.

The task of rebuilding has fallen to Jim Curran, and old hand at scraping up championship teams.

Curran, who succeeded Jim Graham as athletic director and football coach last month, served in Europe with the Army Air Force during the war. In 1945, he coached the Thunderbolts to the A. E. F. football championship.

Curran's rich football background also includes three years of playing end at Notre Dame under Coach Frank Leahy. He also coached the Notre Dame High team in New Haven, Conn. for a season.

He'll have to start parctically from scratch with Landon's football team. The only regulars back are 200-pound Center Bill Earnest and 150-pound End Dick Johnson.

His young backfield is fast and he has a promising passer in Len Banfield, but the Landon line is light, except for Earnest.

Alternately Quarterbacking Curran's combination single wing and T attack will be Dick Stoever, star tennis player, and Lew Rawlings. They are the two fastest men on the team.

Bill Brawner and Win Faulkner are showing promise at fullback, while Banfield and Tom Barrett look like the starting halfbacks.

Six Games Open Metro Grid Loop

Because Trinidad Boys Clubmen withdrew from the Metropolitan Amateur Football League's competition yesterday, six games, rather than the seven originally scheduled, will open 1948 action on local and nearby gridirons Sunday.

As a result of this development, Southwest Merchants, 160-pound champion, draws a bye over the weekend.

Other 160-pound contests will involve Brookland-Woodridge Merchants vs. Riverside Rollers, Gonzaga, 1 p. m., and Arrow Linen vs. Anacostia Lions, Rosedale, and Northeast Body Works vs. Webb Aircraft, Fletcher Field, 2 p. m.

Sunday's unlimited games bring together Car Credit vs. Alperstein's Department Stores, Gonzaga, 3 p. m., and Arlington Merchants vs. Anacostia Eagles, Fairlawn, and Silver Spring A. C. vs. Falls Church Garage, Falls Church, Va., 2 p. m.

Cards Open NFL Title Defense

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Chicago Cardinals will inaugurate this city's National Football League season and the defense of their championship in Comiskey Park tomorrow night against the Philadelphia Eagles, 1947 runnerup.

If previous games between the two teams provide any standard, the Cardinals' passing attack may be slowed up by the Eagles' famous eight-man line. The Eagles, on the other hand, boast a high-powered aerial game of their own. Tommy Thompson, Philadelphia's No. 1 quarterback completed 106 passes for 1680 yards and 16 touchdowns last season.

DiMag, Williams Lead Press Poll

New York, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams, two of the greatest baseball stars of modern times, led the voting today as unanimous choices for the United Press American League All-Star team, selected by a board of 24 veteran baseball writers, three from each league city.

And only one vote behind came Lou Boudreau, the great shortstop-manager of the Cleveland Indians, who received 23 out of the 24 votes for his position.

Elste Scores In Senior Golf

Defending champion George Elste of Baltimore ousted Medalist Martin F. McCarthy of Columbia 3 and 2, yesterday in the quarterfinals of the Maryland State Senior Golf Tournament at Columbia Country Club.

J. R. Miller of Manor, 1944 titlist, scored a 1 up victory over George Tormey, the '45 champ.

The other quarterfinals matches resulted in a 4 and 3 victory for Dr. W. R. McLister of Washington over A. H. Stump of Green Spring Valley, and a 3 and 2 triumph for Commander Philip Hambsch of the Naval Academy over R. A. Mahar of Columbia.

In today's semifinals, Elste meets McLister at 12:30 p. m. and Miller faces Hambsch at 12:35. Finals are Saturday.

Kaiser Boat Here for Race

The Fleur du Lac, newly constructed Gold Cup speedboat owned by Henry Kaiser, West Coast shipbuilder, was launched in the Potomac yesterday in preparation for its entry in the President's Cup Regatta finale off Hains Point tomorrow and Sunday.

Kaiser himself piloted the Allison-powered speedster in a warm-up for the big race but he indicated that the boat would be driven by Max Collins, his chief mechanic, in the starting heat Saturday at 4:40 p. m.

Other entries on the river yesterday were Stanley Dollar's Skip Along, and the only Washington boat, the Tomadge IV, owned by Tommy Keane.

General Chairman James A. Councilor, jr., announced that at least 11 other powerboats will arrive here today, indicating that a starting field of 15 may be on hand by Saturday.

Terps to Leave Two at Home

The University of Maryland football squad tapered off preparations today for the season opener against Richmond Saturday with a light workout.

Coach Jim Tatum said two squad members who were expected to see a lot of action under the lights in Richmond will not make the trip because of injuries suffered in a scrimmage against Penn last Saturday. They are Bernie Sniscak, a fast back, and Marv Kramer, 227-pound reserve tackle.

Slaughter Now Out of Hospital

Boston, Sept. 23 (AP).—Enos (Country) Slaughter, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, was discharged today from St. Elizabeth's Hospital after treatment for a fractured nose suffered in yesterday's game against the Boston Braves.

Slaughter was struck on the bridge of the nose by a Nippy Jones line drive in the fourth inning yesterday as he ran from first to second on a hit and run play.

Baby Adoption Racket Curbed By New Law

Stringent regulations governing child placing agencies were adopted yesterday by the District Commissioners to put an end to baby bartering here.

The regulations, based on Public Law 292 passed by the Seventy-eighth Congress, also provide for supervision of such agencies to guarantee high professional standards.

Teeth were provided for enforcement of the ordinance through the portion providing fines of up to $500 and/or 90 days' imprisonment for violations.

Ends Long Fight

Yesterday's action brought to successful culmination the fight for several years of civic and social groups to curb the baby brokerage racket flourishing here. Numerous complaints of fees of up to $5000 charged by doctors and lawyers for arranging adoptions had been filed.

About seven agencies now operating can qualify under the new code, according to Fred S. Kogod, a member of the citizens' committee which drew up the regulations with the Board of Public Welfare.

Under the ordinance no fees of any kind can be accepted for placing babies. All child placing agencies must be licensed and any individual or agency is expressly forbidden to place a child without a license.

Trained Staffs Needed

Agencies are required to maintain a professionally trained staff to supervise children through frequent visits to foster homes. Standards of professional training for staff workers and their supervisors are also provided.

Further, the agencies must be headed by an executive of "demonstrated supervisory or administrative experience with a knowledge of social work sufficient to gain community understanding and support of the program of the agency."

Child placing agencies may arrange for adoption of children only after they have determined:

That separation from the family is necessary in the child's best interests.

That the child is legally free for adoption.

That prospective parents by adoption are fit and suitable through consideration of circumstances, environment and background.

Quintet Sings Appealingly At Church

By Paul Hume

When Howard Thurman left Howard University's school of religion to become copastor of San Francisco's Fellowship Church of All Peoples, Washington lost a great citizen.

Last night we were reminded of Dr. Thurman's spirit as the Fellowship Qdintet from that church sang in Asbury Methodist Church. Their program was drawn from a standard repertoire of sacred music, including quartets, solos and spirituals arranged for male quartet and soprano solo.

Corinne Williams, serving both as accompanist for the quartet, and soloist introduced the music of the program. The voices of the four men blend well, and have an unusually appealing sound. Raymond Fong, Chinese-American baritone, Emory Mellon, Negro bass, William von Seiden and Joseph Van Pelt, tenors, formed the ensemble.

Greatest appeal came in the unaccompanied spirituals where Mrs. Williams' remarkable vocal sympathy made a touching foil for the men's singing. But beyond any musical consideration was the warm spirit of the group. These musicians of the church display a harmony which is no less musical than religious, and no more religious than democratic.

Mrs. Norton To Quit Social Agencies Post

Mrs. Catherine Harahan Norton, acting executive secretary of the Council of Social Agencies since July, 1946, will retire October 1.

Mrs. Norton

it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Norton's retirement was prompted by reasons of health. However, she will continue as a member and secretary of the council's board of directors.

This 10-member board will supervise property and building fund accounts during the two-year trial period of the United Community Services of Washington, successor to the council and the Washington Community Chest.

Mrs. Norton's father, the late William J. Harahan, was president of four railroads and helped develop the Community Chest in Richmond.

Mrs. Norton obtained a bachelor's degree at Trinity College here. She later received a master's degree at the College of William and Mary. She also attended the New York School of Social Work and the Catholic University School of Social Work.

Mrs. Norton, in 1941, became supervisor of agency field work at the public assistance division here for students of the National Catholic School of Social Service.

She joined the council in 1943 as secretary for the family and child welfare division.

Postal Supervisors Reelect McMahon Head

Los Angeles, Sept. 23 (AP).—The National Association of Postal Supervisors today reelected John A. McMahon, of Boston, as president.

Jesse V. Horton, of Kansas City, was reelected first vice president; Lawrence T. Woolley, of Cleveland, Okla., second vice president; Francis A. Thethewey, of Scranton, Pa., third vice president; Jesse H. Wakefield, Nashville, Tenn., secretary, and Michael C. Nave, Chicago, treasurer.

The supervisors adopted resolutions supporting a loyalty program for Government workers, another calling for pay increases commensurate with similar positions in private enterprise, extra longevity pay, and an increase in sick leave from 10 days to 15 days, and annual vacations ranging from 15 to 26 days a year.

New Officers Installed by Synod Women

Staunton, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—The forty-fourth annual meeting of the "Women of the Church" of the Presbyterian Synod of Virginia closed here today with the installation of newly elected officers.

The meeting has been in session during the past two days in the Augusta Presbyterian Church near Staunton.

Officers installed were:

Mrs. Paul K. Buckles, of Newport News, president; Mrs. C. Perry Nair, Jr., of Clifton Forge, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. E. Beard, of Fairfax, secretary, spiritual life and evangelism; Mrs. Hugh Day, of Baltimore, Md., secretary, Christian education, and Mrs. Roy L. Creasy, of Petersburg, secretary of literature.

During the meeting, this representative body of more than 35,000 Presbyterian women of the Synod of Virginia heard reports on work achieved by their organization during the past year and made plans for the advancement of their work during the coming year.

One of the features of the session was a series of addresses by Mrs. C. S. Harrington, of Houston, Texas, an official delegate from the Presbyterian Church U. S. to the World Council of Churches recently held in Amsterdam. Mrs. Harrington reported on some of the personages present at the World Council, the manner in which the council's business was transacted, and some of the results achieved.

In the closing message of the retiring president, Mrs. Donald W. Richardson of Richmond, called the women to a more complete consecration. She also expressed her appreciation of those with whom she had worked during the past three years.

Bermuda Due For Tail Lash Of Hurricane

Miami, Fla., Sept. 23 (AP).—The two-fisted hurricane that mauled Cuba and Florida continued on its way up the Atlantic tonight, threatening to sideswipe Bermuda with gale-force winds.

A Weather Bureau advisory said the storm was about 160 miles southeast of Wilmington, N. C., moving northeast to east northeast at 19 miles an hour.

Strongest winds are still near 100 miles an hour and gales extend outward 250 miles from the center, with hurricane winds over a 50-mile radius.

The center is expected to pass northwest of Bermuda near noon Friday, with heavy gales near hurricane force likely to sweep the island resort.

Montgomery Holds 3 for 2 Robberies

Three men charged with taking $1674 in goods from stores in Herndon, Va., and Gaithersburg, Md., yesterday were ordered held for action of Montgomery County grand jury under $5000 bond each.

Montgomery County police said the three defendants, Paul R. Dunagan, 23, of 6539 Walhunding rd., Glen Echo; Frank F. Natoli, 20, of 3421 Q st. nw. and Junior B. Shahan, 29, of 2403 Pennsylvania ave. nw., were arrested September 16 in a District rooming house by Washington police.

When arrested they had in their possession $739 worth of tools and household appliances taken from Southern States Cooperative, Gaithersburg, and $935 in drug store supplies stolen from the Herndon, Va., pharmacy, police said.

Detectives said that after the hearing in Rockville Police Court yesterday the men told them they would make no effort to meet bond as they expected to be served with warrants for the Herndon robbery.

Bolivian Rightists Held In Attack on Minister

La Paz, Bolivia, Sept. 23 (U.P.)—Mario Diez de Medina, leader of the extreme right wing national revolutionary movement, and two other party members were arrested today, following an attack three days ago on the home of Interior Minister Alfredo Mollinedo in which the minister's chauffeur was injured.

2 Policemen Get Plastered For Science but Thoroughly

Cleveland, Sept. 23 (U.P.)—Two policemen got plastered today in what started out to be a scientific experiment but ended in a laughing jag.

The guinea pigs were Walter Schaffer, 52, and John Andres, 33, who became deliberately drunk to test a gadget that was supposed to measure extent of intoxication.

The pair drank half a fifth of 86.8 proof whisky. Before the "test" started, Schaffer and Andes were asked to sort decks of cards into suits and then in numerical order. Schaffer performed the feat in 3 minutes 44 seconds; Andes in 2 minutes 12 seconds.

After six 1-ounce shots of the booze, each volunteer blew breath into a balloon. The balloons were deflated into a chemical mixture which changes color when alcohol is introduced. Results showed Schaffer already intoxicated and Andes "not quite drunk."

Next they were given the card test again. Schaffer stunned the onlookers by sorting the cards more rapidly than when he was sober, but in arranging spades numerically he put the 10 after the 4, the 7 after the 10.

It took Andes 4 minutes and 14 seconds longer to sort his cards.

Virginia History Relived

IT IS THE "Story Hour" in the lovely Wren house, built in 1770 by Col. James Wren, grandson of Sir Christopher Wren, as Mrs. Raymond Clark reads an old legend to little Catherine Doyle. The residence will be one of the 10 open to the public Sunday afternoon for the Old Homes Tour, an event of the three-day Falls Church Festival opening today at noon

SCENE of the pageant, which will climax the festival Sunday night, is enacted above by residents of the Virginia community. They depict a colonial wedding in front of the Old Falls Church. At left, Master Stephen Bischoff gazes at the bridal couple. Lon Allison is the "bridegroom," and his "bride" is Mrs. William T. Davies. Helen Blanding plays role of train-bearer

Mrs. Bowen to Say Farewell

Gen. and Mrs. Ralph Wooten Greeted at Round of Parties

By Marie McNair

GEN. AND MRS. RALPH WOOTEN'S allegiance to the town where they spent happy years, has brought them back for a month's visit to Washington. And at the same time, Mrs. Harold G. Bowen, wife of the admiral, is preparing to say farewell.

His tour of duty as commandant of the Seventh Air Force, having come to an end General and Mrs. Wooten left Honolulu by plane early in September, made a leisurely trip across the continent by motor, stopped in Oregon for fishing, and visited friends along the way to the East.

They're at Wardman Park now and missing their charming Georgetown home which they sold before leaving Washington a year ago last spring.

Touching Reunion

Old friends from the service have been welcoming the Wootens back with a series of small parties arranged in their honor.

A reunion which touched Mrs. Wooten's heart the most took place a few days ago in Annapolis. It was the ninety-sixth birthday anniversary of an aunt, Mrs. Samuel Graham, a Navy widow who gathered a round dozen cousins and Nieces around her for a birthday dinner celebration.

Just where the Wootens will light when time comes for the general's retirement is a question yet to be settled. Washington climate is notoriously unfavorable for sinus sufferers, of which General Wooten is one. Meanwhile, with no definite plans but to enjoy them-

The "YOU" Look

In a world where so many women are trying to be Someone Else, the only way for a smart woman to be "different" is to be Herself.

Admiral Gives an Order

The admiral for the last year has made his headquarters in New York as a director for the Thomas Jefferson Foundation, and has been commuting to Washington for weekends.

Hotel rooms and restaurant food have begun to pall, so in a few weeks Mrs. Bowen will be packing up and leaving the Washington she loves.

A former Ambassador to this country, Senor Jimenez will be accompanied by Senora de Jimenez, and the former President and his wife are expected to spend the weekend here as guests of the present Ambassador and Senora de Vallarino. Senora de Jimenez is a sister of the Ambassador.

Woman, 49, Mother of Four, Only Child Of Aging Parents, Gets Doctor's Verdict That She's Mortally Ill; Should She Tell?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Married 27 years, the mother of four children, ranging in ages from 3 to 19 years, I am the 49-year-old "only child" of sixtyish parents; and theoretically I married "far beneath" myself, but my husband is the kindest, wisest man I've ever known.

In youth I had every advantage that two doting, extravagant parents of considerable means could bestow upon me; every advantage except responsibility, that is; and my husband's fondest expression is that he "brought me up." I never so much as seletced my own clothes until after marriage.

Now the situation is reversed. My parents ask me what to do, and my husband gives me the deciding vote, as do my children, even though they have been taught all their lives to think for themselves. I think I can say without bragging that I am the family pivot.

My husband has always traveled, and due to babies, measles, schooling, etc., I've seldom gone with him. Mostly I have stayed home and kept things running smoothly, although Dan's absences were sometimes of five-year duration. He is in South America now, due home in November.

Regains Composure but Needs Guidance

SO MUCH for background. Now for the problem. Three days ago my physician gave me the verdict: I have, at the outside—with all sorts of care—two years to live. At first I reacted in a distrait manner. In privacy I wept, railed against fate, pitied my family, my husband, etc.; and until the red haze lifted I was incapable of coherent thought.

To the children, "mother had another spell," but finally I came out of it. I am still at a loss, but calm, after praying day and night for guidance. I realize that no one lives forever and actually I am fortunate to be forewarned. I have time to put my house in order and make peace with my God.

But what to do? Should I write this to my husband? I cannot tell my parents. They are old and life sometimes frightens them now, and I don't want to be a wet blanket. I don't want the children to be afraid, to hate to laugh or enjoy themselves, etc. Perhaps you sense my half-formed decision, but what would you do?

L. R.

Confide in Husband, Talk to Specialists

DEAR L. R.: Your decision to spare your parents and children knowledge of the doctor's verdict is altruistically fine and praiseworthy; but in my opinion, your husband should be told.

You will be sparing him remorse in after years by doing so; and a burden shared is lighter by half. The next two years may be the most precious of all you've had together, if he is given opportunity to companion you in spirit through the final trial; and as the "wisest, kindest man" you've ever known, he will feel privileged to consciously serve as "thy rod and thy staff" in the last miles together. Of this I am sure.

She'll Gain Poise by Sharing Burden

MORE THAN THAT, you will need quiet, fully understanding moral support in months to come, such as he is best qualified to give, if you are to cope with encroaching illness and retain composure in concealing its significance from others mentioned. So let him hear, without delay, the substance of the doctor's findings and prognosis; and pledge him, word of honor, not to divulge it to the family.

If he sees fit to return from South America immediately, arguing that he will be happier here than there, regardless of business scrapped or shelved, don't protest; give him his head. However, whether he comes or not, the next order step is to get a consensus check from specialists, to weigh against the doctor's verdict; and get it immediately. His views may be unduly pessimistic, and science, roused in time, might move to the rescue yet; and in any event, for the sake of certitude, more wise heads than one should be consulted in this case. M. H.

Gentle Laughs Department

'Seer-Sucker' or Wool— Form Fabric of Story From President's Train

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

NOW that "coolth" is upon the town, a few gentle laughs aren't amiss. Newscaster and Former OWI head Elmer Davis, entraining on the presidential cross-country oratory junket, dropped a daisy Wallace story. It was retrieved and forward passed by smart Henrietta Poynter who, jointly with her Floridian husband, created and manages the Congressional Quarterly.

A couple of pro-and-con Wallaceites were, as usual, hotly discussing authorship of the notorious Guru letters. "Wallace never could have written such bunk," cliched an earnest follower, "he's not that kind of guy—why, he's all wool and a yard wide!" "All wool?" sneered a cynical Republican, "you mean he's all seersucker!" (Seer-sucker, get it?)

Under pain of severe censure from His Majesty's government we relay the following, dutifully resisting an almost overwhelming temptation to name a name. A newly arrived British general assigned to the Combined Chief of Staffs setup was touring the War College with an American colonel. They came upon some colorful prints depicting the War of 1812.

"Prints of the War of 1812," replied the colonel.

"War of 1812?" puzzled the general. "Who were you fighting?"

"We were fighting you, sir," mumbled the embarrassed colonel, mixing facts slightly. "Don't you remember, the British burned Washington?"

"Burned Washington!" The general was thunderstruck. "We burned Joan of Arc, I know—but never Washington!"

Air Salute to Youth

PERHAPS more mature Washingtonians do not realize that this is National Youth Month. A few of the more active local organizations are doing various constructive things about the above situation. Next Sunday, for instance, over at the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit field in Anacostia, the Navy's Captain Funk is holding open house at 1:30 p. m.

Afterward William C. Piper (so there really is a Mr. Piper!) is going to present one of his Piper Cub planes to the Girl Scouts. Boy Scouts are invited, too, but Mr. P. evidently likes girls and is handing out no gifts to members of his own sex.

As far as we know, the Girl Scouts are not going to fly the plane and it's going to tour the country on a publicity job. After the presentation ceremony the Navy is obligingly staging quite an air show. Lieut. Comdr. "Dusty" Rhodes and his bunch of stunt flyers, who are known as the Blue Angel unit, will do flip-flaps. There is to be an on-ground exhibition of the Navy's combat planes and it's rumored but not confirmed that five Marine jet fighters will whoosh north from their Cherry Point base to delight the kiddies. Anyone with the strength to get to Anacostia can ogle all this for free.

In the French Manner

AFTER Hollywood chow most repasts hereabouts seem blander than creamed spinach. However, Mme. Bonnet over at the French Embassy can usually be counted upon for a new twist. When the Ambassadress gave a dinner for Pierre de Gaulle, the president of Paris' Municipal Council and equivalent of mayor, the menu was Gallically gay. Down the left in big red letters was printed the word PARIS. Each course fitted the lead letter:

P—otage au veloute de homard
Filets de Sole
A—lexandra.
Filet de Boeuf
R—enaissance
Salade
I—rma
Bombe
S—uccess

A lot of fun and good mental exercise for both chef and hostess!

"ALL AROUND THE TOWN," is the name of the distinctive wallpaper which sets the pace for furnishing the model library in the show. Mr. Owen's design is a New York panorama, freely drawn in metallic gold, silver, and copper on chocolate brown. It gives the room a carefree, modern air and seems to expand the walls with its three-dimensional perspective. Modern, traditional and Chinese features are successfully combined in furnishing the room

One-Man Show Features Wallpaper

By Lucia Brown

WALLS of beauty and distinction will be the center of attraction at a "one-man show" which opens here Saturday. It's an exhibit of hand-screened wallpaper designs by Wilbert E. Owen of Old Stone Mill, Adams, Mass., and it will be found at Woodward & Lothrop's.

If you're facing bare walls and empty walls these days—or just the prospect of doing over your present surroundings—you'll find a wealth of ideas in this unusual show.

Decorators have built two furnished rooms and six sectional groupings around the handsome wallpapers of Mr. Owen. The paper not only establishes the color scheme for each setting, but suggests the style and proportion of other furnishings. Draperies, furniture, rugs and accessories are keyed to the skillfully tinted designs.

Owen's Raleigh House was used in the model dining room—a formal Georgian room suited to elaborate and gracious entertaining. The wallpaper pattern, inspired by iron grille work, is outlined in two shades of green on a "willow-green" background.

For the other model room, an executive's home library, the wallpaper was selected first, too. Called "All Around the Town," its panoramic view of New York is freely drawn in metallic gold, silver and copper on chocolate brown. Against this background, modern, traditional and Chinese furnishings are effectively combined.

Chinese Figurines is the title of one of the wallpapers featured in a platform group in the show. It's a large pattern of graceful coolie figures, standing on intricately scrolled wall brackets. The background is light gray, with the softly shaded motif in white, grayish beiges and browns, set off by two tones of green.

Birds, ribbons and flowers, a traditionally sentimental combination, takes on bold, modern proportions in Bird Cages, a large design particularly suitable for one-wall treatment. Light blue on a deep blue ground are accented by greens and a bright cherry red.

These and other designs in the show were selected from approximately 70 patterns by Mr. Owen, who has done extensive historic research on furniture, fabrics and wallpaper in both this country and Europe. He has gathered one of the largest private libraries on colors, a subject in which he is particularly interested.

The public is invited to lectures on the decorative use of wallpaper by Mr. Owen, tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday, at 11 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 4 p. m., on the sixth floor of the store. He will also demonstrate the hand-screening process in connection with his talks.

About Christmas Gift Idea

I have an original and unique idea for a Christmas gift card which I would like to put before the public for use since it has brought so much pleasure to friends and acquaintances. The question is, just what procedure should I take to protect my idea before having it printed? Is it necessary to have the idea copyrighted? If so, how should I go about this? I would appreciate any information you suggest regarding the above since, if possible, I would like to get the setup before Christmas of 1948.
E. A. B.

There is a wholesale greeting card firm on Wisconsin ave. with which you can discuss your idea. You can reach the firm by calling Michigan 2050. Its members have had a wide experience with just this sort of thing and they are qualified to advise you as they have advised others in the past. After they have seen your idea, if it is truly a new one, they will give you the addresses of reputable firms who purchase such ideas. If you deal with a reputable firm it is not necessary to have the idea copyrighted as a protection.

However, if you wish to copyright the idea before showing it to anyone, this can be done through the Copyright Division at the Library of Congress. If the idea is predominately written matter, it should be submitted in printed form to the copyright office for the register, the notification of that register to be affixed to the printed form. If the idea consists primarily of a drawing or picture, you may submit an unpublished copy to register it for copyright. The copyright fee is $4 and the copyright is valid for 28 years with the right of a renewal at the end of that period for another 28 years.

Will you print a recipe for bubble-making solution, giving the amounts of soap or soap flakes and glycerine or whatever else is added? M. M. M.

A very satisfactory bubble solution can be made by using liquid shampoo and water. Use as much shampoo as water. For colored bubbles, add vegetable food colorings.

My daughter, age 11, in the last month has developed very rapidly. She has a breaking out on her forehead, chin and nose. She keeps her face thoroughly clean, keeps away from sweets and has been drinking lots of water, but we have seen no improvement. Is there something more we should do? I do not want her face harmed. How long does a condition of this nature last? E. M. S.

I'm sorry, but we do not discuss medical problems in this column. I would suggest you discuss this problem with your family physician.

How can I clean a gold-leaf frame? L. W. D.

If the frame is real gold leaf, I'd advise having it cleaned by an expert. A firm that does such work can be reached by telephoning National 1739.

Gilded picture frames can be cleaned at home, but you have to be very careful as the thin gilding can be easily injured by rubbing. A mixture of half-and-half alcohol and household ammonia is used for this purpose, applied with a camel's hair brush. Paint it on with the brush, leave a very few minutes to soften the dirt, then remove with clear water, also applied with a soft brush. Water that remains is shaken off—not wiped—and the frame is stood on edge to dry naturally.

Can you tell me how to remove white paint from a mahogany dresser? The dresser rubbed against the paint while we were moving. E. B. S.

Cover spots with linseed oil. Let stand until paint is softened. If paint proves stubborn, rub with a mixture of rottenstone or powdered pumice and linseed oil (either raw or boiled will do), mixed to the consistency of thin cream.

2 Post Editors Made Md. U. Instructors

The University of Maryland announced yesterday it will set up a special group of courses leading to the bachelor of arts degree in journalism.

Dr. Jack Y. Bryan, a professor of English and former news and public relations man, said he had received a go-ahead from the university deans who make up the administrative board.

Dr. Bryan also announced the addition of two part-time instructors to the faculty. Walter Wood, picture editor of The Washington Post, will teach news reporting and the reporting of public affairs. Robert H. Estabrook, a member of The Washington Post editorial staff, will teach editorial writing.

The addition of these courses makes available about 30 credit hours in journalism. Candidates for the degree will be required to include another 39 hours in history, government, psychology and social studies among their 120 hours for a degree.

Dr. Bryan said the courses, together with others he is formulating, are designed to give preparation for careers in newspaper writing and editing, magazine writing and editing, publicity and public relations, Government correspondence, the teaching of journalism and commercial information service.

The university has not offered the bachelor degree in journalism previously, but has been working for some time on the possibility of establishing a special department in the school of arts and sciences.

The university asked the Maryland Press Association to name a committee to work with it on plans for the new division and Eugene T. Gunning, city editor of the Cumberland Times, was named head of the group.

Drill Cores In 'Library' At Bluemont

By Frank E. Taylor
Associated Press Staff Writer

Uncle Sam has turned from balloons to burrowing in building an underground mine "library" in Virginia.

At Mount Weather, near Bluemont, Va., Government workers are storing mine drill cores from exploratory drilling. These cores are the "books" to which reference may be made in future years concerning minerals found in sample drilling.

At the same time, a Bureau of Mines official told a reporter, the workers are conducting experiments in hard rock mining at the former weather station.

Weather Observatory Originally

The Mount Weather property of 80 acres and a half dozen buildings atop the Blue Ridge Mountains in Loudoun County was discontinued as a weather station some 30 years ago. It was established to explore the upper air by means of kites and balloons, but was abandoned because the site was too near the ocean for satisfactory observations.

The exploring underground is proving a much more satisfactory project, the official said.

The site is described as well suited to the mining experiments because of the uniform hard rock formation there. The staff, headed by Wing G. Agnew, a mining engineer, conducts tests of mining equipment as well as methods of drilling and blasting hard rock.

Storage Space in Tunnels

The staff is aiding presently in a search for some material satisfactory as a substitute for expensive diamonds used in some drills.

The experimental mining has resulted in nearly half a mile of tunnels for storage space. Cores are sent there from throughout the Eastern States.

The cores — long cylindrical pieces of minerals—are tagged and stored on racks. They form, it was explained, a permanent and tangible record to complement reports from the bureau's field projects.

6 Tours Set This Weekend

Nature, history, exercise and insects will be the goods offered this weekend by National Capital Parks.

The National Parks Service branch is giving six tours or "walks" during the weekend to those Greater Washington area residents who like to do a litle something different on their days off.

The historical tour this week is of Arlington National Cemetery and Lee Mansion and will begin at the memorial entrance to the cemetery at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

From 2:30 p. m. to 5 p. m., people who want to see how insects and spiders live on a "jungle island" can roam over Roosevelt Island. The party will be organized at the boat landing near Wisconsin ave. and K st. nw. A 25-cent charge will be made for the round-trip ferry ride to the island.

In Upper Rock Creek Park, a group will meet at 16th st. and Alaska ave. nw. at 3 p. m. Saturday for a two-hour walk and an opportunity to find out about moss life.

For Sunday morning early risers there is a 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. bird walk in Oxon Run pkwy., starting at South Capitol st. and Livingston rd. se.

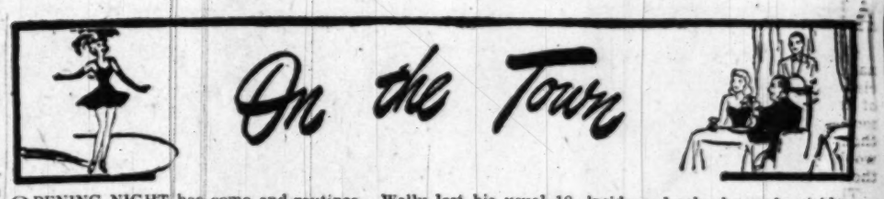
C. & O. Canal barge excursions will be made on both Saturday and Sunday, starting at 2 p. m. from the Foundry Branch dock at Canal rd., Foxhall rd. and M st. nw., and at 4:30 p. m. from Lock 5, Brookmont, near Stop 24 on the Glen Echo carline. Barge tickets may be purchased at the 1416 F st. office of the Capital Transit Co.

Interpretation of historical exhibits in the museum at Fort Washington will be given from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Saturday and Sunday by a park service historian.

Commerce Aide Talks Trade in Venezuela

Caracas, Venezuela, Sept. 23 (U.P.) Thomas D. O'Keefe, special assistant to the United States Secretary of Commerce, was received today by President Romulo Gallegos. United States Ambassador Walter J. Donnelly attended the interview.

It was understood they discussed chiefly the status of large Venezuelan government orders for machinery, implements and building materials from the United States.



OPENING NIGHT has come and gone for the Club Cairo and if that first night can be considered a criterion the spot is here to stay. Of course, there was the opening-night confusion, but that's half the fun. The place was filled and the ropes were up at the door (an event that's almost worth a mention in Ripley when it happens in Washington) shortly after the first show started. The smiles on the faces of the Messrs. Wasser and Biron, who own the place, were almost as wide as the door the customers were trying to get through.

The show was a fast-moving one, topped by show stopper (and we mean just that) Sonny Skylar. Sonny, who penned such songs as "Amour," "Waitin' For the Train to Come In" and others, gave a short resume of his numbers, then worked off into some amusing parodies that were clever without being too shady. He has a toast concerning the love of two drunken bums for each other that we'd like to have for our collection. Can do, Sonny?

Artie Dann used an old hat to good advantage for his share of laughs. If he and Durante were put nose to nose Dann would overshadow the famous "Schnoz" by feet, we're sure.

The Wally Wanger gals make a toothsome sight with some wonderful costumes and evenly spaced routines. Wally lost his usual 10 pounds because of opening-night jitters for the girls.

The Andrew twins are New York talent with a fast tap routine and plenty of personality.

Seems some people were confused by our Wednesday column concerning the opening of the Cairo. Due to acute lack of concentration, some believed the Cairo had bought out the Casino Royal. Tain't so. And we hang our heads on the lack of concentration subject when we were informed (and how!) that we said the minimum would be two bucks every night. Friday and Saturday it'll be three bucks.

THE Interstate Society dances are featuring a contest to find a girl singer for the Howard Williams band. The girls will be given a tryout, after a screening by Williams, on Saturday nights. The winner will be offered a steady job as vocalist. Anyone interested in it can call Howard at WINX. Next month the society will feature a semi-formal dance the first Saturday in every month.

The Crossroads supper club has just installed life-size television and will be featuring the football games every Saturday and Sunday. Our ear in the wall says they'll be bringing in some topnotch talent as soon as they can get the contracts signed. Ralph Hawkins is back with his new orchestra, featuring Betty Madigan as his vocalist.

"Chris," who for so many years hosted it at Jean's, has taken over the Purple Iris Inn and done a wonderful job of making this restaurant into a showpiece. It's been redecorated inside and relandscaped outside. Yours truly hardly recognized it the other day.

Inflation fighter for the week: The La Piana is passing out a Pizza pie for the fourth part of a dollar. When we first heard of it we naturally thought it was only a slice. Nope, it's a whole pie, which is a meal in itself. It's served every night in the cocktail lounge after 8 p. m.

The Charioteers created a good sized musical flurry on their opening Wednesday night. The Jones Brothers, who're playing the Blue Mirror, were right there to cheer them on. P. S. The crowd did their share of cheering, too.

Guy Lombardo is still hanging them on the rafters in the Statler's Embassy Room. He closes there tonight. If you know a scalper with exceptional connections you might possibly be able to wangle a reservation in someone's lap. Certainly the headwaiter can't find another inch of room. Such loyal fans.

AMA Hits Share-Health Plan

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—The journal of the American Medical Association said today that "the amount of medical care that is given to most people of the world under their compulsory sickness plans would never satisfy the people of the United States."

The journal editorial was the first official AMA reply to the 10-year share-the-health program drafted by Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing and endorsed by President Truman.

The editorial said that if Mr. Truman or Mr. Ewing had evaluated the opinions of physicians attending the recent general assembly of the world medical association in Geneva "about what compulsory sickness insurance has been doing to medical practice in other countries—they would be perhaps a little less certain on the point that compulsory sickness insurance is the answer to difficulties in securing medical care."

COMING MONDAY

THE SAINT

By LESLIE CHARTERIS

Moviegoers know him; mystery-story readers know him. They know that The Saint is one of the charming rogues of all time—outside the law, yet helping the law, the debonair despair of police and criminals alike.

Monday The Saint will come to this newspaper as a comic strip. You'll agree that no mystery character compares with him. And you'll get the real "Saint" because the comic is being written by Leslie Charteris himself.

Traffic Signal Control Plan Is Shelved by the District

The District Department of Vehicles and Traffic announced in filing its budget request yesterday the shelving of a previously planned program for installation of a $400,000 centrally controlled traffic signal system.

The decision was made with an eye on the District Commissioners' directive to keep the lid on spending during the fiscal year starting July, 1949, and also because the type considered is still being explored by the industry, and is not yet "fully developed."

Instead, the department has decided to initiate a program of modernization of the existing traffic light system by replacing all controllers and installing duplicate and interchangeable master control equipment.

$38,000 Requested

A total of $38,000 was asked for the sprucing-up program as the start toward a five-year program. "Today more than half of the signal controllers in the city are over 10 years of age, and by the end of the program approximately 95 per cent" of the total will be that old, the report said.

The department warned that experience has shown that signal controllers of that age cannot be depended on to properly control traffic "without excessively high maintenance costs, and frequent breakdowns."

Other highlights of the department's $990,000 budget request—$145,300 more than the current appropriation—are:

1. Between 1500 and 2000 additional parking meters will be installed during the fiscal year, principally in secondary business districts previously untouched.

2. The percentage of vehicles rejected at initial inspections has been dropping and dipped as low as 46.9 per cent during the first six months of 1948.

Longer Waits Now

3. Waiting time at the two test stations reached the low average of 18 minutes per vehicle in 1947, but now has risen to 30 to 35 minutes even though the examination has become "little more than cursory" on some inspection items. For this reason the department requested eight additional workers, including four inspectors, to cope with an increasing work-load.

4. Washington has too few streets with center lines and marked crosswalks, according to safety officials, it was reported. For this reason, $7760 was asked for per diem employment of additional marking crews.

5. An additional $16,000 was requested for installation of new traffic control signals. "At present, there are at least 40 intersections where such signals are justified," the budget request noted.

One on the Aisle—

Madeleine Gilds Labored Comedy

By Richard L. Coe

MADELEINE CARROLL returns to the screen, after a long absence, in "An Innocent Affair" at the Capitol. Fred MacMurray, one of her frequent costars, shares the top spot with her in a comedy that has some good laughs, though on the whole the situations are pretty strained.

Still, there's no point in sneering at cider though it's marked champagne. This marital comedy is certainly out of a familiar barrel, but if you're not in too demanding a humor you'll find the stars mugging mildly funny. Ours being an uncertain world, even a frantic comedy has its place.

MacMurray plays one of those New York advertising men out to land a juicy account. His trouble is that perfume's "Mr. Fraser" happens to be a beautiful lady to whom he once was engaged. This prospective buyer's choice of gender comes to his wife's attention—Miss Carroll's.

Being a woman of spirit, she does what no wise wife should do. She hires a gigolo to whet the jealousy of Husband Fred, a device which an old friend quickly relays to him. So when Buddy Rogers sits down at an adjoining restaurant table, the couple thinks he's the gigolo. Madeleine flirts badly; Fred, thinking to anger her, accepts him in hearty fashion.

But the audience knows what the wedded couple doesn't. Buddy is in reality the syrupy Southerner he says he is, owner of a whacking cigarette firm out to find a good advertising man. You can take it up from there.

Apart from the difficulty that this is hardly the freshest idea to come from a scenarist's typewriter, it's one of those yarns that has to spin along to the ultimate peep. To keep it spinning are any number of gag scenes, mistaken identity angles and mug shots of Fred. However ragged they may seem to a well-worn screen-gazer, they at least got their laughs yesterday at the Capitol.

Miss Carroll hasn't too much to thank writers Lou Brelow and Joseph Hoffman for, but runs through their situations ably. She might have been better photographed, a purist will tell you, but her fair loveliness, however angled it may sometimes seem, is still welcome. MacMurray's efforts to push a laugh can't be called unsuccessful, but they're sometimes trying.

Another veteran returns with the appearance of Buddy Rogers as the baffled tobacco tycoon. Carolinians won't think much of his idea of their accent, but he retains that quiet charm which won him so many fans more years ago than his pictures might suggest. Alan Mowbray is on hand for a bright situation near the end of the film, and you'll also glimpse two other well-dressed ladies, Rita Johnson and Louise Allbritton.

Trim Stage Show

The Capitol's stage is a pleasant, even high-toned, place this week with several acts that have a facile grace about them.

Nip Nelson is the headliner, an easy-going fellow whose style makes it fun to swallow imitations you may feel you know too well to bear again. He slides effortlessly around a batch of people, doing a particularly neat job with Louella O. Parsons, the soapbox girl.

Margaret Phelan is something of a novelty in the way of gal singers, for both her style and material aren't the sort you generally find in so large a palace, which, say I, is all to the good. The unusual—"Ouvre ton coeur"—and the popular—"It's Magic"—she delivers with sleek style, and her encore, "My Complaint About Men," is a nifty. Cheers then, for a songstress who has tried to find something different without rewriting Cole Porter.

The Rigoletto Brothers and the Aimee sisters turn in an act of magic and foolishness, doing nicely, and the Whirlwinds, two couples on roller skates, open the bill.

Jody Miller, "Miss Washington of 1948," sings with the Kaufman Orchestra, revealing a mild voice but an exceptionally sweet and immensely likable personality.

"AN INNOCENT AFFAIR." United Artists release of a James Nasser production. Screen play by Lou Brelow and Joseph Hoffman. Photography by Edward Cronjager. Music by Hans Salter, with added songs by Walter Kent and Kim Gannon. Directed by Clarence Kurist. At the Capitol.

Reporter Answers For A Boy on a Bike

Glenn D. Dell of 622 39th ave., Capitol Heights, Md., passes along a clipping from a Mount Union (Pa.) newspaper, on the subject of "giving the kids the brakes."

It seems that a speeding driver up there narrowly missed hitting a child on a tricycle, and growled:

"Get the blankety blank outta the way, you! Don't you know any better than to ride your bike in the street?"

The reporter's answer was well nigh perfect. He said:

"No, the little boy doesn't know any better. He's been warned, but little boys don't always heed warnings. But some adults don't heed them, either. Especially warnings about speed limits.

"Children, my hasty friend, were here long before automobiles; and all the automobiles on earth are not worth the life of one little boy."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

With Capital Transit asking for higher fares, some pertinent questions suggest themselves:

1. Is it more economical to switch to buses? I think streetcars are more comfortable to ride in, and of course, don't have objectionable fumes.

2. Why can't transfers be good any place, instead of merely at transfer points? And just where are these transfer points? I've never been able to find out.

3. Will any part of the increased fares be used to inflict so-called music on the passengers?

E. A. M.
1803 19th st. nw.

Dear Miss M.:

A company spokesman gives these answers:

1. The economy of buses vs. streetcars depends on "circumstances." On the Benning rd. line, track repairs would have cost a lot of money. The switch to buses will permit lower capital expenditures to go on the company books, thereby will call for a lower return of profit (which in the long run means lower fares).

As for comfort: company surveys show that those who usually ride buses prefer buses; those who usually ride streetcars prefer streetcars. (I usually drive; prefer my auto).

2. A transfer is not meant to grant stopover privileges. Therefore a transfer point is the place where two lines intersect. If the two lines run together for some length, the point at which they separate again would also be a transfer point.

3. The company assures you that it will never SPEND any money to bring music into its vehicles. If somebody will PAY for the privilege of piping in music (and commercials) the company will consider the deal, "in an effort to keep fares as low as possible."

The current rate request aims (roughly) at a revenue increase of 25 per cent, or $2,250,000, "to provide a fair return on investment." If the music rights would bring in any portion of this revenue deficiency, the increase request could be that much smaller.

These are the company's answers to your questions. I'm an innocent bystander in this one.

Bill.

CRITIC

Do you have time for a quick story before you run for your bus?

Max was sophisticated. Very blase. He looked down his nose at everything.

Friend Herman took Max to the circus, where the acts were super. The strong man didn't lift weights, he lifted a full-grown elephant in each hand. Max sneered.

The trapeze artists didn't do double flips and catch each other's hands; they did triple turns and ended up with their feet entwined. Max yawned.

Finally, the tightrope walker balanced himself on his head, inched his way out to the middle of the wire, caught a clarinet that was tossed to him, and proceeded to play a hot solo.

This, thought Herman, would do the trick. He asked, "Well, Max, how about this guy?"

MISCELLANY

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. of Farragut st. nw. pose a problem I can't answer. They're Government workers, and so were most of their friends. But most of the friends have moved or been transferred, and no new friends have been developed to take their place. So: "How does one go about making new friends? What clubs or community projects do we join, what activities do we undertake?" That stumps me. The best answer I can give is: Turn to newspaper work. My trouble has never been making friends, but associating all the right names with the right faces . . . Bargain-hunters are invited to the Falls Church Park Festival today and tomorrow. "Many varieties of plants, shrubs and bulbs—at the lowest prices in town," says Marjorie L. Bouck of 305 E. Westmoreland rd., Falls Church, Va.—and she ought to know, because she's chairman of the committee . . . Lieut. Col. G. A. Hawkins, military instructor at Western High School, is trying to complete his files of the annual cadet publication now called the "Adjutant" but formerly known as the "Official Cadet Program." He's missing the issues for 1915 through 1919. If you have one of the missing copies, you can get Colonel Hawkins either at the school or at Ordway 3394 . . . A Mardi Gras for the benefit of the Safety Education Funds of Arlington, Alexandria and Fairfax will be held in Shirlington today and tomorrow, complete with exhibits, booths, games, a parade and a masquerade ball.

ARITHMETIC LOGIC

Overheard: "Divorce is no solution. Dividing the family merely multiplies the problem."

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—Robert Morley is in N. Y. now preparing for the Henry Sherek-Gilbert Miller production of his play, "Edward, My Son," which ran for years in London. Morley's career began with a stock company in Cornwall, where the actors borrowed furniture for the sets from the people in the neighborhood, in the hope that they'd come if only to see their furniture on a stage. The Cornwall project folded, and Morley gave away his grease-paint and decided that the theater was not for him . . . A few weeks later he was hired for £3 a week and grease-paint, to play "Oscar Wilde" for a theater group in London.

Morley was brought to N. Y. to play the Wilde role and won the unanimous praise of the critics. Then Henry Sherek, the London producer, told him: "If you ever find a costume play you'd like to do, I promise you I'll produce it." On September 1, 1939, in London, Morley called on Sherek with a script of "The First Gentleman," and said: "This is the costume play I'd like to do. I now call upon you to fulfill your promise" . . . "I can't," Sherek apologized. "I've been called up. I'm going into the Army tomorrow." . . . On the day after Sherek was released from the Army at the end of the war, Morley appeared at his office with the script of "The First Gentleman," and said: "Hello. Now about that play . . ."

Patricia Kirkland, the young actress and daughter of Nancy Carroll and playwright Jack Kirkland, went to school in Pennsylvania when she was a child. At a Bucks County Festival, Louis Calhern introduced the youngster to the head of Pennsylvania's Board of Education . . . "You're just the man I wanted to meet," said the child. "Why arithmetic?"

Orson Welles plans to make a screen version of "Othello" in Italy . . . Two months ago a cigarette company paid Robert Mitchum $3000 for an indorsement which was scheduled to be released next month . . . Paul Small, who produced three successful vaudeville ventures, will bring another one to N. Y., starring Ed Wynn, Phil Baker and Alan Jones . . . Maurice Maeterlinck's new book is being published in Monaco. It's called "Blue Bubbles," and is an autobiographic sketch of the first 20 years of his life.

Dixie Visit Opens Northern Eyes

By Drew Pearson

Last summer, when a lot of folks on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line were making faces at each other, this writer, with his usual propensity for sticking his nose into other people's business, suggested that it would be a mighty fine idea if we tried to understand some of the South's problems, and vice versa. Then perhaps we could all sympathize more and iriticize less.

Pearson

Following this suggestion, the live-wire Blue and Gray Association of Montgomery, Ala., invited a group of northerners to the seat of the old Confederacy to get better acquainted.

The northern folks who went down to Montgomery were picked from Rotary, the Lions Clubs, Kiwanis, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Civitan International and other service clubs which do such a good job for their communities and country.

When they got down there things went better than anyone expected. Primary purpose of the Blue and Gray Association is to get the North and South better acquainted through an annual football game, but in this case there was a round-table discussion of health, education, segregation, and Negro opportunities.

Southern leaders laid their cards on the table and Northern visitors asked all sorts of questions. Some of the questions were a little touchy, but the discussion was completely cordial, and perhaps the hottest debate was between two Northerners—Earl O. Shreve of Schenectady, N. Y., president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, who opposed Federal aid to education, and Kiwanian Ben Dean of Grand Rapids, Mich., who argued that if we could give Federal aid to highways we could also give it to schools.

North Reports on South

The discussion was frank, forthright and may have started an important exchange in North-South relations. Here are some of the reports written by Northerners.

S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia Rotary Club—"The feeling between Negro officials of the State Teachers' College and the white Southerners was most surprising to all of us. Sincere cordiality and respect was evinced by both black and white for each other. It is especially interesting that there is no discrimination betwene the salaries and benefits to white and Negro school teachers in Alabama.

"Many of us who were privileged to attend this meeting felt that with the proper type of white man, the progressive Negro has as good or better chance of success in the South than in the North."

Richard C. Bell, White Hall, Ill., director Lions International—"Negro education was an eye-opener to us Northerners. True, they had segregation, but it was quite apparent, during our visit, at least, that both races expected it. The two races mingled freely everywhere while on their feet, but immediately upon being seated the segregation rule went into full force and effect."

Charles Donley, Pittsburgh, Pa., past internationa' president of Kiwanis—"As a result of my trip I came to the conclusion that we in the North should end the circulation of partial, ill-considered reports on the South and should tidy up our own back yard. Northerners can only promote further discord by sniping criticism. All of us should help find a common ground for understanding."

Most important thing about this Blue and Gray Association meeting was the spirit behind it—a spirit which should lead toward many more round-table discussions between other groups in both the North and the South.

The Blue and Gray Association is out to raise a memorial to North-South understanding, to be located in Montgomery, cradle of the Confederacy. Hitherto they have raised money in rather meager amounts through an annual football game, played in December between representative teams of the North and the South.

This game is dedicated to sportsmanship and intersectional fellowship. And this year some of the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and other service clubs which have become interested in North-South understanding are becoming members of the Blue and Gray Association at $1 a throw, in order to raise money for a memorial commemorating the end of a great misunderstanding which divided two peoples, and the beginning of a new attempt to understand those two peoples' problems.

In the office of Gen. Lucius Clay, United States commander in Germany, are two books. One is called "Missouri Compromise," Tris Coffin's story of the Truman Administration, the other "Lost Illusion" by Freda Utley, a tale of life behind the Iron Curtain. Both books sum up the things that keep Lucius Clay's life a worried one.

First, Clay has considerable difficulty getting the Truman Administration to set a firm policy. Second, Clay has all kinds of trouble getting his opposite number on the Russian side of the diplomatic table, Soviet Marshal Sokolovsky, to keep his word.

Few people know it, but Sokolovsky, though one of Russia's best known generals, is watched every minute by Soviet secret police agents. In all negotiations a Russian political commissar, personally assigned by the Politburo, sits at Sokolovsky's right. He is the man who makes the real decisions.

Incidentally, Sokolovsky never has had his whole family in Berlin at one time. At least part of his family is kept in Russia—just is case the Soviet commander should develop any funny ideas about switching sides.
